Happy Birthday anyway, Canada

WALTER STEWART
FP News Service

OTTAWA — When I was a tad in Montreal, a kid down the street used to throw a big party every year. At this party, there were always the following ingredients:

— one cake with purple icing.

— half a dozen dumb games, with girls, including spin-the-bottle.

— six (or more) kids who ate too much purple cake and threw up.

— four fist-fights, usually, but not always, among the boys at the party.

My mother, when I would describe the fist-fights every year — they included myself on a regrettable number of occasions — would always ask me, "If that's the way it is, why do you go? " I would scuff my toe and say, "But we really like each other!"

Watching all the ranygazoo surrounding Canada's impending 113th birthday bash, I am a child again. I have not seen any purple cakes yet, but I know there are going to be a lot of dumb games, and the fist-fights, it sometimes seems, never stop.

A Canadian, which is to say, a person from a land that doesn't know its past and doesn't trust its future, must, on solemn occasions like this, ask himself the key questions:

In the light of past history, is it worth trying to hold this nation together?

In the light of recent history, do we have the will to do it?

After a certain amount of mulling, scratching and toe-scuffing, I am inclined to answer both with a Yes. I am less certain on the second than the first, but generally, as I told my mother, however it may look to outsiders, we really do like each other.

It is well to keep history in mind when cluck-clucking over the nation's fate. It seems at times — this is one of them — that the view from the bridge of our ship of state is not unlike that from the deck of the late, lamented, Titanic.

Alberta is outraged, Ontario is upset, Quebec stunned, British Columbia alienated, the Maritimes distressed and Newfoundland pressing for a new arrangement, under which it would be towed several hundred miles out onto George's Bank, and set up on its own, with Brian Peckford as Imperator.

Not only that, the economy is on sick leave, inflation is raging, unemployment is up, parliament is a laughing-stock, great Caesar's bust is on the shelf, and I don't feel so well myself.

What's to celebrate?

Well, for one thing, we're still here. Against expectation, common sense and in the teeth of the evidence, this ramshackle, unlikely, lovely land is holding together. That's one thing.

Here's another. Behind and below the bitching and squalling, we seem to be getting better at being a nation. Oh, the process is slow, and noisy, and irritating, but it's there.

A small symbol. When I was young, Canadians were ashamed to be Canadians. The idea of stirring up a fight over the words of O Canada would have seemed hilarious. Who ever sang it, anyway, except under a teacher's glower on state occasions at school?

My kids bellow it out; always have done, in English and French, and with some confusion about how many times to stand on guard, but they do it.

We are a more self-confident country than we were a few years ago. In the past, whenever things went wrong with our great and good neighbor, the United States, we always went, hat in hand, down to Washington to ask Uncle Sam to please, sir, stop thrashing about, because we were getting crushed. We whined for an exemption from the Interest Equalization Tax in 1963, we whimpered when Richard Nixon socked it to us with his Nixonomics in 1971. We were the worst snivellers on the block.

The other day, External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan, who looks like the class pantywaist, said a number of rude and truthful things to the Americans about their foreign policy. Now they're snivelling. Surely that's an advance.

Being here, and being stronger, is something. Canadians who haven't been through many of the shouting matches we stage at set intervals — i.e., Canadians less stricken in years than myself — need to be reminded that most of the noise is bluff and bluster.

I don't mean that the differences between Alberta and Ottawa, to pick an instance, are not real, or that the grievances on either side are not deeply felt. I mean that in a far-flung, disparate, disjointed country like our own, these tests of will and outbreaks of anger are bound to occur, have occurred

Killer hot spell refuses to die

Times News Services

A week-long killer heat wave that is still blistering the southwestern United States has been blamed for 42 deaths and has aggravated fires on tens of thousands of acres in the Colorado Rockies and Arizona.

The heat has killed millions of chickens at Arkansas poultry farms, and farmers are predicting losses as high as $5 million.

Peaches dried on the trees in Texas and, as the sun scorched pastureland, some farmers were rushing to cut hay early.

More than 25,000 acres were blazing in Arizona brush fires, and firefighters from Oregon, California and Montana joined forces in Colorado to battle uncontrolled fires.

On the Canadian prairies, a three-province soaking at the weekend will at least temporarily halt deterioration of crops and pastures.

The Winnipeg weather office said rainfall during a 48-hour period from 7 a.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Sunday ranged from a few millimetres in isolated spots to 45 millimetres in some of the driest regions of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Early-seeded crops have already suffered irreparable drought damage as far as potential yields are concerned. Those yields in the most severe districts will at best be half of normal.

In most cases — outside of Alberta and parts of western Saskatchewan which have received good moisture so far this year — it was the first substantial rain this year.

In Texas, temperatures soared to records across the sun-baked state. Wichita Falls's 44-degree reading shattered a 56-year-old record. The mercury soared to 42 degrees at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, 41 at El Paso, 40 in Lubbock and Abilene and 39 in Waco.

Heat stroke has claimed six victims, Texas medical examiners say, and the deaths of 28 other people may be related to the heat.

In Arkansas and Oklahoma, at least four people died in each state during the weekend because of the heat.

The temperatures pose the greatest threat to the elderly and poor, health officials say. But in Dallas County, a six-month-old child was among those who fell victim to the heat.

Texans were urged to stay out of the blazing sun and keep their air conditioners or fans going.

In Wichita County, Tex., sizzling temperatures were wilting crops in the field. "Rain and irrigation is the only thing that will save us now," said county agent Don Decker. "Fruit crops are severely damaged and peaches especially are turning into little knots."

In other parts of the United States, tornadoes and severe thunderstorms wreaked havoc from the Midwest to the Atlantic, forcing thousands of people to flee the Baltimore Zoo and causing power outages and numerous injuries in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio.

Some 4,000 people were enjoying an afternoon in the Baltimore Zoo Sunday when a tornado ripped through the grounds, downing hundreds of trees, injuring two people and killing three birds.

Meanwhile, raging thun-

Wettest June a shower away

One more shower before midnight and Victoria will have had the wettest June on record, the weather office said today.

As of midnight Sunday a total of 80.1 millimetres of rain had fallen during June, compared with a normal total of 29.5 mm for the full month.

The June record, in 1956, is 82.4 mm.

The weather office said scattered showers are expected this evening and there is a strong chance an all-time record will be set.

The additional 2.3 mm needed for the new mark is about the thickness of a dime.

There have been only 184 hours of bright sunshine during the first 29 days of June, compared with a normal total of 254.4 hours.

Temperatures have ranged from one to two degrees cooler than usual during the day but have been normal at night, due to the moderating effect of the cloud cover.

The rainfall since Jan. 1 has been up 25 per cent from normal levels, but most of this increase has come during the past six weeks.

Meanwhile, the immediate weather forecast on the coast is for an increasing amount of sunshine, but it's a relative term. The weather will continue to be mainly cloudy, with some scattered showers.

The outlook for the first half of July is for more cloud than normal.

77-1 'Yes' at Woodward's

Spokesmen for Woodward's and the Retail Clerks Union have expressed satisfaction with a first agreement for the Victoria food floor which ended a four-week strike.

Under the agreement, most workers will join the RCU as a condition of employment but the company retains the right to do the hiring.

"It was a compromise agreement," RCU president Rudy Krickan said today.

"We gave up a good deal but so did they. The important thing is we have signed a first agreement."

Employees approved the tentative agreement by a 77 to 1 vote.

Woodward's spokesman Bill Brown said the agreement reflects the company's position before the walkout.

The union got the same agreement it signed with the food chains, Brown said.

Union employees will not be taking part in the company's profit-sharing program and will not get employee discounts or the 20-minute coffee break enjoyed by non-union employees.

(However, they will get a 15-minute break as provided for in union agreements. The union said it gave up its request to join the profit-sharing plan very early in the negotiations).

Brown said the union made one significant gain, the right to sign up almost all the employees on the food floor at the Victoria store as a condition of employment.

"It is unfortunate the union took its members out on strike with a loss of four weeks pay to get what the company offered before the strike began," he said.

Wages had not been a serious point of contention.

Unionized shelf stockers, who were getting $445 a week for a 37½-hour week, now will get $425 a week for a 40-hour week, but also will receive an additional paid day off every second week. Clerks will receive $416 a week. Non-union shelf stockers will continue to receive $445 a week for a 37½-hour week.

Korea in coal deal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Kaiser Resources Ltd. will develop its $200 million Greenhills surface mine and coal preparation plant in southeastern B.C. as a joint venture with Pohang Iron and Steel Co. Ltd. of Korea, company chairman Edgar Kaiser Jr. said Sunday.

An agreement in principle for the project has been signed, subject to approval of the directors of both companies, the Korean government and the Canadian Foreign Investment Review Agency, Kaiser said in a press statement.

Kaiser, which will own 80 per cent of the project, is to build and operate the mine with capital, operating costs and profits pro-rated between the two companies, he said.

The agreement also provides for delivery to Korea of 500,000 metric tons of coal a year for 20 years.

Fatal crash on Malahat

An 87-year-old Oak Bay man died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today after receiving head injuries in a two-car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway in front of the Malahat Chalet Sunday afternoon.

Edwin Trueman, 2 - 1221 Beach, died at 6:05 a.m.

RCMP said the crash occurred around 4:30 p.m. when a northbound car driven by Roelof Bekker, 40, of Port Alberni, was in collision with the Trueman car as it pulled out of the chalet parking lot.

Bekker and the occupants of his car, and a passenger in the Trueman car, were not injured.

Damage to both vehicles totalled $5,000.

Volcano lava dome set to crack?

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Scientists getting their first good look into the crater of Mount St. Helens in more than a week said a red glow in the volcano was caused by superheated rocks, not fresh lava.

After a clear day Saturday, the volcano was closed in by clouds again Sunday, said Carl Burgeson, a spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Burgeson said geologists saw a 22-metre-long east-west crack glowing in a dome of crusted lava that has bulged up within the crater. They first believed the glow was new lava, but late Saturday determined it was rock glowing with heat from the magma, or molten rock, below.

The scientists saw only one dome forming in the crater, not two as some speculated earlier. The dome is still estimated to be 200 metres in diameter and about 70 metres thick, Burgeson said.

A steam plume, absent early Sunday, shot up to about 3,000 metres shortly after 8 a.m. "The plume has come and gone before, so scientists aren't too concerned," Burgeson said.

Harmonic tremors — which scientists say indicate the movement of magma within the volcano — returned to the mountain Saturday afternoon for about an hour, but at extremely low levels, said Liz Bjorkman of the University of Washington geophysics department.

The tremors were much smaller than those Friday, which had been the largest since the last volcanic eruption June 12, she said. Harmonic tremors were also noted before the eruptions May 18 and 25, and June 12.

An earthquake measuring less than 2.0 on the Richter scale shook the Elk Lake and Mount Margaret area northeast of Mount St. Helens late Saturday, but was not associated with the mountain, Ms. Bjorkman said.

Another quake, also measuring about 2.0, shook the Strait of Georgia area near Vancouver, B.C., late Saturday, causing residents to wonder whether Mount St. Helens had erupted, Ms. Bjorkman said. "Fortunately, there wasn't anything going on."

Meanwhile, the Boeing Co. says it has moved its flight training operation from Moses Lake, Wash., to Glasgow, Mont., rather than risk ash damage to new airplanes.

Pete Bush, company spokesman, said the move is temporary until the county airport at Moses Lake can clean up the ash that littered the field after the eruption of Mount St. Helens.

derstorms and 120 k/mh winds raked Southern Illinois, leaving up to 60,000 residents without electricity and causing up to $300,000 in damage in what some officials said was the worst storm in two decades.

Power company technicians and cleanup crews worked today to clean up debris and restore power to an estimated 20,000 residents. Hardest hit was Murphysboro, a town of about 10,000, where three tornadoes were sighted and Mayor Michael Bowers declared a state of emergency.

Thunderstorms knocked out power for almost 30,000 homes in three southern Pennsylvania counties. Fires started by lightning caused minor injuries to 14 firefighters who battled blazes in Dauphin County and in Eden, Pa.

Meanwhile, in Ontario, natural resources ministry firefighters were at a crucial stage today in their battle against Thunder Bay 46, the largest fire in Ontario since 1974.

"The next day or so is going to tell the tale as to whether we're going to be able to contain the fire," ministry spokesman Wayne Suttie said.

Suttie said 30 to 40 millimetres of rain and low temperatures during the weekend allowed firefighters to get "a pretty good handle" on the huge blaze.

The fire, now covering 302,170 acres (122,000 hectares) or more than one-quarter the size of Prince Edward Island, could begin growing again as temperatures rise and winds shift.

Gold price up

LONDON (UPI) — Gold fever broke out in bullion markets today with the price of the yellow metal soaring $25 an ounce to $662.50 U.S. at the morning official fixing — its highest level since February.

Gold had opened the day at $657.

Shots alert

Capital Regional District health officer Dr. Allen Arneil today recommended precautions against three diseases — tetanus, whooping cough and malaria.

Three cases of tetanus have been reported to the CRD in a period of about one year, one recently.

Arneil says tetanus spores are everywhere, traditionally abundant in animal manure. They are extremely resistant to destruction, remaining infective for years. Infection often results from a trivial wound — such as a thorn prick.

Arneil says tetanus immunization is included in that given to babies, pre-schoolers and Grade 1 and 10 boosters but should be repeated every 10 years by adults.

He says whooping cough is definitely in the area.

Immunization before infection is much more protective than treatment afterwards, Arneil says, adding whooping cough immunization can be obtained from the doctor or from any CRD community health clinic.

Boat sank: man drowns

A fisherman perished in the water when his vessel sank at Wiah Point west of Massett on the north end of the Queen Charlotte Islands Sunday evening.

The incident was one of 76 handled by the Pacific Rescue and Co-ordination Centre at CFB Esquimalt on the weekend.

The name of the dead man is being withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Shortly before 7 a.m. on Sunday morning the fishing vessel Lucky Lady III reported taking on water west of Nahwiti Bar near Bull Harbor. Aboard were owner H. Fraser of West Vancouver and the boat's operator B. Mashman.

The Bull Harbor lifeboat was despatched. A passing fishing vessel, the Pacific Sands put a pump aboard the Lucky Lady III, which was later towed into Bull Harbor.

About 3 p.m. Sunday a 16-foot pleasure craft was in danger of being swamped from the wake of a tug on the west side of the Knight Bridge in Vancouver. Owner Don Fitch of Vancouver had three persons aboard, one of which fell over the side and was rescued by a companion.

The vessel Peggy McKenzie notified the PRCC that she would go to the scene. The Canadian Coast Guard hovercraft, based at the Vancouver International Airport, was dispatched. The four people were picked up by the pleasure craft Kemo Sabi.

The boat was pumped out and towed into the Hyatt Marina.

About 4 p.m. on Sunday, J. Larsen reported his fishing vessel Regal I taking on water in the Tofino area. Another fishing vessel, the Flora Queen, put a pump aboard and Larsen was able to make it safely into Tofino.

Victoria Princess bike racks ready

The Victoria Princess now has bike racks and $2 bike tickets are available before boarding the vessel at the Belleville Pier.

In Seattle, tickets can be picked up at the B.C. Steamship Co. terminal offices at Pier 69.

The $2 charge for bikes is in addition to the $25 round trip fare.

There is no provision for bikes on the Flying Princess jetfoil.

Efforts to save logger praised

Major Stan White, commanding officer of the Pacific Rescue and Co-ordination Centre here, today commended Gulf Air dispatcher Noreen Reedel of Campbell River for her efforts last week to save the life of a 72-year-old logger at remote Bute Inlet.

At the same time he denied a claim by Dr. Bob Somerville, volunteer rescue agent at Campbell River, who has written Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau charging the logger died because all four rescue helicopters were out of service that day.

White said Somerville phoned the centre, demanding a helicopter.

The armed forces helicopters are used when requested by the emergency health services for a medical evacuation. At that point, 11:31 a.m., the EHS had not been notified, White said.

He said the standby helicopter at Comox had been alerted and could have been in the air shortly afterwards if needed.

White said at 11:30 am. on Tuesday Reedel intercepted a faint distress call from Southgate River in the Bute Inlet, 39 minutes flying time from Campbell River.

The logger had suffered a heart attack while working on a log boom.

WHO DO YOU THINK SHOULD PAY THE LEAST FOR AUTOPLAN INSURANCE?

Maybe the young guy because he doesn't have much money? Or the older man because he just might be a more responsible driver? How about the woman? She may drive less and more cautiously. The logger? He certainly doesn't have to fight city rush-hour traffic.
The answer: none of the above, necessarily.
Drivers who should pay the least possible amount for their Autoplan insurance are those who don't cause accidents. It doesn't make any difference – and it shouldn't make any difference – whether they are male or female, young or old, married or single, or where they live in the province.
That's the whole idea behind the F.A.I.R. program – Fundamental Auto Insurance Rating. When F.A.I.R. is fully in place, everyone will be entitled, as their right, to the same base Autoplan premium, depending upon the use of their vehicle: Only drivers who are responsible for an accident will be charged an additional premium of $300 spread over three years. And the more accidents they cause, the more they'll pay.
It's simple. It's logical. It's F.A.I.R.

Murder suspect at funeral

KAMLOOPS (CP) — A 19-year-old mother charged with second-degree murder in the death of her one-year-old daughter watched the child's funeral Saturday.

Denise Aimola, in custody since Tuesday after her daughter, Marca, was found dead in a field, watched the funeral service from a small side room separated from the congregation.

She was escorted to Our Lady of Perpetual Hope church, only blocks from the family home, by plainclothes RCMP officers, who said she couldn't attend the graveside service because of death threats against her phoned to a local radio station.

Following the funeral, Mrs. Aimola was taken back to her cell at the RCMP station.

There was no contact between the mother and those in the congregation, police said, and no one was told she would be there.

Marca was buried in the children's section of a cemetary less than four kilometres from where she was found dead of exposure in a sagebrush-covered field following a massive five-day search. She originally was believed to have been kidnapped.

Police are still withholding details of the case, including what led them to the body.

Mrs. Aimola is scheduled to appear in court again today.

Union trouble at berry patch

LANGLEY (CP) — The union said it was an information picket line, the owner said it was politically-inspired, when about 150 men, women and children demonstrated outside a Fraser Valley strawberry farm Saturday.

Raj Chouhan, Canadian Farmworkers' Union president, said the group was conducting an information picket, and not attempting to keep non-union berry pickers off George Driediger's Fort Langley farm.

Driediger insisted that the protest was politically inspired by his role as former B.C. Social Credit president.

"These guys are doing themselves out of jobs," said Driediger. "Next year it will be strictly raspberries and other crops that can be machine picked."

Driediger, also former mayor of Langley district, said the pickers still at work on his strawberries were averaging $10 an hour — about four berry flats an hour at $2.75 a flat.

Chouan said a tentative contract negotiated with Driediger's son Murray, manager of the farm, called for $3 a flat.

"And don't believe him when he says a picker can earn $10 an hour," said Chouan. "It's less than half that even for good pickers."

"I'll bet he didn't tell you that they wanted another 20 cents a flat for transportation," said Murray Driediger. "We'd lose money at $3.20 a flat.

The 500-member union, also negotiating with a Langley mushroom farmer, has a bid for certification before the B.C. Labor Relations Board.

Technology China's goal

VANCOUVER (CP) — China wants to buy technology from the B.C. lumber industry to enable it to turn rice husks and sugar-cane fibre into particle board.

The acquisition of technology to produce construction materials is one of the country's top priorities, said Rong Yiren, chairman and president of the China International Trust and Investment Corp.

Other priorities include energy, transportation and communication development, said Rong who is leading a high-level Chinese delegation through Canada and the United States. The delegation is informing industrialists that China is not only interested in joint ventures, but also is a good country for investments.

Rong said his country is interested in getting hydroelectrical generation technology and that a delegation from B.C. Hydro soon will visit China to "study the possibility of their involvement in the development of China's power."

China also wants to increase the lumber and pulp and paper trade, he said in an interview.

"The existing quantity already is substantial and we want to increase it in the future."

He has met with B.C. Premier Bill Bennett to talk about the Port of Vancouver.

"The port is the major gateway to the Orient and is thus very important to us," Rong said.

He said both China and B.C. are rich in natural resources and "we discussed mining technology and the possibility of technical co-operation between China and B.C."

He said no deals have been completed on this trip, which was undertaken mainly to inform industrialists of the opportunities in China.

"This is just the begining of future trips. I am very optimistic about the future of Sino-Canadian joint ventures."

He stressed that his year-old corporation wants to promote long-term economic relations between China and other countries.

"We prefer to have a long-term relationship rather than make simple purchases of modern technology."

While Canada and China enjoy good relations, "we are not very satisfied with the existing economic relationship and believe we can do more."

Blast caused by rocket fuel

TSAWWASSEN (CP) — A home-brewed batch model rocket fuel caused the explosion Friday night that injured three persons, including a two-year-old child, Delta police said Saturday.

Richard West, 25, on leave from Canadian Forces Base in Ottawa, was carrying the mixture at his brother Eric's home when it exploded, shattering two patio doors and spraying him and two persons inside the house with molten glass.

Richard and his two-year-old nephew Jason Forbes were in fair condition in the burn ward of Vancouver General Hospital. Jason is the son of Kathy and Jamie Forbes.

Richard's brother Eric, 29, was treated for lacerations and released after the explosion.

Another brother, Allan West, 17, said the explosion occurred while Richard was walking into the house through the patio doors.

"He wasn't actually making the rocket fuel when it exploded," Allan said. "He was just walking into the doorway carrying it in a glass jar when it blew off."

Richard has built a few small model rockets in the past and "sort of likes chemicals, but not any more," said Allan.

Politics and policy

At least half a dozen times during any legislative session, the opposition condemns one government bill or another as inimical to the interests of democracy, a perversion of the parliamentary process, and altogether the worst legislation ever introduced west of the Rockies.

When they make such claims about the amendments to the Public Service Act introduced by Provincial Secretary Evan Wolfe last week, they will still be exaggerating. But Wolfe's bill would allow some very basic changes in the operation of our whole system of government.

Put in its simplest terms, the bill allows for significant politicizing of what has been a traditionally non-partisan civil service.

In the past, only the deputy minister of each government department has been a cabinet appointee, responsible to political masters and subject to dismissal at the whim of the cabinet. That has been considered reasonable because the deputy is the link between the civil service and the political arm of government and must be directly responsible to his minister.

All other civil servants, however, have been chosen by the Public Service Commission, which operates at arm's length from government. Promotions have been given on the basis of merit, regardless of an applicant's politics. These people can be dismissed only for just cause.

That changes under Wolfe's bill. Now all the top officials of the civil service — not only deputies, but also associate and assistant deputies (the usual titles given division heads within the civil service) — will be direct political appointments. They will not be chosen on merit by the PSC, but will be appointed by the cabinet. They could also be fired by the cabinet.

The change will pose a number of problems. First, it will cause a morale problem for civil servants and officials. They will no longer be able to rise to senior policy-making levels on their own merits. Politics — and many civil servants abhor politics of all colors — will be taken into account.

More important, it will remove a valuable check and balance from our governmental system. Under the current structure, the senior civil servants are in a position to offer their ministers technical policy advice without worrying about its political implications. They are able to say that a suggested program may be a wonderful vote-getter but will be extremely difficult to implement.

And the public can be assured that they are experts in their field and have attained their positions strictly because of their qualifications.

All that will disappear under Wolfe's system. Senior policymakers will have to be constantly on the lookout for the political implications of what they do. Their jobs may depend upon it.

Moreover, the possibility exists that in some departments, a minister may surround himself with advisers chosen for their political skills but with no expertise in the department's programs and mandates.

It is the politicians' job to consider the political implications of decisions they make. It is the civil servants' job to provide non-partisan advice, and then to administer the politicians' policies the best they can.

The separation serves the public interest well, and should be preserved.

Beer and baseball

With the current high level of ill-will and controversy pervading local politics, it's pleasant when a council produces a sensible and reasonable compromise to solve a civic problem.

Victoria City Council agreed last year to allow beer to be consumed during baseball games at Royal Athletic Park, but only in a small area from which the drinkers could not see the game. Not surprisingly, those involved with city baseball returned this year to try to persuade council to allow fans to have beer while sitting in the stands.

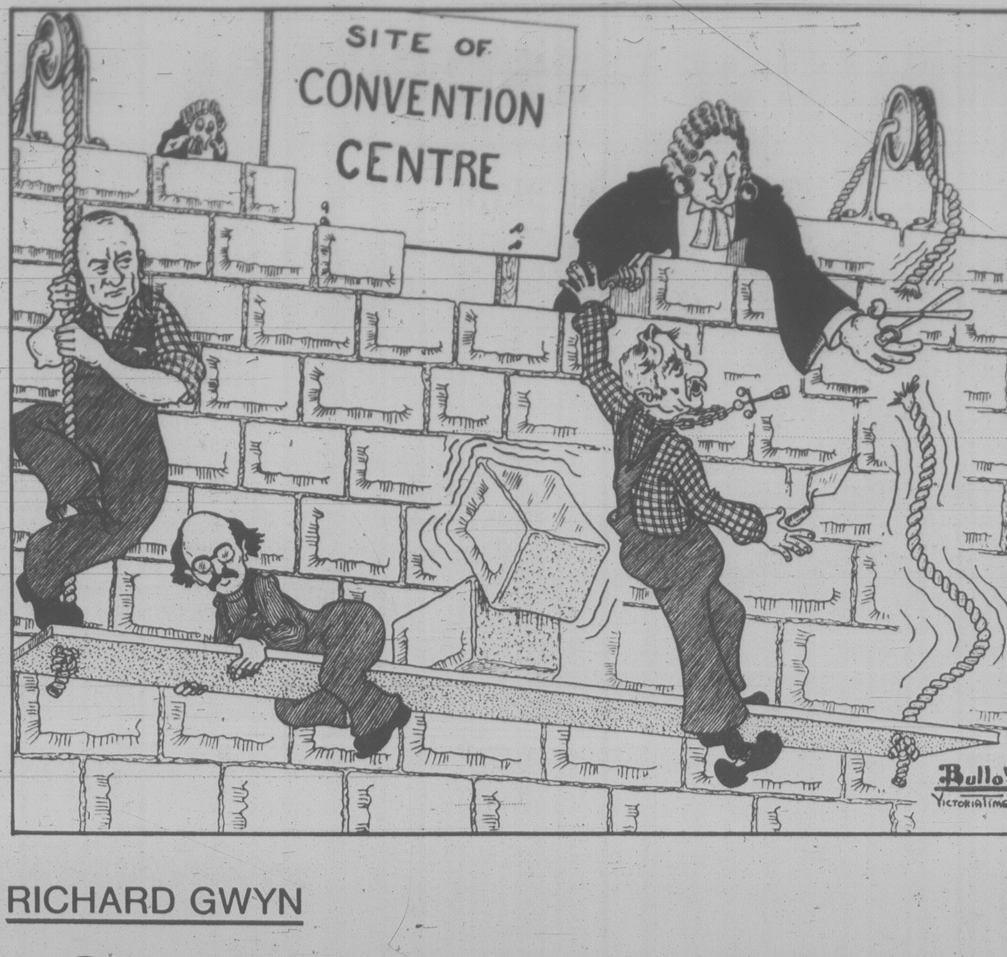
It seemed a reasonable request, provided that care was taken to ensure that drunkenness and rowdyism didn't prevail.

But some aldermen and citizens pointed out that baseball is a family entertainment. Many families don't want their children to spend the afternoon sitting next to someone guzzling beer. That was a fair enough argument as well.

Then Ald. Robin Blencoe came up with a compromise. Why not allow beer-drinking in only a certain, segregated part of the stands. Then those who wanted a beer could have one, but those who didn't want to sit next to beer-drinkers wouldn't have to.

Both sides readily agreed that the compromise met their objections. The vote on it passed easily.

It was a good example of how governments can solve problems when they put their minds to it.



RICHARD GWYN

Gray looks for a strategy

OTTAWA — Can Trade and Commerce Minister Herb Gray do for Canadian manufacturing what he has done for the brush-cut — make it stand up and grow?

Maybe. Probably not. But at least he is going to give it a try. Next week, Gray will place upon the cabinet table his version of an industrial strategy for Canada. About its contents he will say only, "You wouldn't be wrong if you guessed that the directions I intend to go are towards economic nationalism and technological sovereignty."

After his cabinet colleagues have done quibbling over the t's and i's of the document, Gray plans to publish it next fall, at which time industry, labor and the provinces will get to say what they think about it. Later on, we may get some action.

Eight-year search

Why the excitement then? Simply because, at last, something actually is happening.

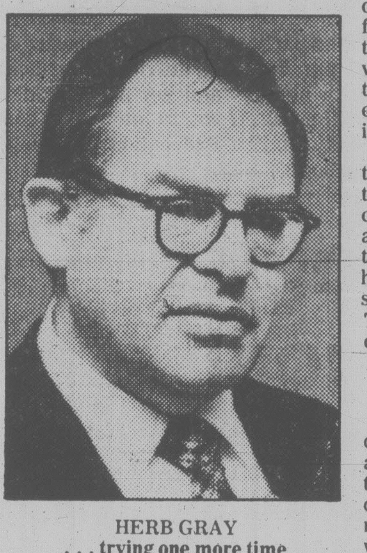
In his just-published study, How Ottawa Decides, for the Canadian Institute for Economic Policy, Richard French describes Ottawa's eight-year search for an industrial strategy.

French traces this paper chase back to January, 1972, when Prime Minister Trudeau let it out that the government was "working on" an industrial strategy. Two months later, then Trade and Commerce Minister Jean-Luc Pepin announced he would unfold the grand design in the fall.

Instead, as French remarks, "it was downhill all the way". Neither Pepin in that year, nor any of his successors in any subsequent year produced a strategy, or a policy, or a program, or even the germ of just one idea.

Today, the cost of those eight lost years is manifest. The spectre of "deindustrialization" stalks the land. Here, Benedix closes a 50-year-old plant in Windsor, Ontario, and puts 500 out of work. There, Ford Motor Co., is given $73 million to open a new plant, says thank-you, and closes another plant.

Of all the statistical indicators about our industrial condition, the most revealing is the one that measures our productivity. Through the '70s, we ranked next to last in productive growth, behind only the U.S., among the western democracies. In 1979, the decade's last year, we dropped to last place.



HERB GRAY
. . . trying one more time

Throughout this period, and as much today as then, three economic choices confronted us. We could give up on manufacturing, and go back to being hewers of pulp wood and drawers of oil. We could plunge into the cold waters of free trade, as the Economic Council of Canada has recommended. Or we can choose the industrial areas we want to excel in, and develop these behind the barricades of economic nationalism and of its kissing-cousin, as proposed by the Science Council, of technological sovereignty.

My own choice would be for the third — Gray's — option. But this isn't the point. Instead, the point is that we have to make a choice. If we don't, other countries will make it for us.

In his study, French explains why successive governments, Trudeau I, Trudeau II, Trudeau III, and now Trudeau IV, have preferred to dither than to decide. "It is most unlikely that any government will remain in office long enough to benefit from the frits of industrial strategy initiatives," French writes, since these will take 10-20 years to show up, while the costs (giving up on textiles, for example) "are, politically speaking, identifiable and relative imminent."

Trudeau, as you may have noticed, has been in power long enough that had he had the courage of his convictions back then, he, and Canada, would be benefitting today from the fruits of his decisiveness. That's history now. Even Jimmy the Greek, surely, wouldn't give you long odds on Trudeau remaining power for another 10-20 years.

Do what he wants

In fact, Trudeau possesses a political asset more valuable even than an assurance of tenure: His own pledge to quit before the next election. He can do whatever he wants, which means he actually can afford to do what is right.

So why then did Trudeau, a fortnight ago, tell the Liberal caucus that his priorities were, a) the constitution, b) an oil deal, and everything else, including an industrial strategy, last? Because he'd prefer to have a constitution for himself and leave economics for his successor.

Give Gray an "A" for effort, and wish him well since he's trying to do in six months what hasn't been done in eight years. As for Trudeau's contribution to economics, grade him, as did French, "Downhill all the way".

STEVE KERSTETTER

A view of federal planning

OTTAWA (CP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau came to the prime minister's office intent on seeing that his government made decisions in a more formal, more progressive and more rational way.

How and why that hope was frustrated in the years that followed is the subject of a new book by Richard D. French of Montreal, a university professor, management consultant and former member of the federal civil service in the 1970s.

How Ottawa Decides views Trudeau in 1968 as the product of an era when planning was in vogue and social scientists were optimistic about solving problems of public policy with almost the same precision as their colleagues were having in physics or chemistry.

"Trudeau and his advisers were determined not to continue the government-by-crisis pattern which characterized the Diefenbaker and Pearson administrations," French writes.

Three systems

Most of the book is an analysis of the three distinct planning systems that operated in the early Trudeau years and which were intended to help the new government avoid the mistakes of the past.

One system was centred in the finance department and was aimed at "fine tuning" the economy. A second operated within the treasury board in hopes of making government programs more effective and efficient. The third and most esoteric was found within the cabinet committee system and the Privy Council office.

The analysis of these systems in the book is often tortured and unreadable, but the clear picture that emerges is one of bureaucratic infighting as the three groups vied with each other for supremacy, with all three losing out in the end.

French argues that the failure of planning led in part to the series of economic and political crises the Liberals grappled with between 1975 and their defeat by the Progressive Conservatives in the May 22 election last year.

And during those years, he says, the government spent most of its time reacting to events rather than pursuing the planned approach it had brought with it to office.

However, the book suggests that part of the blame lies with cabinet ministers who were unwilling to put aside their own aspirations or who resisted attempts to control the spending appetites of their own departments — factors which could have frustrated even a well-functioning planning system.

"All of the integrated planning systems, all of the technical improvements in the world, will hardly function effectively where political conviction is lacking," French writes.

Perhaps the classic example of planning being overtaken by politics came after the 1974 election that returned Trudeau to office with a majority government.

Urgent business was put aside for a "priorities exercise," an ambitious attempt to look into the future for major new programs that fit in with "the big picture."

As the process dragged on and the initial results seemed uninspired, the prime minister's office commissioned a private poll that showed Canadians far more concerned about inflation and violent crime.

The planning exercise was quickly shelved. Wage and price controls were imposed in the fall of 1975 and a law-and-order package was presented to Parliament the following spring.

"In the end," French writes, "the few thousand dollars invested with the Liberal Party's House pollster to confirm the instincts of political insiders was to have a far greater influence on the government's priorities than the thousands of bureaucratic man-hours invested in the priorities exercise."

The book is essentially an historical review of past planning failures, but it does offer some insights into problems the Liberals have tackled again following their return to power in the Feb. 18 election.

Industrial strategy

Perhaps the most important of these is the idea of an industrial strategy, a concept central to the policies of the New Democratic Party and resurrected by the Liberals during the last campaign.

French says Liberal hopes for a global plan of attack to help Canadian industries in the early 1970s quickly degenerated into a series of programs to help individual sectors of the economy.

Some critics feared the change would mean endless corporate handouts to weak industries rather than a comprehensive plan to build new industries for the future.

The book questions whether any such comprehensive plan is possible. French says governments naturally expect to reap the benefits of the policies they sow, but the experts agree that the benefits of a broad industrial strategy could take 10 to 20 years to appear — far longer than the life expectancy of any government.

Victoria Landmarks

On Saturday morning, May 24, 1902, a new Oldsmobile car intrigued a crowd gathered on Johnson Street. It was the first car to be owned by a Victorian. The proud owner was Dr. Edward Charles Hart, city coroner for over half a century. A 3½-horsepower single cylinder gasolene engine drove the vehicle. The cost of the car was $650 ex works in Detroit. Given the right road conditions, the car could average 15 miles per hour and do 20 miles to the gallon.

Twelve months later, on May 28, 1903, Mr. A. E. Todd's five horsepower White steamer became Victoria's second car. It travelled from Government Street at Gorge Road to the Strathcona Hotel at Shawnigan Lake in two hours and 53 minutes. A year later, there were still only 20 cars and 10 motorcycles for the city's population of 25,000. That was the equivalent of one car for every 1,250 people.

Today there are almost 100,000 passenger cars and over 3,200 motorcycles registered in the Victoria area, not including 30,000 commercial vehicles and 15,000 trailers. This is the equivalent of one car for every 2.3 persons. The resulting overcrowding of roads often reduces average speeds to near 15 miles per hour.

No inferiority

Surely someone has to repudiate your recent article relating to the "second class" feelings of Canadians.

I have never met a Canadian who felt second class to anyone, Americans included. Peter Newman, a Czechoslovakian by education and nationality is not any kind of authority on things Canadian, as your article implies. Canada's only hero figure of the past generation, John George Diefenbaker, was thoroughly denigrated by Mr. Newman in all of his writings.

Canada has long outlived its colonial past. Canadians deserve better political leadership and a much more sophisticated intelligentsia. For a Toronto pseudo-intellectual to lament the inferiority complex of Canadians is as outrageous as denying the historical fact that British North America has survived above all odds against the most powerful political and materialistic super power of all times, the United States.

I am sick and tired of listening to our Canadian intelligentsia telling us how inferior we feel. The only thing inferior about Canada is its intelligentsia. — L. J. Bailey, 202-1150 Rockland Avenue.

In perspective

Re: your article of June 18 (page 26) about a 17-year-old youth who assaulted an RCMP constable:

An RCMP constable in a burst of anger assaults a suspect he has arrested. He loses his job and gets three months in jail. A youth attacks a policeman who is acting in the execution of his duty, and all he gets is 12 days.

It's no wonder the average citizen and the police have trouble taking the courts seriously. — Gary Butt, 32-7840 Lochside Drive.

Expert paramedics

May I take advantage of your column to praise the expertise and caring practised by the paramedics of Victoria. Our family had occasion to call on their services recently and their swiftness of arrival and professional attention probably saved my father's life. They even had attention to spare for other worried members of the family. We cannot thank them enough and we feel there should be more public recognition of their excellence. — Maggie Cooper, 134 Linden Avenue.

Benefit dinner

It was my privilege to attend a benefit dinner and dance held at the Da Vinci Centre, on June 14, 1980.

This function was put on solely for the benefit of the Heart Fund. What amazed me most about this very successful evening was the fact that our Italian community, through volunteer help, in not only making the hall ready, but also the free time put in by its members to assure a financially successful evening, so willingly performed.

The planning was perfect. The band played from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. It also deserves laurels for a beautiful performance, donated also to our Heart Fund.

From my point of view our Italian friends have proved once again, that when help is necessary, they move right in to the front lines.

By this thank you to the Da Vinci Centre for their care, it may influence other clubs to have a heart. — J. McDonald, 710 Cormorant Street.

Factory re-visited

In the June 24 Times, there was a letter 'Visit Factory' concerning the Wedgewood factory. You have the location of the factory mis-spelled — it is 'Barlaston'.

It is just south of Stoke-on-Trent, and to get there by car, follow these instructions:

Get on M.6, turn east at intersection No. 15, go south A.34 — about five miles, turn east on B5029 about two miles, then turn north about one mile to the factory.

We visited the factory in 1960 (my wife and I, and her twin sister) and we thoroughly enjoyed the visit. Ever since, I was very careful with the gold on the pottery — it comes out black after being through the kiln, and every piece has to be polished. E. P. Roberts, 107-1024 Fairfield Road.

For the record

Your editorial page cartoon of June 10 showing a deserted Ocean Falls newsprint mill topped by a Canadian Cellulose Company sign might have been less humorous but more accurate if the correct owner's name had been used.

The Ocean Falls mill is owned by B.C. Cellulose Company, a Crown corporation headquartered in Victoria. Canadian Cellulose Company, Limited has never owned or had any association with the Ocean Falls mill. — George V. Lambert, Manager, Employee and Community Affairs, Canadian Cellulose Company Limited.

Sob sisters, molar mashers

Ethnic slurs draw harsh rejoinders, but occupational derogations — especially colorful or imaginative ones — no longer get people's danders up. Lawyers may threaten action at shyster, and some doctors grow choleric at quack, but most auto mechanics do not race their engines at grease monkey, nor would most dancers kick about hoofer.

The world of medicine is rife with occuslurs: from chiropractors who are called bone crushers to doctors and pharmacists who wish patients would dispense with pill pusher and pill peddler to surgeons who answer to sawbones. The most common mild derogation — often spoken with affection — is shrink for psychiatrist, from the witch doctor's practice of shrinking heads. Dentists have been known to gnash their teeth at molar masher, but that field is poor in occuslurs — nothing dentured, nothing gained.

Businessmen hang lively monikers on each other's specialties. A bean counter is, as aspiring bookkeepers know, an accountant; a headhunter, etymological cousin to the jungle shrink, is an executive recruiter; a bit fiddler, or bit tweaker, is a computer programmer more entranced by the machine than its product.

In advertising for aid on this valuable linguistic project, I erred in calling a bureaucrat a paper pusher: "You mixed a slur," writes Winsor Lott of Guilderland, N.Y. "The proper way to slur a bureaucrat is to call him or her a paper shuffler, not a paper pusher. You've obviously mixed paper shuffler with pencil pusher, which is just another name for a thumbsucker."

Thumbsucker is the new term for pundit — from the Hindu for "learned person" — which Time magazine popularized to mean "long-headed commentator"; surely such media biggies are a more deliberative breed of pencil pushers. At least these terms are not as pejorative as numbers cruncher, applied to a researcher, financial analyst or pollster who bends a statistic to fit a favored theory, or who puts too much faith in figures.

Some of the zip has gone out of the airline industry as the sexless flight attendant has replaced the breezy stew, and your captain speaking has taken over from sky jockey (Are all captains named Speaking?). Only hangar rat remains to add color to those who hang around aircraft.

Some of the best designations hang in there — roughnecks still work the oil rigs and sandhogs dig the tunnels — but farmers, or agribusinessmen, no longer hear sodbuster or clodhopper. Layers of railroad track are hardly ever called gandy dancers.

In politics, a hanger-on who likes to be called a "key aide" is usually referred to as a gofer (because he'll go fer coffee). Diplomats are still called cookie pushers because of their frequent attendance at teas and cocktail parties. A pol willing to "work the fence" is occasionally dubbed flesh presser, which is not to be confused with flesh peddler, the slur for theatrical agent.

The worst thing you can call a television announcer is a rip and reader, and you may get the terminal frizzies if you are caught referring to a coiffeuse as a hair bender. But call a person a spook and you will receive no scary looks — the designation is accepted by ghostwriters as well as by members of the beleaguered intelligence community.

Some professions are more sensitive than others: volunteer firemen shrug off winkies, but public-relations people flare up at flack, often preferring the new "public-policy adviser."

I have a list of pejorative job descriptions from Peter Taub of the Gannett Rochester newspapers, running from sob sister, for gossip columnist, to hash slinger, for short-order cook, and concluding with stringer, defined as "part-time newspaper correspondent." Taub, in his self-identification, illustrates the love-hate feeling of members of a group both unified and derogated by an occupational slur: "Times stringer in Rochester."

Best shot

"He gave it his best shot."

The locution "best shot," which is punching holes through the language these days, is being used to mean "greatest effort." When used in a slightly different sense, as in "California was his best shot," the two words mean "best opportunity."

Originally, this was a military metaphor. In the 16th century, the "best shot" was that part of any army which could most accurately inflict injury on the enemy — the best archers, for example.

In this century, the combat phrase put down boxing roots. Lexicographer Peter Tamony has found a citation in the San Francisco News of Aug. 29, 1931: "Smith's blows, though they were his very best shots, didn't feaze Hanna." ("Feaze" is a variant of "feeze," meaning "to embarrass or disconcert," which is now usually spelled "faze.") The way for "best shot" was paved by "get a shot at" — as in the March 13, 1940, use: "Fat Tony Galento gets a shot at Joe Louis's heavyweight championship."

Military phrases ("campaign," "boom," "standard-bearer," "die-hard") are always snapped up by politics, and boxing phrases are equally welcome in bloodless combat: "Hat in the ring," "on the ropes," "low blow." With "your best shot," politicians and pundits have found a phrase with provenance in both battlefield and prize ring, which gives the term an especially proud pedigree.

GALENTO . . . got a shot

This phrase has not been easy to pin down, but I gave it what used to be called my all.

Slowdown speedup

An apology is due to The Journal of Commerce, a newspaper that was shut down during the Civil War by a repressive Republican administration, for a hoot of derision registered here recently at a headline that read: "Slowdown Is Accelerating."

That metaphor was neither skewed nor mixed. Although a contradiction is apparent, the contradiction is not real, as many physics students and other velocity freaks have pointed out.

"Acceleration is commonly thought of as the rate of change of velocity," writes Ted Senator of Ithaca, N.Y. "Hence, positive acceleration refers to a speedup and negative acceleration (or deceleration) to a slowdown." But such common thought is mistaken: "Velocity is the rate of change (with respect to time) of position, and acceleration the rate of change of velocity."

In case that whizzed past you in slow motion, consider this example by Jeffrey Saldinger of New York City: "A car going 60 miles per hour slows uniformly to 57 miles per hour in three seconds, then from 57 to 50 in the next three seconds, and finally from 50 to 30 in the next three. The car has been slowing down more and more with every three seconds — hence, an accelerating slowdown."

In common use, "accelerate" means "to go faster"; in technical use, it means the rate at which you go either faster or slower. The language is biased, then, in the direction of increased speed: for example, there is a "speedup" but no "speeddown." Such are the brakes.

I don't want to be an alarmist, but a look at the last three months' industrial-production figures suggests that the slowdown of the American economy is accelerating to a screeching halt.

THE NATION
An Editorial

The recent decision to deny internationally acclaimed Italian playwright Dario Fo a visa to the United States is an act directly contradictory to the Helsinki Accords, which guarantee a free flow of ideas and artists across national boundaries. Worse, Fo's case — and that of his dramatist wife, Franca Rame, who was also denied entrance — is not an exception but merely an all-too-typical example of the hypocritical actions of a government that routinely advertises its support of free expression.

Despite the huge popular and critical success of his play Mistero Buffo in Italy, France, Germany, Canada, China, Poland and a dozen other nations, Fo is not well known in the U.S. The State Department intends to keep him that way. The reason: Fo violates a regulation that denies entry to aliens who belong to groups supporting the violent overthrow or resistance to the American government or "any organized government."

Though long an outspoken opponent of terrorism, Fo nonetheless believes even accused terrorists should have lawyers. To further this belief, he belongs to Soccorso Rosso (Red Aid), a left-wing group that provides legal counsel to leftist detainees and campaigns for better prison conditions for political prisoners. In short, Fo can't come to America because he believes even leftists should have the right to counsel that the Supreme Court's Miranda decision gives the accused in America. This is regarded as supporting the violent overthrow of government, at least by the State Department.

"Fo's record of performance with regard to the United States and our own interests is not good," explains a member of the State Department's Italian desk. "He has never had a good word to say about us. I don't think Western Europe is going to be up in arms because this great humanitarian was denied a visa." The clear implication of these statements is that entrance to the United States is granted on two bases: (1) having politically acceptable — read, right-wing — views, (2) being important enough that being shut out would produce significant protest.

That the Fo case is not an isolated incident can be seen in dozens of examples stretching back into the 1950s, when even right-wing writer Jorge Luis Borges was denied a visa on the mistaken belief that all Latin Americans had to be leftists. A more current case is that of Colombian author Gabriel Garcia Marquez, who was not allowed in the United States until his international best seller One Hundred Years of Solitude, which won a National Book Award in the translation category, was quoted by Henry Kissinger in a speech.

Since the speech was in Mexico City, where Garcia Marquez lives, the erstwhile Secretary of State was immediately reminded that the author could not enter the Secretary's country. Embarrassed, Kissinger pushed the visa through the bureaucracy, which found it could accept Garcia Marquez on the ground he was going to deliver a totally invented "lecture at Columbia University."

"That is now the formula," the writer told The New York Times. "Every time I go to the United States, the fiction is that it is 'for lectures at Columbia University.' "

Many other cases, however, have not had such a happy — if ridiculous — ending. The late Lelio Basso, an independent Italian leftist, was not allowed to meet publicly with Harvard University's Centre for European Studies, which had invited him there. At the same time that the distinguished Resistance fighter was forced to meet students behind closed doors, Giorgio Almirante, Italy's most rabid neofascist, was being publicly toasted by Thomas (Tip) O'Neill. Socialist Regis Debray, a Frenchman active in Latin American struggles against dictators, was never allowed into this country — even while his wife was studying here.

These are only a few incidents involving relatively well-known people. Others forbidden entry into the United States include homosexuals, unwed mothers and people with any history of depression or mental illness, even if it is cured. "Suppose an American marries a Frenchwoman who once had a breakdown," says a European Economic Community diplomat. "He better get used to living in France if he wants to stay with her."

Ironically, the passage of the Foreign Relations Authorization Act has done little to clear up the United States' hypocritical visa policies. Enacted in 1977, Section 105 of the act was intended to bring American visa policy in line with the recently signed Helsinki Accords by providing a review mechanism for aliens subscribing to prohibited ideologies.

Though card-carrying Commies can now get in without too much difficulty, independent leftists have a great deal of trouble crossing the border. People like Oriana Fallaci, Lina Wertmuller and Sergio Segre are acceptable because they cannot be kept out without triggering protest, but evidently the department thinks the likes of Fo are unimportant enough to close the door. When not subjected to public scrutiny, bureaucracies and governments tend to do what they would like to do, and the clear evidence is that the U.S. Department of State remains committed to blocking certain ideas from the country.

This policy not only violates the Helsinki Accords but is a disastrous factor in America's growing isolation from the currents of world thought. Only if artists like Fo can come here can we see what the rest of the world is thinking — something that is necessary to stop the growing government- and media-fostered sentiment of public xenophobia.

Feminism in China

By BRYAN JOHNSON

PEKING — It is a Maoist axiom that "women hold up half the sky." But like their feminist sisters in the West, Chinese women are apparently growing tired of holding up more than their share of the clothesline.

"No matter whether you are a cadre, worker or commune member," one disgruntled woman wrote in the weekend People's Daily, "we women share the same experience: A woman comrade is much busier than a man comrade."

And the specific complaints of Dong Chunfeng, an official at the Peking Masses Publishing House, will come as no surprise to working women anywhere.

"Besides doing eight hours work every day," moaned Comrade Dong, "we have to do the cooking, washing, sewing and mending after we get back home. If you have a baby you are fully occupied."

There is often not enough time for a meal, we get no sound sleep and some women doze off at work or get themselves completely worn out. Sunday is a day off, but family chores take more than half the day.

"Some women comrades want to read some books, enjoy their own hobbies or help the children with their lessons, but they can hardly afford the time.

There are a number of villains in this grim scenario of daily life, says Comrade Dong. She cites long queues for a meal at the local canteen, uncooperative tailors who take two weeks to fix anything, and a lack of automatic or even semi-automatic machines to help lighten the Chinese housewife's load.

But, not surprisingly, it is the man comrade holding up the other half of the sky who comes in for the most stinging rebuke.

And the picture painted by Comrade Dong hardly conforms to the propaganda stereotype of the two contented Communists pulling harmoniously at the yoke of marriage.

"Some men comrades concede that men and women are equal," she fumes. But they live by seeing the chores being done for them. "Men comrades should consciously share some of the family chores. Men comrades should also consciously share some of the family obligations — rather than just push them off."

CAN WESTCOAST SAVINGS TAKE ON THE BIG BANKS AND WIN?

Can Victoria's Westcoast Savings take on the big banks?

Victoria says yes.

And we can prove it.

Right now the big eastern banks are bringing in the new improved chequing accounts and telling us to "chuck our old cheque books" and that "every penny counts". But they're not telling us how much interest they're paying or all the account details. (It isn't even in the fine print). The fact is, it's only 3 or 3½% and there is a minimum balance to be maintained.

If you're going to "chuck your old cheque book", we'd like you to look at our Prime 55 chequing/savings account. It's not a "new improved" account but it does pay 9¼% interest, and has no charges. The interest is paid monthly and is calculated on the minimum monthly balance. Prime 55 is for those 55 or better. If you're under 55 The Westcoaster chequing package pays 8% and has many other benefits all for only $4.00 per month. Westcoast offers six day service and full inter-branch banking too. But our benefits go beyond our interest rates. The best part of our service is our people. All our staff try to be friendly and efficient, never too busy to help.

Drop into any Westcoast branch - they're all open 6 days a week, find out for yourself why 1 in 5 Victorians have already said "yes" to Westcoast Savings.

Rise predicted in trade deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Bank of Canada used the Canadian premiere of a film on exports to forecast larger balance of payments deficits this year and next.

E. P. Neufeld, the bank's senior vice-president and chief economist, predicted Canada's current account deficit would rise to $6.5 billion this year and remain near that level in 1981. The deficit in 1979 was $5.02 billion.

Seasonally-adjusted figures for the first quarter of 1980 showed the balance of payments deficit down to its lowest level since the end of 1977.

But Neufeld said he expects exports to fall later this year because of the recession in the United States.

Balance of payments deficits have been the rule rather than the exception for Canada.

Neufeld, a former assistant deputy minister in the federal finance department, said the trade figures he foresees should not be cause for alarm so long as the Bank of Canada keeps the money supply under control, governments work to reduce their deficits and wage settlements are not excessive.

However, he said a more aggressive export strategy is needed to provide continuing economic growth for Canada in the years ahead.

That is the theme of the film Export for Profit and Survival produced by the bank and shown to government officials and business leaders for the first time Monday.

The 25-minute film produced by Lauron Productions Ltd. of Toronto features interviews with more than a dozen Canadian businessmen who have successfully sold everything from drywall screws to yachts abroad.

R. A. Utting, Royal Bank vice-chairman, said the film underlines the potential profits awaiting Canadian businesses in other countries and warns that Canada's share of world markets is shrinking.

"There are too few Canadian businesses actively seeking trade opportunities outside our borders," he said.

Neufeld cited the need for more research and development in Canada, better transportation and more substitution of Canadian products can be improved.

He also said the bank's new world trade and merchant banking group would help improve export credit facilities and promote a stronger "export mentality."

Airlines facing bad times

GENEVA (Reuter) — Rising fuel and other costs could make this the worst financial year for major airlines since the Second World War, a spokesman for the International Air Transport Association says.

Airlines in the United States alone lost $200 million on operations in the first quarter and a similar deficit is expected for the three months until the end of June.

Approval was given for the sale of Vickers Energy Corp., including both Vickers Petroleum Corp. and Transocean Oil Inc.

It also was announced certain units of Swift fresh meats division will be closed and the remaining units will become a separate company.

New York

Stock prices tumbled in moderate trading today amid renewed worries about the economy and inflation.

Some analysts said talk of a tax cut had fueled inflation worries. In addition the commerce department reported the index of leading economic indicators fell 2.4 percent in May. The index is the government's chief economic forecasting tool. Its latest decline was the seventh drop in past eight months.

The recent sharp drop in interest rates which had encouraged buying in the stock market may also have abated, one analyst said. Dealer quotes on treasury bills rose slightly in today's trading.

Overall, there were more than three declining issues for each gainer on the New York Stock Exchange.

Oil issues were generally lower after their recent gains. Standard Oil California dropped 2⅛ to $77½; Mobil lost 1⅜ to $71⅜; Atlantic Richfield fell 1⅛ to $93. Exxon was actively traded and off ⅞ to $67⅛.

Offshore oil discoveries spark stock trade boom

The Canadian Press

More news about black gold in Canadian offshore waters prompted some furious trading on Canada's major stock markets last week.

But the activity quickly dissipated and analysts said the announcements of oil finds off the East Coast and in the Beaufort Sea were promising but gave investors little useful information for plotting an investment strategy.

The TSE index of 300 selected stocks finished the week at 2069.46, up 48.68 points or 2.4 per cent.

The golds index continued its steady advance, closing its seventh straight week on an upswing at a record high 4360.02. The weekly gain of 512.15 points in the golds index was the largest since the Toronto Stock Exchange started keeping records in 1971.

Gold bullion closed in London on Friday at $636 U.S. a troy ounce, up from $599 an ounce on Monday.

John Ing, portfolio manager at Pitfield Mackay Ross Ltd. of Toronto, said three factors have contributed to the rise in gold prices by pointing to a roaring rate of inflation just around the corner: the widened U.S. budgetary deficit in May, talk of a tax cut early next year and the virtual abandonment of President Carter's goal of balancing the budget.

The U.S. government announced Tuesday that its budget deficit in May reached $14.1 billion.

D. R. James, an analyst with Richardson Securities of Canada in Winnipeg, said political turmoil in South Africa, the prospect of declining production and sales of gold from both that country and the Soviet Union, and sliding interest rates also make the immediate outlook for gold bullish.

James noted that Dome Mines and Campbell Red Lake are heavily weighted in the TSE golds index.

Trading in shares of Dome Mines is influenced by Dome Petroleum's oil exploration activity, he said. And Campbell Red Lake and Sigma Mines Quebec have announced a joint exploration venture in Western Canada, thus tying their fortunes to the petroleum picture too.

Montreal's composite index was up 8.36 points or 2.44 per cent on the week to 351.08. The industrial index closed at 380.34, a gain of 13.8 points or 3.76 per cent.

At Vancouver, which lacks a composite index, the market gave a seesaw performance. Prices lagged Monday, advanced Wednesday and were mixed for the rest of the week.

Mobil Corp. announced Tuesday that initial production tests at three intervals of the appraisal Hibernia 0-35 well about 320 kilometres offshore Newfoundland yielded as much as 1,694 barrels of oil a day.

Dennis Sharp, vice-president of Rasmussen, Sharp and Co. Ltd. of Montreal, said he's still optimistic about the oil-producing potential of the Hibernia field although Mobil's announcement "was not all that significant."

The 24-degree API gravity oil found in the third test zone is far more viscous than the oil discovered earlier in the Hibernia P-15 well about four kilometres to the east. The P-15 oil was similar in quality to light crude from Saudi Arabia — the traditional benchmark on which world oil prices are based.

Sharp said the difference in grade only points up the fact that the reservoir is very complex. As many as three more wells may have to be drilled and tested "before we can really accurately assess what the economic potential of Hibernia is," he said.

Also brightening the resource picture was an announcement by Imperial Oil Ltd. on Thursday that its wholly-owned Esso Resources Canada Ltd. struck oil and gas at the Issumgnak 0-61 well north of Pullen Island in the Beaufort Sea.

The well flowed 2,400 barrels of oil and five million cubic feet of gas a day from separate intervals but no definitive calculation of the potential producing capacity could be made.

Most analysts described the find as encouraging but cautioned that at this stage it is impossible to make any meaningful reserve estimates.

Volume at Toronto for the week was 24.27 million shares valued at $408.67 million, compared with 26.49 million shares worth $392.1 million last week.

At Montreal, 2.67 million shares worth $42.57 million changed hands. That compared with 3.22 million shares valued at $47.91 million traded the week before.

Volume at Vancouver was 20.9 million shares and value was $42.1 million. Last week 20.7 million shares worth $41.13 million were traded.

U.S. trade deficit growing larger

WASHINGTON (Reuter) — The United States deficit with its trading partners deteriorated badly during May to $3.96 billion, the government reported Friday.

The commerce department said the deficit, aggravated by the the curtailment of U.S. grain sales to the Soviet Union, was the largest since the $5.57 billion in February.

Imports rose 6.4 per cent to $21.64 billion, while exports fell 4.3 per cent in value to $17.68 billion — the biggest export drop since June. 1978.

A department spokesman said he was not alarmed by the widening deficit, saying it probably did not represent a trend.

But the new figures are certain to give further ammunition to critics of President Carter's free trade policies.

This pressure has increased as it has become apparent the U.S. economy is in one of its severest recessions since the Second World War.

The department said oil imports in May increased 11.5 per cent in value to $6.86 billion.

Air Canada plans $50M construction

By Victor Mackie

OTTAWA — Fifty million dollars and more, in construction has been planned by Air Canada over the next three years in Winnipeg, Edmonton, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec City and Halifax, Ralph Drabinsky, the airline's general manager properties and facilities, said Friday.

In Vancouver the airline authorities are looking at the possible expansvon of cargo facilities. But it has not reached the stage where the plans have gone before Mr. Drabinsky. He said that project will depend on how the business outlook shapes up.

Now in the land assembly stage in Winnipeg there is a program for increased maintenance facilities including construction of space for shops for maintenance at a cost of $4 million, which is included cn the $50 million figure. There are also plans for a new hangar in 1983 at an estimated cost of $15 million in Winnipeg, but it is not incorporated in the total.

Also in the west a $3,500,000 cargo building will be opened in Edmonton in August adding 38,000 square feet of space to the Alberta operation. The new facilities will accommodate Boeing 747 freighters.

Cargo handling equipment for this comes from Criterion in Vancouver and McInnis Equipment Ltd. of Windsor and totals $2 million. Mr. Drabinsky in a telephone interview from his office in Montreal said both east and west are benefitting from air cargo expansion plans.

In Quebec City last month a smaller cargo terminal of 8,000 square feet was announced at a cost of $350,000. It should be cn operation by early 1981.

In Atlantic Canada, land has been obtained in Halifax for a 7,200 square foot ramp equipment building. Construction costs are an estimated $350,000 with a start scheduled for late summer.

Work is already underway in Toronto on an expansion of the existance maintenance complex at Toronto. A new double-bay line maintenance hangar for widebody aircraft will cover the ground between the old maintenance hangar and the new CP Air hangar.

Construction costs at Toronto are estimated at $15,500,000 for the 120,000 square foot building. In addition another $2,500,000 will be spent on an annex to the new hangar to house support shops in Toronto occupying 30,000 square feet.

Criterion Engineering of Vancouver has been contracted to provide $2 million in cargo handling equipment at Toronto. Robert Mitchell Co. Ltd. of Montreal has a $1 million contract for cargo container racking.

Montreal is planning a 10,000 square foot building addition to expand the Dorval Maintenance Base pneumatic test facility. The structure itself is estimated at $1.5 million with another $1.5 million for the technical equipment.

Price of the three-door GLC hatchback regular goes up $150, and the prices of all other models have been raised $200.

The company said the increases, effective July 1, are needed because of higher production costs in Japan.

The comparable figure for April, 1979, was $283.26.

Vauxhall big loser

LONDON (AP) — Vauxhall Motors Ltd., a subsidiary of General Motors Corp. of the United States, Monday reported a pre-tax loss of $74.49 million in 1979. It cited lost production and sales because of labor disputes for the losses.

After taxes, interest and other financial charges and losses from currency value changes, the company's 1979 loss totalled $73.48 million.

In 1978 the company had a profit of $4.67 million.

Egads! They're set to recall the Rolls

TORONTO (CP) — Rolls-Royce (Canada) Ltd. will recall about 300 cars sold to Canadians along with about 6,000 sold in the United States to replace brake fluid hoses which could deteriorate from exhaust system heat.

Company president Norman Miller said in a telephone interview from Montreal that all Canadian dealerships have been notified, but the company is waiting until it receives the new hoses to notify customers.

A spokesman said there have been no confirmed cases of hose failure, but the recall of vehicles produced since June, 1976 to last April was made to avoid the risk of brake failure. All Rolls-Royce vehicles have an independent back-up braking system.

Miller said cars will be recalled in all countries where catalytic converters are required to meet pollution laws. The converters increase temperatures near the brake fluid hoses.

Israeli force raids base in Lebanon

TEL AVIV (AP) — An Israeli force raided a Palestinian base in southern Lebanon before dawn today, blowing up houses and killing a number of Arabs. The Palestine Liberation Organization said the Israelis killed 11 people, including four children and two women.

The casualties also included five guerrillas killed, two missing and two wounded in the village of Eitanieh, near the Qasmieh Bridge about 27 kilometres north of the Israeli border, said a spokesman for the PLO.

An Israeli military spokesman said the force blew up five houses; that it met no resistance and returned to its base without any casualties. He said the houses were located about 2.5 km inland from the Mediterranean coast and about eight km north of Tyre, the chief city controlled by the Palestinians in southern Lebanon. He did not describe the size of the force nor how it reached its target.

The PLO spokesman in Beirut said the guerrillas belonged to the Iraqi-backed Arab Liberation Front, one of eight guerrilla groups that make up the PLO. The ALF claimed responsibility for an attack last April on the northern Israeli settlement of Misgav Am, in which three Israelis including a child and all four assailants were killed.

Meanwhile in Jerusalem, Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin was rushed by ambulance today to the intensive care unit at Hadassah Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

The spokesman said he did not immediately know the nature of Begin's ailment but the 67-year-old prime minister has a history of heart trouble and suffered a mild stroke in August.

Begin had been in the parliament building when the ambulance was called.

Bengal Room brawl

It's unclear why anyone left a Saturday night wedding party elsewhere in The Empress, but about a dozen guests somehow ended up in one of the hotel's watering holes, the Bengal Room.

And when the bartender cut them off, a Donnybrook began.

City police were called and by the time the Bengal rebellion was quelled, one officer had to be taken to hospital where he was treated for minor injuries.

Police said no one was charged.

Schmidt tells Brezhnev to pull troops

MOSCOW (UPI) — West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt arrived for two days of talks with Kremlin leaders Monday and publicly urged Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev to get all of his troops out of Afghanistan.

In a straight-talking dinner toast delivered at the Kremlin, the 61-year-old chancellor declared that West Germany stands firmly beside its West European allies and the position reached at last week's seven-nation summit meeting in Venice, Italy.

Schmidt, the first Western leader to visit Moscow since the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan last December, wasted no time in making good on a promise not to hold "soft talks" during his stay.

The wording of Schmidt's remarks was almost identical to that of a joint statement issued by the seven Western leaders at the Venice summit in response to the Soviet Union's announcement that it would withdraw 108 tanks and a division of troops from Afghanistan.

Arizona sloop leads in Maui

Triumph, a 61-foot sloop owned by brain surgeon Edward Diethrich of the Scottsdale Yacht Club in Arizona, was leading Sunday when the 36 boats in the Victoria-Maui sailing classic reported their positions.

One boat, Jack Ross' Rampart from the Comox Yacht Club, had already dropped out of the 2,308-mile race.

Behind Triumph were John Buchan's 54-foot sloop Glory from the Seattle Yacht Club and John Long's 47-foot sloop Indomitable out of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club.

Most of the fleet had taken the traditional southern route along the coast, hoping to pick up the northeasterly trade winds as soon as possible.

Vladimir Plavsic's Kanata out of the West Vancouver Yacht Club was sailing a more westerly route further out in the Pacific Ocean. Wink Vogel's Dream Machine of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club appeared to be following in Kanata's track.

A favorable ebb tide and 17-knot northwesterlies Saturday morning produced a fast start off Brotchie Ledge.

Most of the boats had their mainsails shortened, a notable exception being the Canadian navy's ketch HMCS Oriole. She needs a good blow to come into her own and this was it. She had all sails flying as she made her way to Race Rocks and the Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The winds switched to the west and piped up to 25 knots later in the day and by Saturday evening she was coming up to Cape Flattery and the open Pacific.

Normally an armada of pleasure cruisers accompanies the Victoria-Maui fleet as it makes its way through Juan de Fuca.

But wind and sea conditions on Saturday forced most of the power boats to duck back into the Inner Harbor soon after the race started.

The race is co-sponsored by the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club and the Lahaina Yacht Club and is raced every other year.

One new boat in the race is Bill Hester's Zuben'Ubi II of Seattle's Corinthian Yacht Club. The first Zuben'Ubi II collided with the 52-foot ketch Dorade, owned by Charles Ross of the Seattle Yacht Club, in the 1979 Swiftsure and sank.

The eight-man crew took to a liferaft before the boat went down.

Also hoping for a change of luck is Louis Lindholm of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club. This is his second Victoria-Maui race in Annie Cadby, which was dismasted in the 1978 sailout.

Bani-Sadr fights off clerical opponents

Times News Services

TEHRAN — Iran's embattled President, Abol Hassan Bani-Sadr, took the offensive against his clerical opponents Sunday, appealing to religious leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to give him "the tools" to govern effectively.

Responding to Khomeini's criticism of him and various ministries for failing to wipe out remnants of the reign of the ousted shah, Mohammad Reza Pahlavi, Bani-Sadr complained, "I cannot do anything if the tools are in other people's hands and the responsibility only rests in mine." He added that he pointed this out to Khomeini in a meeting Saturday.

In Cairo, meanwhile, the deposed shah of Iran underwent minor surgery today and has been moved into the intensive-care unit of the Maadi military hospital, hospital sources reported.

According to the sources, the shah's team of French, Egyptian and American doctors will decide later whether an exploratory operation also may be needed.

The shah was reported Saturday to be seriously ill, but on Sunday Egyptian President Anwar Sadat said his condition has greatly improved.

Runaway wheel

Sidney RCMP constable Martin Stinka was set up on the Pat Bay Highway just north of McTavish Road around noon Friday, watching his radar for speeders in the northbound lanes.

Instead, a speeder caught Stinka's cruiser, but it was no driver.

At first Stinka didn't know what had crashed into his car, causing an estimated $1,800 in damage.

It was finally identified as a rolling wheel from a dump truck, complete with rim and tire.

It came from a 1966 gravel truck driven by Michael Kenneth Bath, 27, of Brentwood Bay.

Bath didn't realize he had already lost one of his rear duals as he trundled down the highway, but when the second one went, down crashed the truck.

The wheel continued, smashing into the cruiser. No one was hurt.

Sidney boy hit by car

An eight-year-old boy who thought he was in a pedestrian crossing received a broken leg Friday afternoon when struck by a car as he walked his bike across Beacon Avenue near Seventh in Sidney.

RCMP said David Radford, 2251 Harbour, was crossing in the large Xs that precede the solid lines of the crosswalk when hit.

He told police he thought the Xs were part of the crosswalk.

Other vehicles stopped for the boy as he crossed but Ronald Norman, 4664 Spring, in Saanich, told police he didn't see him.

The boy was taken to Saanich Peninsula Hospital.

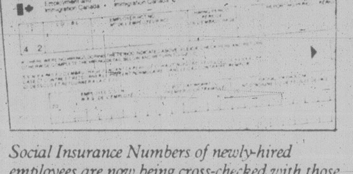
A new way to detect Unemployment Insurance abuse.

Most people getting unemployment insurance play by the rules. But some people don't seem to know that they can't take a job and collect benefits without telling us they're working. That's why employers are being asked to send us the starting date and Social Insurance Number or extracts from computer payroll tapes for each employee they hire or rehire. This information is cross-checked with the Social Insurance Numbers of people receiving unemployment insurance benefits. Only cases of potential abuse will ever surface. After investigation, anyone found receiving benefits to which they are not entitled will have to repay them.

It may be an honest mistake. Some people forget or don't understand they must tell Unemployment Insurance and report their total earnings when they start a new job. In that case, repayment is all that's required. But, a penalty or prosecution may follow when the new system detects people wrongly collecting benefits.

If you are collecting unemployment insurance benefits, and start a new job, please say so on your UI claimant report card.



Social Insurance Numbers of newly-hired employees are now being cross-checked with those of people receiving unemployment insurance benefits. Only cases of potential abuse will ever surface.

POWER FLUSH
Your Car's Cooling System

The cooling system is the most neglected part of your car. It dissipates 1/3 of the high heat generated by combustion. Bearing, piston rings, cylinders, oil pumps, gear teeth, and all mechanical engine and transmission parts can sustain serious damage from excessive heat. Water or anti-freeze/summer coolant contaminated by rust, scale build-up and sludge cannot provide adequate cooling system efficiency. Thermostats fail to open, hoses deteriorate, impellors bind or break off and engine blocks often become distorted or cracked. The results are always costly and frequently disastrous.

Canada's 113th birthday sparks Schreyer warning

SCHREYER

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Governor General Edward Schreyer and Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau expressed concern over Canadian unity in their messages to the country on the eve of Canada's 113th birthday.

The danger to the Canadian federation has only lessened with the passing of the recent referendum on Quebec independence — indifference could still destroy the country, Governor General Edward Schreyer warned.

Schreyer likened the referendum to troubles within a family.

"Just as the members of a family close ranks around one of their own facing a grave difficulty, Canadians . . . drew closer to their compatriots in Quebec.

"Now that the immediate danger seems to have lessened (Canadians) should not want to return to a state of indifference and apathy. The road ahead is long and requiring patience — a country can not be redirected overnight — but it would be unfortunate if, having arrived at the crossroads, we should each take a different pathway and return to our separate concerns without a thought to the concerns of others."

In his message, Prime Minister Trudeau urged all Canadians who want to participate in the constitutional reform process to offer suggestions for improving the statement of principles he has proposed as a preamble to a new constitution.

What's to celebrate? Plenty

since John A. Macdonald was a pup.

In 1866, Joseph Howe, in a bitter attack on Confederation, complained, "We are sold for the price of a sheepskin."

The same chap, two years later, describing the futility of bucking Confederation, said, "We shall be like a goose hissing at a stage coach. We may hiss, but the coach will run us over."

There has hardly been a time since then when some part of Canada wasn't either threatening to pack and go home to Mother (when Britain was our mentor), or tryng to shack up with the rich guy next door, when we came under the care and control of the United States.

Hockey is not our national sport. Bitching is.

However, the stage coach keeps rolling along, bowling over the geese.

And, once in a while, something happens. Something like that glorious moment on July 1, 1967, when we hit 100, and all across the land, we came together in groups that were first embarrassed and then proud and then loud, and we told ourselves that we had done it, we had made it, we could go on from here.

Hot damn, that was a marvellous time.

We have been a spoiled-brat land now and then, a nation of incredible resources, too self-willed to use them properly; a nation of incalculable strength and immeasureable wealth, showing a petty and selfish face to the world. Nobody's perfect.

We have also been grown-up, and shrewd, and effective — class monitor, aid-giver, honest broker, one of the few countries still trusted to hold to the path of decency. Nobody's beyond hope.

It is necessary to set the good against the bad in this strange place, to remember our beginnings, even if our end is uncertain. We began in a detemination, however illogical, to hang together on the northern half of this continent, to make it our own, and to make it work.

We have done that; we go on doing it.

Celebration is not our forte, and the goings-on scheduled for Parliament Hill July 1 are so much pompous piffle. Their purpose is to puff up politicians, and to hell with it.

I like to remember the order our first governor general sent to the soldiers: "The troops in Canada shall parade at a given hour (say eleven o'clock) on the 1st July 1867, fire royal salute, hoist royal standard and perform such other evolutions as may best express their joy at the accomplishment of Confederation."

No gushing in that. We are not a country that goes in for sentimental drivel. But we are a country.

Pay hikes in B.C. at 13.4%

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wage settlements in B.C. so far this year are averaging 13.4 per cent, says a survey by the Canadian Association of Industrial, Mechanical and Allied Workers.

Last month, the labor ministry reported settlements in the first quarter averaged an increase of 11.9 per cent, or 96 cents an hour.

The association survey, based largely on provincial labor ministry research branch figures, the Employers' Council of B.C. and augmented by other sources, includes 80 contracts covering 43,345 employees in the public sector, and 14,600 in private industry.

It also included the percentage increase of fringe benefits.

Increases averaged 14 per cent in the public sector, said association vice-president Peter Cameron, adding that the figure was heavily weighted by two large settlements covering registered nurses in general hospitals and psychiatric hospitals.

Private sector increases averaged 11.5 per cent.

"Our survey shows that settlements are running at a far higher figure than is generally assumed," he said. "In B.C. at least, the average worker is keeping significantly ahead of inflation."

The national annual inflation rate in May was reported at 9.4 per cent, but B.C. has a lower increase in the cost of living.

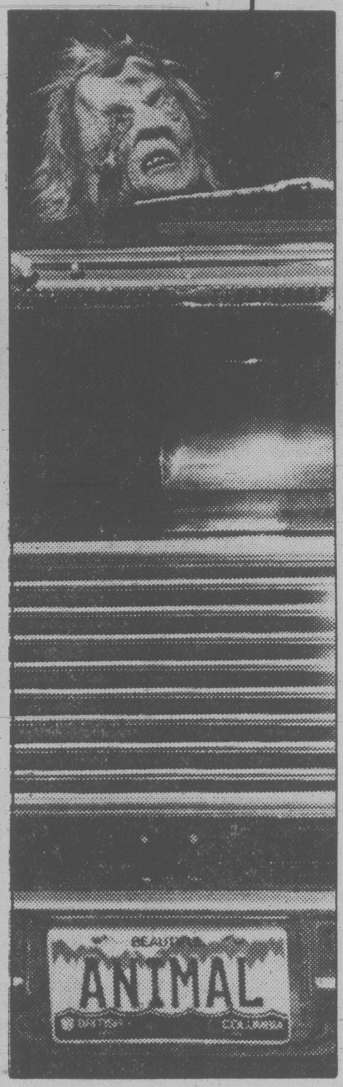
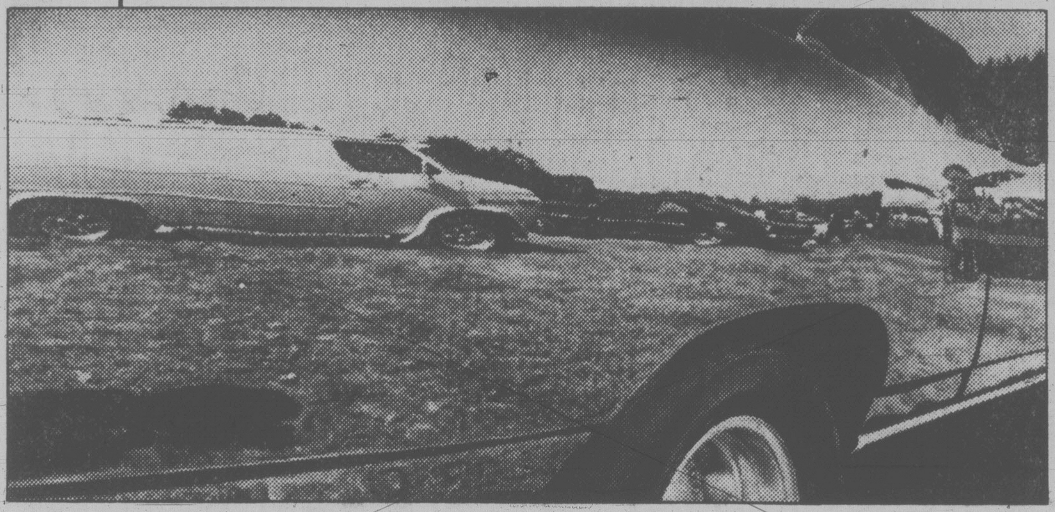
Galaxy of super-vehicles

The second annual Sooke Street Irons Rod Run at Sooke Flats Saturday and Sunday was a resounding success. The outdoor car show attracted nearly 200 entries, including pre-1948 street rods such as coupes, roadsters, sedans, pick-ups and sedan deliveries, post-1948 street machines, including late-model muscle cars, antique and custom vehicles and motorcycles. Among the antiques was the 1926 crank-starting model T (right) owned by Ken Ballard. Ultra-shiny black road runner owned by Flash Gordon (below) reflects other entries. Sometimes the licence plates said it all, as is the case in the photo at far right. Trophies went to Ray Wittrock of Swift Current, Sask., in the long distance category; Gordon Cline of Duncan in the pre-1948 class with a 1932 Ford three-window coupe; Dave Smith in the post-1948 competition with a 1957 Ford Skyliner with retractable hardtop, and Cline in the people's choice category.





In case you're wondering

My family and I do a lot of driving on the Saanich Peninsula and our curiosity has been piqued by the operation of the traffic lights on the Pat Bay Highway. We have been told that there are pressure points under the white stop line at crossing roads, such as Island View, Mount Newton and McTavish, which, if one stops with the front wheels on the line, effect a light change. Is this true? Does it only work during low traffic hours?

A provincial highways spokesman explains there are loops — wires buried in the pavement — at every road that has traffic lights and intersects the Pay Bay Highway.

When the wheels of a vehicle pass over the loop a message is triggered to the traffic light and, after a slight delay, the light is turned in favor of the intersecting road traffic.

This induction system is in operation at all times.

The spokesman says there is a minimum time that the lights must remain green on the highway. Because of the system, the most heavily used intersecting roads have a shorter green time period for cars being driven on the Pat Bay Highway.

If your interest has been aroused by some feature of Victoria — or even some oddity — write to Wondering, Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas.

Ads by lawyers? It's old hat here

Ads for lawyers in Vancouver's new Yellow Pages are causing a stir in the profession but the same change took place in Victoria six months ago without much controversy.

Mostly smaller firms are advertising in the Vancouver phone book, including a couple of celebrated storefront offices which have been trying to advertise their fees schedule as well, but the listings also include prestigious Davis and Co.

That's the firm which former justice minister Ron Basford works for.

Law Society treasurer Victor McCallum said he was amazed to see this old established firm advertising in the Yellow Pages.

Some well-known Victoria firms advertised in the local telephone directory when it came out earlier this year, but their ads went in before a Law Society ruling that all copy must first be submitted to them for review.

C.G. Randall of Randall, Meyer, Pollard and Fuller said today the society had authorized the use of Yellow Pages ads at the 11th hour late last year and Victoria firms had only a few days' notice to meet the telephone company's deadline.

Harold Turnham of Owen-Flood, Cox, Turnham, Green and Higginbotham said there have beeen suggestions the Law Society didn't like some of the wording in the Victoria ads but they haven't made any specific complaints.

Randall said his firm's small one-column notice has attracted some new business.

"We've had some people who said they saw our ad.

"I'd have to say it has helped."

Advertising by the legal profession is still tightly controlled, however. No radio or television commercials are allowed — only print advertising.

"They're allowing ads in the newspapers which I think is helpful to some of the smaller firms out in the neighborhoods," said Randall. "We never considered it (a newspaper ad) necessary."

Turnham said his firm placed an ad in the local Yellow Pages basically because the partners believed everyone else was going to.

The firm was surprised more Victoria lawyers didn't advertise. Only five firms placed separate small display ads, while another six highlighted their alphabetical listings with larger type in a box.

Besides the Law Society restriction on wording — lawyers can't claim they "specialize" in any type of law, but must say "preferred area of practice" instead — there's a limit on the size of the ad too.

One-eighth of a page is the maximum — the size of Owen-Flood Cox Turnham's notice at page 274 in the current phone book.

Taxation offices buzzing

It was a quiet pre-holiday sort of day today for a lot of workers but the municipal staff collecting property taxes was kept hopping as Victorians rushed to pay up on the last day allowed — almost.

June 30 is the deadline in most Victoria-area municipalities for payment of taxes, although some — like the city — won't impose the customary five-per-cent penalty if payment is in their offices by Wednesday. Other municipalities doing so are Esquimalt and Saanich. North Saanich tax department said if payment is post-marked June 30 or before and it arrives late, no penalty will be charged.

Oak Bay, Sidney and Central Saanich all want your money today, no ifs ands or buts.

The lucky taxpayers are those in unorganized territory such as View Royal, the Highlands and the western community. Their deadline is also the same as their municipal neighbors but they can pay up to a month late without penalty.

They pay directly to the provincial government, at Room 20, 617 Government, or by mail to P.O. Box 2900, Victoria, V8W 3G4.

All municipalities reported brisk business this morning.

20% increase in house prices in city since October - survey

Victoria's house prices have increased about 20 per cent since October and the city now ranks behind only Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary and Toronto as the most expensive place for house buyers in Canada.

The June survey by Royal Trust shows a typical four-bedroom resale home in an area like Broadmead would cost $135,000, up 22.7 per cent from $120,000 in October.

A three-bedroom resale home in Gordon head would go for about $88,000, up 19 per cent from $74,000 in October.

The $135,000 four-bedroom house would cost $250,000 in Kerrisdale, $235,000 in parts of Calgary, $169,000 in Edmonton and and $157,000 in Toronto.

But the same home is only $117,000 in the Toronto suburb of North York, $103,000 in Regina, $89,500 in Ottawa and $58,000 in Three Rivers, Quebec.

The $88,000 three-bedroom home would cost $160,000 in Kerrisdale, $144,000 in Calgary, $119,000 in Edmonton and $98,000 in parts of Toronto.

But the price would be only $78,000 in the Toronto suburb of Mississauga, $65,000 in Regina, $62,800 in Ottawa and $35,000 in Three Rivers.

Wally Vogelsang, local mortgage manager for Royal Trust, said the survey reflects two trends: sharp price increases in Western Canada and a real estate slump in Ontario.

"They are in a pretty bad situation in the east.

"The car layoffs are starting to have their effect. There is a real estate slump developing in Kitchener, in St. Catherines — all through the region. Toronto is the only place not yet affected.

"Ottawa also has a decline in the real estate market because of the continuing shift of government offices out of the city."

Vogelsang said there is nothing to keep Victoria prices from moving higher, as the demand is strong.

Mortgage funds are becoming a little tight in some companies because investors are favoring only short-term deposits, up to one year.

Price limit boosted for grants

The price limits on houses eligible under the provincial government's home acquisition grants and second mortgage programs have been boosted by 25 to 35 per cent.

Lands, Parks and Housing Minister Jim Chabot announced that effective on Tuesday the limit on houses under the first home and family first home grants will be $70,000.

For the second mortgage program, the limit will be $84,000. Previously, there were differing levels in the various regions of B.C.

That bang won't be the volcano

Victorians at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday will hear the loudest sound since Mount St. Helens erupted when planes from CFB Comox fly low over the city to mark Canada's 113th birthday.

The flypast will include 101 Voodoos, a T33, Trackers and an Argus.

The planes will herald the arrival of a giant birthday cake in Centennial Square, the climax of the 10-day Folkfest.

Representatives from many parts of Canada will help blow out the candles.

Dominion Day Eve events at Centennial Square tonight include official ceremonies involving the Human Rights Commission and the Women's Canadian Club at 6:45 p.m.

This will be followed by dances marking multicultural women's day.

On Tuesday, Folkfest resumes at 11 a.m. when the kiosks open and official Dominion Day ceremonies will be held at 1 p.m.

There will be entertainment between 1 and 2:20 before the flypast and the birthday cake cutting.

Folkfest events continue until 9 p.m.

Tuesday is also Armed Forces Day for Victoria.

CFB Esquimalt will be open to the public from noon until 4 p.m.

The program includes harbor tours and rides.

There will be an air show at the base, starting at 1:55 p.m. and the planes will form the city's fly past at 2:30 p.m.

A free double decker bus will carry people from the Causeway to the base between noon and 4 p.m.

The other major event in the area on the holiday is Sidney Days, starting with a parade from Sanscha Hall at 11 a.m.

A pancake breakfast will be held before the event.

There will be craft shows and entertainment at the Sanscha grounds.

A 25-mile bicycle race will start from Beacon Avenue at 1:30 p.m.

A huge Canadian flag, donated by the Victoria Village Squares harmony chorus, will be presented to the city at the Beacon Hill Park flagpole at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The group felt the present flag is too small for the pole. Their Maple Leaf flag measures 4.6 metres by 2.3 metres.

Generally speaking, there are two schools of bidders. The first comprises those whose chief goal in bidding is to arrive at the best possible contract for their side. This group represents the overwhelming majority of bridge players.

In the second school are those players whose chief purpose is to try to prevent the opponents from reaching their best contract. The strategy these players employ varies from individual to individual, but the aim is always the same — to do the opponents out of what is their due.

It is clear from this deal, played in the 1978 Women's World Pair Championship, that North-South, whose identity we shall not divulge, were both full-fledged members of the conniving school.

South opened the bidding third-hand with one diamond, presumably because it was her turn to bid. West doubled one diamond and North, attempting to muddy the waters, thereupon bid one deceptive spade. East entered the arena with two hearts, largely because she and her partner were using a peculiar system where you bid what you have rather than what you do not have!

West raised two hearts to four and this jump-raise rolled around the South, who apparently thought she had not yet expressed the enormous power of her hand. Accordingly, South bid four spades. West doubled with pardonable emotion, and North then retreated to five diamonds — which also got doubled.

Then came five spades and six diamonds, both doubled, and the bidding finally came to a grinding halt. Declarer went down six — 1,700 points — and North-South were left with the gnawing feeling that perhaps something had gone wrong with their bidding system.

"Gambling, eh?" said Alan, finding the boys playing cards with some pennies on the table. "Who's winning?"

Jeff paused in his dealing. "I am so far, Dad. But I've only won fourteen cents," he declared. "Anyway, I've got five times as much as I would have if I'd lost that much instead."

How much did he have to start with?

Memphis an omen for hot Lee Trevino

Times News Services

Lee Trevino, with his second title of the season safely tucked away, has set his sights on the British Open golf championship.

"I'm looking forward to going into the British Open, because I'm going in a winner," Trevino said after scoring a one-stroke victory Sunday in the Danny Thomas tournament at Memphis, Tenn.

And well he may.

His victory Sunday may have served as an omen for another.

His two previous British Open titles came following victories in the Memphis event. He won Memphis in 1971 and a couple of months later won the British. In 1972 he won Memphis and followed with the triumph at Muirfield.

Trevino joined the tour in 1967 and has collected 24 American tour titles. The Memphis victory, secured on a last-round, three-under-par 69 and a 272 total, 16 strokes under par, enabled him to join Tom Watson and Craig Stadler as the only multiple winners of the year.

The big cheque pushed his winnings for the year to $285,743, the most he has won in any single season.

Meanwhile, in Canada, the big winner was Dan Halldorson of Shilo, Man., who captured the 67th Quebec Open at Victoriaville with an 11-under-par total of 205. It was his first tournament victory since the 1978 Manitoba Open.

Halldorson fired a final-round 67 to finish six strokes ahead of Serge Thivierge of Laval, Que.

Gilles Larochelle of Granby, Que., Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., and Bob Beauchemin of Victoria, who fired a 72, tied at 213, good for $866.66 each.

At Rochester, Nancy Lopez-Melton outduelled Pat Bradley over the final 18 holes, posting a two-under-par 71 to win a $125,000 Ladies Pro tournament with a 72-hole total of 283.

The win, worth $18,750, was Lopez-Melton's second of the year.

And at Mamaroneck, N.Y., Roberto de Vicenzo, the 1967 British Open winner, shot a final-round 70 to win the inaugural U.S. Senior Open title with a one-over-par total of 285.

Bill Campbell, a former U.S. amateur winner and vice-president of the U.S. Golf Association, shot 69 to finish second, four strokes off the pace.

Art Wall, Jr., wound up third at 290.

DeGirolamo continues to lead selection trials

Victoria's Dorothy DeGirolamo continues to set the pace but a former Canadian champion is pressing the Gorge Vale member for the No. 1 spot on the British Columbia women's golf team after two more trial rounds at the weekend.

DeGirolamo fired an 82 on her home Gorge course Saturday and added an 81 Sunday at Victoria Golf Club. She scored 72-80 in the first trials at Vancouver the previous weekend for a four-round total of 315.

Differentials, however, is all important. DeGirolamo's differential from the four rounds is 20 while Gail Moore, the former Canadian champion from Coquitlam, has a differential of 21 after rounds of 75-73-81-77.

Paula Phillips (82-76-85-82) and Flo McFall (79-80-89-76), both of Vancouver, are tied at 29 while Vale White Westall (78-82-86-80) is at 31.

Victoria's only other hopefuls are Pat Derry of Colwood (82-89-80-81), with a differential of 37, and Joanne Smith of Colwood (84-87-92-81), at 49.

Qualifying rounds of the B.C. tournament at Vancouver Shaughnessy, July 7-11, will conclude the selection rounds. Only the best five of the six rounds count towards team selection.

Third straight for Rutledge

COWICHAN — Victoria professional Jim Rutledge missed a shot at the course record, but that is about all that he missed in the annual Cowichan Open golf tournament.

Opening with a two-under-par 70 Saturday, Rutledge turned the tournament into a runaway with a 68 Sunday for an easy, six-stroke victory over Ian Harper, a Nanaimo amateur now working as an assistant at the Cowichan Golf Club.

Rutledge, six under par with three holes to play, had a chance to tie or break the course record of 65 but finished bogey-bogey-par.

It was Rutledge's third straight victory here, and was worth $600.

Kelly Murray of Vancouver Marine Drive and Cec Ferguson of Regina were next low pros at 145 and pocketed $350 each.

Keith Westover of Vancouver was runnerup low amateur, at 148, three shots behind Harper.

Low net champion was Bud Falkner of Victoria Club, with a net 138. Runnerup Rick Fortunaso of Vancouver was at 140 and Ralph Thorne of Cowichan was third with a 141 total.

What jinx? Cosmos display fine style in blanking 'Caps

VANCOUVER (CP) — New York Cosmos ended their so-called Vancouver jinx by blanking the Whitecaps 3-0 Sunday before a card-waving crowd of 32,280 in a North American Soccer League game.

First-half goals by Francois Van der Elst and Franz Beckenbauer, combined with an air-tight defence gave the Cosmos their first-ever regular season win at Empire stadium in three tries.

The win was bittersweet for the Cosmos considering Vancouver eliminated New York from the Soccer Bowl play-offs in 1979 in the semi-finals.

The game featured the NASL debut of two international stars, Vancouver's Rudi Krol from the Netherlands and Van der Elst, a fleet-winger from Belgium, for the Cosmos.

New York goalkeeper Hubert Birkenmeier recorded his fifth shutout of the season with some alert work on high, crossing passes, while Vancouver's Bruce Grobbelaar had a more difficult afternoon.

The capacity crowd, waving signs saying Catch the Wave, didn't spark the Whitecaps and their anemic offense as Vancouver was shut out for the second straight game and saw its record slip to 9-10.

New York now is 13-5 and the Cosmos have a comfortable 37-point lead atop the eastern division of the national conference. Whitecaps are third in their division.

Vancouver dominated most of the opening half with its ball control, but it was the Cosmos who jumped in to a 2-0 lead with goals five minutes apart late in the half.

Van der Elst made a poor pass on a quick break in the 35th minute, but atoned for his error two minutes later with a booming shot from 25 yards.

The ball hit the post and rebounded into the net off Grobbelaar's arm.

The Whitecaps seemed shocked by the goal and went into a defensive shell just long enough for Beckenbauer to score his fourth goal of the season with a curling 20-yarder.

Trevor Whymark had several good scoring chances for Vancouver in the second half. He shot over the net on a feed from Krol early in the half and late in the game was robbed by the New York goaltender on a header.

The game was cleanly played compared to previous matches between the often emotional teams.

In other NASL games Sunday, Seattle blanked Atlanta 3-0, Washington doubled Houston 6-3, San Jose trounced California 5-1 and Rochester edged Tulsa 2-1.

Roger Davies scored three goals in a game for the third time this season as the Sounders won.

Seattle goalkeeper Jack Brand stopped 26 Atlanta shots to preserve his 12th shutout, tying the NASL single-season record with 12 games left to play.

Walter, Ford capture crown

AMSTERDAM (CP) — Bruce Ford and Pat Walter of Victoria won the men's double sculls crown Sunday as Canada wound up with two gold medals, a silver and a bronze in the Dutch open rowing championships.

American rowers dominated the finals, winning 18 titles during the two-day competition.

Ford and Walter's winning time was 6 minutes, 29.66 for the 2,000-metre course with the U.S. placing second in 6:30.30 and Union Bruxelles of Belgium third in 6:45.83.

Canada's other gold medal came in the women's coxless pairs where Betty Craig of Brockville, Ont., and stroke Tricia Smith of Vancouver won the 1,000-metre race with a time of three minutes, 28.41 seconds, defeating Nereus of the Netherlands, 3:34.30, and the U.S. entry, 3:36.75.

The American crew won the women's eights in 2:57.85, the first time ever that a women's crew has broken the three-minute barrier on this course.

Canada's entry finished second in 3:06.36, followed by West Germany in 3:09.67.

On the Canadian team were Gail Cort of St. Catharines, Ont., Monika Draeger of Niagara Falls, Ont., Sylvia Wetzl of Cornwall, Ont., Vicki Harber of Vancouver, Jane Tregunno of St. Catharines, Kim Gordon of Burnaby, B.C., Katie Burke of Victoria, stroke Kathy Lichty of St. Catharines and cox Illoana Smith of Victoria.

In the women's coxed fours, Australia placed first in 3:17.44, followed by the U.S. in 3:22.32 and Canada in 3:27.32. Kelly Jacklin of Victoria, Iona Mawtab of St. Catharines, Ina DeLure of Victoria, stroke Susan Antoft of Halifax and cox Leslie Thompson of Vancouver competed for Canada.

The Netherlands wound up first in the women's double sculls with a clocking of 3:11.94. The U.S. was second in 3:12.19, followed by Hungary in 3:14.99, Denmark in 3:16.48, and Cheryl Mason of Victoria and Marie Claude Gaudet of Laval, Que., in 3:17.24.

New provincial king Walter Kinakin shoots for ringer

Alice Hickman takes third straight 'shoe title

Victoria's Alice Hickman won her third straight provincial title Sunday when the B.C. horseshoe-pitching championships ended at Glanford Park.

Alice finished with a ringer percentage of 57 to win the women's event ahead of Dorothy Loza of Victoria, who was second, and Phyllis Dahl of Vancouver.

About 55 shoe-tossers participated in the two-day tournament with the coveted men's "A" event crown going to Walter Kinakin of Castlegar, who had nine wins and no losses in the 10-player round-robin contest, finishing with a 62.9 ringer percentage.

Nat Zablotny of Vancouver was second and Bob Timothy of Ladysmith wound up in the third position.

Victoria's Roy Jago, a former B.C. champion and one of the Island's top-ranked throwers, didn't have one of his better tournaments and placed seventh.

Darryl Rainer of Shawnigan Lake won the 10-competitor men's "B" round-robin event with a 35 ringer percentage. Sam Tomasevic of Vancouver was second and Stu Battie of Ladysmith was third.

Roy's son, Cliff Jago, won the men's "C" event, shooting 36 per cent to place ahead of two other Victorians, runner-up Tom Hawkins and Larry Westman.

The seniors' title, for pitchers 65 years and over, was won by Bert Jamieson of Victoria. Darryl Burdge, also of the host Greater Victoria Horseshoe Pitching Association, captured the junior (16-and-under) title, throwing 39 per cent ringers.

Andrea wins thriller against British star

LONDON (AP) — American teenager Andrea Jaeger upset former champion Virginia Wade of Britain 6-2, 7-6 today to advance to the women's singles quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

Jaeger, at 15, the youngest seed ever at Wimbledon, won the second set tie-breaker 7-2 to sideline Wade, the No. 7 seed, in a one-hour, 40-minute thriller.

Wade became the highest seed to go out at this year's championship. Jaeger, seeded 14th, now plays two-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd, seeded No. 3.

In another suspenseful fourth-round match, veteran Billie Jean King of the United States saved a second-set match point and then staged a superb recovery to down 17-year-old Pam Shriver of the U.S. 5-7, 7-6, 10-8.

King, 36, winner of a record 20 Wimbledon titles, trailed 2-4 in the final set and Shriver had five points for a 5-2 lead but squandered them all.

The two-hour, 40-minute battle enthralled a huge crowd on Court No. 2.

King, the No. 5 seed, finally broke Shriver's serve in the 17th game of the final set and then held on to take the match.

The unseeded Shriver was involved in a number of bitter disputes with her opponent during the match and at one stage asked that the tournament referee be called.

King now meets Martina Navratilova, her friend and doubles partner, in the quarter-finals.

Navratilova, the defending champion and top seed, scored a 6-4, 6-2 victory over 10th-seeded Kathy Jordan of the U.S.

Second-seeded Tracy Austin ousted fellow American Terry Holladay 6-2, 6-3, while Evert Lloyd downed JoAnne Russell 6-3, 6-2.

Also through to the last eight were No. 4 seed Evonne Goolagong of Australia, Wendy Turnbull and Greer Stevens.

Stevens, of South Africa, playing with her left knee in a heavy brace, upset No. 8 seed Dianne Fromholtz of Australia 6-2, 6-2. Goolagong, the 1971 champion, overcame an early setback to oust 18-year-old Czechoslovak Hana Mandlikova 6-7, 6-3, 6-1, while sixth-seeded Turnbull downed American Lele Forood 6-0, 6-2.

In men's play, Bjorn Borg was to face Hungarian star Balasz Taroczy today in a bid to set an all-time Wimbledon record — 32 consecutive match victories.

The 24-year-old Swede began his run when he won the first of his four straight Wimbledon titles in 1976. He has been winning at Wimbledon ever since.

When he defeated Rod Frawley of Australia on Saturday to reach the last 16, Borg equalled the record of 31 victories set by Rod Laver in 1970.

In earlier men's singles contests today, fifth-seeded Roscoe Tanner defeated fellow-American Nick Saviano 7-6, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 and sixth-ranked Gene Mayer of the U.S. outlasted Australian Colin Dibley 3-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2.

The second week of the tournament began with a backlog of 70 matches, following days of rain. Both the men's and women's singles were down to the last 16, instead of the quarter-finals, which would be normal. The survivors have battled through on damp and treacherous grass courts.

Slick-fielding visitors earn split with Budgets

If you like teams that can execute fundamentals, you would have to appreciate the Oxnard Petrochem Kings from California.

Among the fundamentals experienced managers like to hammer into young ballplayers is the necessity to "get the lead runner."

The Kings were able to do that consistently, when it mattered, and it helped pitcher Pete Hovestreydt secure a split with Victoria Budgets in their exhibition men's softball series at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday.

Beaten 2-1 by Budgets in the opener, Kings bounced back behind the four-hit pitching of Hovestreydt to claim the nightcap 1-0.

No. 3 among the eight "Super Series" Budgets have scheduled at home this season, Sunday's doubleheader has to be considered as the most entertaining thus far. And there is prospect of more. Teams conclude their four-game stand tonight, starting at 7.

Hovesgtreydt outduelled Mark Smith in the exciting nightcap Sunday. Smith also allowed only four hits, but a big factor in Oxnard's victory was the Kings' ability to nail lead runners on attempted sacrifice situations.

Three times Budgets attempted to push runners from first to second and into scoring position. Oxnard's infield, reacting brilliantly, got the lead man each time, including twice in the seventh inning.

Oxnard, taking advantage of a walk to Rene Martinez, a sacrifice and Marty Rubinoff's single, scored the game's lone run in the sixth.

If the Budgets were to tie, Dennis Eckert unlocked the door on opportunity by leading off the seventh and final inning with a single. Randy Benn's attempted sacrifice didn't work. First baseman Tom Shapparo's toss to shortstop Vic Rivera forced Eckert.

Victoria's Bob Wilson then tried to get Benn to second. Again, the advancing runner was forced at second.

The value of keeping Victoria's runner at first was evident when Alden Govenlock singled but Wilson was forced to hold up at third. Had either of the two "push-alongs" worked, the runner would have scored easily from second base.

Budgets won the opener after pitcher Dave Wilson worked himself out of a big jam in the top of the seventh and Victoria rebounded to push across the winning run in the bottom half of the inning.

Trailing 1-0, Oxnard loaded the bases with none out in the seventh. A great grab by shortstop Warren Campbell, holding Sam Triana's drive to an infield single, prevented Kings from scoring more than once.

Wilson's single, a two-base throwing error that allowed him to wind up at third, and Benn's pinch-hit carom off the outfield fence allowed Budgets to plate the winner in their half of the inning.

Blues provide Gattis with wish, plus one

SALEM, Ore. — Victoria Blues have given field boss Jim Gattis "what I had wanted" on their first road trip of the 1980 Northwest Baseball League campaign.

Gattis wished for "at least .500 ball" but the Blues, thanks to a 2-1, 10-inning victory Sunday over Salem Senators, wound up the nine-game jaunt with a 5-4 won-lost record.

The Blues now return to friendly Royal Athletic Park for a three-game stand against Salem, including Tuesday's holiday afternoon doubleheader, one of the rare twin-bills the Victoria club has scheduled for the season.

A two-out triple by shortstop Rod Murphy and Nick Belmonte's single broke a 1-1 tie in the extra inning and provided reliever Tony Nigro with his second victory of the year.

Belmonte, Murphy, Gattis (who handled third base duties) and Alonzo Washington all had two hits for Blues.

Blues, who dropped a 5-4 decision to Salem on Saturday, now have a 6-6 record for the year. Salem's Lester Douglas provided the big blow Saturday, a three-run homer that tagged Ken Klazca with his second setback.

Hurlers lead Ingraham into Western playoffs

Superb pitching performances by Len Carolan and Ray Beveridge carried Ingraham Rodeway Inn to a berth in the Western Canada senior "B" men's softball championships.

Carolan accounted for two victories and Beveridge the other as Ingraham captured top honors in the four-team, double-knockout playdowns at Central Park.

Carolan, who started Ingraham on its way by winning a 15-inning, 2-1 decision over Larry Cole and Tally-Ho on Saturday, sealed it Sunday with a two-hit, 3-1 victory over Tod-Hackett Construction. The Contractors reached the final by tripping Athletics 2-1.

Beveridge accounted for Ingraham's other victory, another 2-1 decision over the Athletics.

Minter retains crown

LONDON (AP) — Alan Minter of Britain retained his undisputed world middleweight boxing title when former champion Vito Antuofermo of the United States retired on his stool at the end of the eighth round of a scheduled 15-round contest Saturday night at Wembley Arena.

Antuofermo was bleeding badly from cuts around both eyes and his handlers advised the referee he was in no position to continue.

Sports car drivers connect in Seattle

SEATTLE — Victoria drivers picked up three first-place finishes Sunday as the seventh event in the northwest series staged by the International Conference of Sports Car Clubs ended here.

Frank Smith of Victoria was first in Class F sports racing cars in his Mini Cooper S. John Erith, driving a Mini Cooper S, was first in Class D improved sedans and Larry Sandham, also in a Mini Cooper S, won Class C for improved sedans.

Bill O'Kell of Victoria was second in E production sports cars driving an MGB while Gordie Munroe, driving a Chevron B39, was second in Class Formula Atlantic.

Paul Bains, driving a Lola, was second in Class B sports racing cars and Marilyn Smith was third in Class D improved sedans in a Mini Cooper S.

A total of 214 drivers competed in the two-day event.

Bottlers toughest when shortstaffed

Having a man short didn't hamper Victoria Goodwill Bottlers Sunday. They fired in five shorthanded goals and cruised to a 13-7 win over Richmond Roadrunners in a B.C. Intermediate "A" Lacrosse League game at George Pearkes Arena.

Gordie Christiaens scored three goals, all of them while his team was shorthanded, to top the Bottlers, who led 6-2 after the first period and 9-4 after the second.

Wayne Christiaens, Sean Dheensaw and Frank Wendt scored two goals each and adding a goal each were Paul Cullen, Steve Lapointe, Glen Jay and Alton Davis.

Ray Jensen and Dick Chrepenu got two goals each for Richmond.

Russ Gurney went all the way in goal for the Bottlers, making 55 saves.

The Bottlers, who now lead the league with an .800 percentage, play again next Saturday against Surrey at Esquimalt Sports Centre and on Sunday against New Westminster, in the same arena. Burnaby is in second spot in the league with a .761 percentage and Richmond is third with .714.

Sprays take two against Nanaimo

Victoria Seasprays, getting four goals from Gary Schubak, edged Nanaimo Branch 10 Legion 11-10 Sunday at Nanaimo for their second bantam lacrosse victory in two days.

On Saturday, Steve Sajn picked up four assists to help the Victoria club down Nanaimo 13-6 at Sidney's Panorama Centre.

In Saturday's only 40-overs competition match, Nanaimo declared at 106 runs and then got Saanich all out for 50 runs to win by 56 in Nanaimo.

Despite some good bowling by John Newton, who took four wickets at a cost of 30 runs for Saanich, Grant Dickinson hit 57 runs to lead Nanaimo.

Also on Saturday, Caribs of Calgary took a step toward becoming the best club in Western Canada by defeating Albion of Victoria by two wickets in the John Ross Robertson Trophy match at Beacon Hill Park.

The Calgary club now plays the winner of the match between the leading Manitoba and Saskatchewan clubs to decide which club will represent Western Canada in the Canadian club championship.

Albions scored 165 runs all out and then Caribs scored 166 for eight.

Elvin Carter led the Victoria batting with 68 runs while Brian Heaps scored 65. Alan Carter was the best Albion bowler, taking three wickets for 35 runs.

Brentwood oarsmen manage good efforts

NOTTINGHAM, England — Two Brentwood College schoolboy crews were fourth in their respective races Saturday in the Nottingham International Rowing Regatta.

Brentwood's eight crew finished fourth out of 18 boats in a race won by the Ridley Boat Club of St. Catharines, Ont. Harvard was second and New York Potomacs third.

While Brentwood was strictly a schoolboy eight, the Ontario boat was not exclusively made up of Ridley College rowers but included old boys of the school as well. Brentwood finished ahead of all the English schools they will be competing against at next week's Royal Henley Regatta.

In the straight fours and coxed fours, Brentwood placed second in their heats to qualify for both finals. Because of the timing of the events, however, the Mill Bay school chose to race only in the coxed four final and placed fourth. Wallingford of England won the event and the English National Youth crew was second.

Nauritsos sparkles at Courtenay meet

COURTENAY — Younger swimmers from the Victoria Flying Y Swim Club carried off more than their share of titles when the two-day Courtenay Campout swim meet ended Sunday.

Little Rosemarie Nauritsos of the Flying Y won five events and placed second in a sixth in the girls' eight and under division while in the nine and 10-year-old boys' division clubmate David Sharp had four firsts and two seconds.

Greg Sieb of Nanaimo's Rip Tide Swim Club was impressive in the eight and under boys division, winning three events and two girls from the Duncan Aquanis Swim Club — Amelia Hankin and Nicole Paras — had two wins and three wins respectively.

Events for older competitors were completely dominated by the strong Kokanee Swim Club from Vernon.

The meet heavily emphasized the fun side of swimming and featured family relay races. Next on the card for competitors is the much more serious B.C. Swimming Championships in Vancouver July 3, 4, 5 and 6, in which the Flying Y Club has six swimmers competing.

Cablevision takes a pair

Four-goal performances by Dan McLenaghen, Paul Brunoro and Brent Greig provided the sparks that carried Burnaby Cablevision to a pair of Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League victories at the weekend.

McLenaghen fired his four goals Sunday in Burnaby as Cablevision breezed to a 16-8 win over Coquitlam Adanacs. Greig and Brunoro made their contributions Saturday in Richmond as Burnaby clipped the Roadrunners 15-11.

Tony Vendrasco scored three for the Adanacs.

Aussie driver back in Grand Prix lead

LE CASTELLET, France (Reuter) — Australian Alan Jones regained command of the trouble-torn Formula One drivers' championship Sunday with a fitting victory in the French Grand Prix.

The 33-year-old Williams driver, robbed of nine first-place championship points in Spain earlier this month because the sport's governing body declared that race illegal, regained the lead with an impressive effort.

He capitalized on a tire problem that slowed the Ligier of early pacesetter Jacques Laffite of France and finished the 54-lap race comfortably clear of Frenchman Didier Pironi in a second Ligier.

Laffite had to settle for third place but managed to stay well in front of the Brabham of Brazilian Nelson Piquet, who finished fourth.

Piquet did not finish in Spain but started the French race as driving leader when Jones was stripped of his points. He now trails the Australian by three points with half the controversial season over.

In fact, Jones was the only driver among the top six in the standings who scored at Jarama, Spain. If his win there had not been thrown out, he would now have a healthy 12-point advantage over his rivals.

Laffite, fastest in practice, threatened to register his first win since the Brazilian Grand Prix early last year despite being forced to use the team's spare car when his race version was sidelined with transmission trouble.

The Frenchman roared away from the 24-car starting grid and had a huge lead over Jones by the midway stage. But suddenly he was slowed by tire troubles and Jones promptly closed the gap and overtook him on the 35th lap.

Gilles Villeneuve of Berthierville, Que., was eighth, one lap behind the leaders. He is in a four-way tie for 12th spot with three points.

Eaton tops NASCAR, Smith finishes seventh

MONROE, Wash. — Ron Eaton of Tacoma took first place in the Reed Cams NASCAR race at Evergreen Speedway Sunday while Victoria's Roy Smith finished seventh.

Smith was hampered by the fact he had to make four tire changes.

Bill Hitchcox of Victoria was in a crash but got back into the race to wind up 13th. Herschel McGriff, driving a Pontiac owned by Dick and Reg Midgley of Victoria, had transmission troubles and was forced out on the 30th lap. Veteran David Pearson had valve problems and went out in the 123rd lap of the 200-lap event.

Eaton broke the track record while qualifying first in 106.37 miles per hour Saturday. Smith was fifth in 105.82, Hitchcox 14th in 103.69.

French rolls to victory after leaders collide

Mike French cruised through when the leaders spun on the 19th lap and held on to win the 20-lap feature event before a crowd of 1,800 at Western Speedway Saturday night.

Dale Taylor and Gordie Stone, who are first and second in stock car points standings, were running one-two going into the 19th lap but lost ground in the spin.

Jim Smith was second and Stone recovered to place third.

In the super-stock class, Craig Dyson enjoyed his biggest night ever by winning the 15-lap main event and the first heat and finishing third in the fast heat. Joe Musfelt was second in the main event and Larry Pollard was third.

Rick Hogg won the 20-lap main event for jalopies with Dave McIntyre second and Dave Andrews third.

McIntyre was involved in a crash against the backstretch wall during the first heat race and his car needed rapid repairs to get it in shape for the main event.

Next action at Western is Tuesday's demolition derby at 2 p.m.

Triangle trips Yarrows

Host club Triangle Eslers edged Esquimalt Yarrows 6-4 Sunday in the opening-round of the Greater Victoria Little League baseball winners' tournament at Colwood's Juan de Fuca Park.

Darryl Williams was winning pitcher for Triangles, who opened with a five-run scoring burst in the first inning and added an insurance run in the seventh.

On Saturday, pitcher Mike Hayes struck out 10 batters but it didn't prevent his Gordon Head Evening Optimists from being defeated 3-1 by Central Saanich Brentwood Supermarket. Winning-pitcher Daren Matton had nine strikeouts for Central Saanich.

In another Saturday contest, Hampton Evening Optimists scored six runs in the first inning and five in the second and went on to crush Sidney Cubs 16-2.

The championship tourney continues with games at 6:30 p.m. all this week prior to the final next Sunday.

Expo catcher stayed around long enough

. . . glad he played

MONTREAL (CP) — Catcher John Tamargo didn't improve his health Sunday but he managed to remain in the lineup long enough to spark Montreal Expos to a National League baseball victory.

"I've been bothered by what's called a trigger thumb but (manager) Dick Williams asked me before the game if I thought I could play and I'm sure glad I did," said Tamargo, who drove in two runs to spark the Expos to a 4-1 triumph over Pittsburgh Pirates.

Tamargo was replacing the resting Gary Carter, but was sent to the sidelines himself in the seventh inning after applying a tag to Dave Parker, who was attempting to score from second base on an infield groundout.

The Expos' catcher made the putout but was spiked on the left index finger and required three stitches to close the wound.

"I wasn't upset because Parker cut me," said Tamargo. "It was my fault because I had the glove out there. He slid hard. That's the way he plays the game, and I respect him for it."

Parker had singled to drive in Omar Moreno in the first inning with the only run against starter David Palmer, 5-1, who allowed five hits before giving way to reliever Fred Norman after eight innings. After yielding Parker's single, Palmer, who struck out five and walked no one, retired the next 17 batters in succession before Parker opened the eighth with a single.

While Palmer was handling the top part of the Pittsburgh batting order, the Expos first two batters — Ron LeFlore and Rodney Scott — reached base eight times between them and scored three of the club's four runs.

In addition, LeFlore stole three bases to raise his season total to 45, tying him for the National League lead with Moreno.

Bowling winners

Rae Martin of Victoria West and Gordon Head's Percy Hawes are Vancouver Island lawn bowling's singles champions.

Martin won the Flora Martin Shield for women by defeating clubmate Peggy Keating 21-10 while Hawes beat Jim Allan of Vic West 21-18 to claim the men's Peace Cup in finals at Victoria Lawn Bowling Club on Saturday.

Craig Wilson stopped Ed Fraser of Lake Hill 21-13 and Doreen Green of Oak Bay defeated Marge Atherton of Burnside 21-8 in the "B" finals.

Ballendine loses final to tournament's 'best'

O'LEARY, P.E.I. — Cliff Ballendine, the impressive 15-year-old from Victoria, lost a decision to Toronto's Asif Dar in Saturday's finals of the Canadian junior boxing championships.

Dar, while picking up the gold medal in the 112-to-119-pound division, was named best boxer of the tournament.

All six boxers from British Columbia reached the finals with three of them winning gold medals and the other three, including Ballendine, taking home silver medals.

The B.C. winners were Alan Brown (85 to 90 pounds), Greg Laboucan (95 to 100 pounds) and Randy Galler (100 to 106 pounds). The other silver medalists from B.C. were Gordon Jones (80 to 85 pounds) and Larry Adams (119 to 125 pounds).

Stamps stomp past Eskimos

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders are acting as if they intend to replace Edmonton Eskimos as the top Western Conference club during the upcoming Canadian Football League season.

They were impressive again Saturday as they forced five turnovers and made big offensive plays to defeat the Eskimos 28-16 in a pre-season exhibition.

A crowd of 30,272 watched the Stampeders stomp to their third victory in their fourth and final pre-season game, while the defending Grey Cup champions suffered their first defeat in three outings.

A fired-up Calgary defence, led by middle-linebacker Ray Nettles in his first start with the club, forced three turnovers in the first half and two more in the second half.

Combined with an explosive offence that piled up 432 yards, it was just so much more icing on Calgary coach Ardell Wiegandt's 40th birthday cake.

Flash Fire served up the heat in her Sandown Raceway debut Saturday.

The four-year-old bay mare, driven by Joe Hudon, charged from behind to capture the featured invitational ninth race. The victory was Flash Fire's sixth in 16 harness racing starts this season.

However, Flash Fire had not won since scoring at Cloverdale on March 8.

Owned by the McQueen Stables of Delta, Flash Fire's finishing kick proved too much for place-taking Andys Peyton, show-finishing Loulabelle Choice and favored Amortizer's Beauty.

Flash Fire's time for the one-mile pace was an excellent 2:02 4/5.

With Amortizer's Beauty finishing out of the money, Flash Fire and Andys Peyton set up an exactor payoff of $131.80 — highest of the day.

The win was the second of the day for Hudon, the meet's leading driver who also connected with B.C. Adios in the sixth.

The 1-2-3 finish of Worthy D.A., Irish Bravo and Montecristo Chip in the 10th race set up a triactor payoff of $1,520.90.

Racing resumes Tuesday with a holiday afternoon program set to start at 1:30 p.m.

Plate winner able to keep up with 'big boys'

Times News Services

For jockey Bill Parsons, his winning Queen's Plate ride Saturday aboard Western-owned Driving Home was far from a two-minute ride into glory at Toronto's Woodbine track.

How are you going to celebrate, he was asked. "I'm not," he replied. "I've got to get to Fort Erie to ride tomorrow."

Fort Erie is the site of the B circuit for horses that aren't up to the big time racing the Ontario Jockey Club likes to promote. Since Parsons name is rarely listed among the top jockeys, he finds regular employment among racing's lesser lights.

In the Plate, Parsons, 37, showed 26,598 fans at Woodbine he could ride with the big boys as well.

Six furlongs into the 1¼-mile race for a record $183,393 purse, Driving Home, owned by Hal Yerxa of Camrose, Alta., was in front of exactly one horse. But Parson and Driving Home overcame an 18-length deficit over a track listed as muddy.

Going into the far turn Parsons began picking up and passing tired horses on the outside and at the top of the stretch was seventh.

Driving Home, along with Someolio Man, ridden by Hugo Dittfach, caught second choice Allan Blue and Hasty Rick deep in the stretch and a hundred yards from the wire moved in front and drew away to a length-and-a-half victory worth $119,534 for the CFCW Stable of Alberta. He covered the distance in 2:04 1-5.

Someolio Man finished second, a nose in front of Allan Blue.

Driving Home, a 20-1 longshot, returned $43.90, $17.30 and $11.20. Someolio Man returned $20.60 and $10.40 while Alan Blue paid $4.40 to show.

The race favorite, Duns Scotus pulled up in the stretch, finished 10th and was vanned from the track. Later it was determined the Buckpasser colt, purchased for $300,000, suffered a fracture of the right kneecap.

Jockette dies from injury

LITTLETON, Colo. (AP) — Michelle Higley, 26, an apprentice jockey at Centennial Racetrack, died Sunday of a head injury suffered during a workout.

Track officials said Higley, from Anaheim, Calif., fractured her skull after her horse shied and threw her Saturday morning.

Higley was in her third year of thoroughbred racing and had won 30 races.

Record tied

LILLE, France (AP) — Thierry Vigneron, France's leading contender for a gold medal at the Summer Olympics in Moscow next month, equalled his world pole vault record of 5.75 metres Sunday at the French national track and field championships.

Pianist, Iturbi, dead at 84

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Classical pianist and motion picture personality Jose Iturbi, who once headed the piano faculty at the Conservatory of Geneva, the same position once held by Franz Liszt, died Saturday. He was 84.

Iturbi was admitted to Cedars-Sinai Medical Center last week with heart trouble.

A funeral mass is planned Thursday at Good Shepherd Catholic Church in Beverly Hills. His body will be entombed at nearby Holy Cross Cemetery.

Iturbi, the son of a Valencia, Spain, bill collector and piano tuner, began playing when he was three years old. He studied at Valencia and eventually headed the conservatory's piano faculty.

He made his American concert debut in 1929 and his conducting debut in Mexico in 1933 and later became permanent conductor of the Rochester Philharmonic in 1936 and held the post until 1944. Iturbi made his movie debut in 1943 in Thousands Cheer, the first of a series of movie musicals he made in the 1940s which propelled him into the national spotlight.

He pleased his fans by frequently switching from classical music to boogie-woogie in his movies and many of the 190 concerts a year he once performed.

An avid aviator, Iturbi became an American citizen in 1941 and the following January, five weeks after the attack on Pearl harbor, joined the Civil Air Patrol which had been set up to relieve Army and Navy pilots of routine flying chores.

Iturbi's personal life was marked by tragedy. His wife, Maria, whom he married in 1916, died soon after giving birth to their daughter in 1918. The daughter, also named Maria, committed suicide in 1946.

Iturbi is survived by his granddaughters, Teresa Impastato and Maria Antonia Hewitt.

Concert washed out

SHELBURNE, Ont. (CP) — Rain turned the Willie Nelson Event into a day-long endurance test for soaked and chilled country music fans Saturday.

Huddled under makeshift plastic shelters or wrapped in green garbage bags, thousands of loyal fans waited through heavy morning downpours and a steady drizzle while organizers debated whether to cancel the 12-hour outdoor concert in Rock Hill Park, about 90 kilometres northwest of Toronto.

Stagehands fought an almost continuous battle to keep the stage from turning into a lake. When one bedraggled country-music lover asked a concert official why the first band hadn't appeared three hours after the 10 a.m. scheduled starting time, he was told: "Would you hang on to a plugged-in electric guitar in this weather?"

20th Century-Fox signs with Canadians

MONTREAL (CP) — The Canadian film company International Cinema Corporation (ICC) has entered into a three-year, multiple-picture deal with 20th Century-Fox.

Covering both production and distribution aspects, the agreement marks the first such far-reaching alliance between a Canadian film company and and a major Hollywood studio. The first project has not yet been disclosed.

Announcement of the agreement was to be made in both Montreal and Los Angeles by producers John Kemeny and Denis Heroux, who head ICC, and top Fox officials Norman Levy and Sherry Lansing.

Under the terms of the deal, the two companies will jointly develop, produce and finance a number of films for distribution by Fox. On other projects Fox will distribute films wholly-financed by ICC.

Miss Lansing, president of productions for Fox, says the Hollywood studio is "delighted to be associated with two outstanding producers who have demonstrated a proven ability to generate motion pictures of international appeal."

Kemeny, a native of Hungary, who came to Canada in 1957, has been associated with the production of more than 100 films, among them The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz and for Columbia Pictures, Ice Castles.

Heroux, one of the first Quebec film-makers to achieve international success, has made 22 films.

LARRY HAGMAN — alias J.R. Ewing of the Dallas TV series — and co-star Steve Kanaly, background, use phoney money bearing J.R.'s likeness to start Malibu, Calif., beach party fire Sunday for friends and cast members.

Wonder of it All: virtues and flaws

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Two days and many thoughts later, after seeing The Wonder of it All in its premiere performance Friday, it is possible to examine one's responses with somewhat more than usual detachment.

The musical, based on events in Emily Carr's life up to the time she was "discovered" and confronted with the artists of the Group of Seven, is being promoted as a possible annual event, part of a Pacific Rim festival.

The vision has merit and so has the subject.

But if Emily is to do for Victoria what the fictional Anne (of Green Gables) has done for Charlottetown — or in other words become an international success — there will have to be some changes made, both in scripting and in production.

There are many virtues scattered throughout the two-hour performance but there are also many flaws. Some of these arise from writer Don Harron's attempt to turn his engaging and artistic television play into a typically jolly and sentimental stage musical complete with production numbers. Too much is lost in the transition.

The real-life individualistic, witty and enigmatic Emily, unlike fictional Anne, refuses to be assimilated in this conventional stage idiom.

Some of the distortions for which both writer and director are responsible appear in the corny embarrassments of the English episode and a dreadful interpolation in the San Francisco scene which, incidentally, also contained one of the best numbers.

There is some excellent and highly professional talent among the cast which makes one wonder why so much of the show appeared amateurishly done. Director Peter Mannering has only now and then achieved a professional pace and seldom made satisfying or optimum use of the very workable and well devised stage set by William Heslup.

The greatest vitality and effectiveness, in terms of the stage musical, came from the choreographing of musical numbers by Sylvia Hosie. But please! Why stop a number that is going well for a cutey dance school "chin-chin Chinaman" interpolation?

On the other hand, Hosie came up with a stylish piece in which Victoria society rejects the Carr paintings with I Know What I Like.

Margaret Martin does her best to make us see and feel Emily in middle-age. And she succeeds to a considerable degree because her best is always much more than mere competence. She brings to the performance, whether narrating or acting scenes, a strength and passion, a sense of unfulfilment and ironic humor that provides most of the better moments.

Close in effectiveness is young Jill Galt as the teenaged Emily. Again here is strength, spirit and the impression of unquenchable individualism, evoked by an actress of remarkable promise.

Excellent character actor John Krich is wasted in a stilted presentation of Emily's discoverer, Marius Barbeau; better in a cameo bit in the English scene. A number of others in double and triple roles turn in good individual performances; notably Donald Cook, Janie Woods-Morris, Deborah Millar, Don House and youngsters Pia Wyatt as Emily Small and Erin Grimmer.

One of the most effective scenes, even though it slows the tempo to a crawl, is the Indian Potlach incident which, however, is again flawed by the operetta Northwest Mountie.

The musical score by Norman Campbell — who also wrote Anne of Green Gables — is pleasing if not exciting and it supplies at least three quite memorable songs in both of which wife Elaine had a hand. One of these is the show's most charming number for which Emily Carr's own comment is the inspiration — I think a thing and draw a line around it.

Another gives rise to an effective vignette when young Emily's landlady in San Francisco (well done by Nan Long) warns her about the facts of life in the wicked city. Still another, which highlights Martin's vivacity, occurs in the House of All Sorts episode with I Put on a Landlady's Face.

The music is well served by Howard Denike as arranger and music director and the small orchestra. In fact they compensate for the lack of cohesiveness of style.

Rights group raps Romania

LONDON (Reuter) — Amnesty International accused Romania today of employing a wide range of legal and extra-legal penalties, including imprisonment and confinement to psychiatric hospitals, against political and religious dissenters.

Among those punished were members of an unofficial trade union, religious activists, would-be emigrants and critics of government practices affecting human rights, Amnesty International said.

"Some dissenters have faced criminal charges, which Amnesty International believes to be false, such as 'parasitism' and 'homosexual relations,' " the human-rights organization said in a statement.

Amnesty cited the alleged case of textile worker Janos Torok, a Communist party member who had criticized the system by which National Assembly members were elected. He was reported to have been arrested, severely beaten, confined to a psychiatric hospital and forcibly injected with large doses of sedatives, Amnesty said.

Torok was released from the hospital in March, 1978, and has since been under house arrest, permitted to leave his home only once a month to report to a psychiatric clinic, Amnesty said.

"He is only one of a number of dissenters who have been subjected to compulsory psychiatric confinement, although Romanian law prescribes this only for those who are dangerous to themselves or others, or who are judged about to commit serious crimes," it said.

Finns elect woman president

REYKJAVIK (UPI) - Vigdis Finnbogadottir, the leftist 50-year-old director of the Reykjavik Theater who campaigned against a big U.S. Air Force Base in Iceland, was elected president of Finland today.

With 96 per cent of the 144,000 votes cast counted, Mrs. Finnbogadottir had won 33.5 per cent compared with 32.3 per cent for Gudlaugur Thorvaldsson, 55, a state mediator and the former head of the Iceland University.

Before Miss Finnbogadottir, the only female heads of state in Europe were queens — Elizabeth of England, Beatrix of Holland and Magarathe of Denmark, Although elected, Margaret Thatcher, Britain's prime minister, is head of government rather than head of state.

Radio station blast in New Hebrides

PORT VILA, New Hebrides (UPI) — A bomb blast wrecked the government-owned national radio station in the capital of the South Pacific island chain and police said today they believe a secret army organized by the French-speaking minority was responsible.

Officials said no one was injured in the overnight explosion believed caused by a time bomb which caused extensive damage at the studios of Radio Vanuatu.

A police spokesman said no one has claimed responsibility for the explosion but he said police suspect a group known as L'Armee Secrete (secret army) made up of French-speaking businessmen and landowners could be involved in the bomb attack.

The explosion occurred hours before the scheduled arrival later today of an Anglo-French delegation to negotiate with the New Hebrides government-elect of Father Water Lini over concessions for the French speaking minority when the island chain becomes independent July 30.

U.S. approves funds for Garrison project

WASHINGTON (CP) — The U.S. Senate voted approval Friday of $9.7 million in federal spending on the controversial Garrison irrigation project of North Dakota, its sponsors beating off a move to shelve the spending in deference to the concerns of Canada, South Dakota and environmentalists.

The senators voted 62-to-26 to kill an amendment posed by South Dakota Senator Larry Pressler (Rep.) who attempted to block the spending.

Pressler supported Canadian protests that the project could damage Manitoba waterways and commercial fisheries. He also opposed the plan on the ground it could similarly disrupt South Dakota's environment.

The Senate voted the funds despite last minute effort by Manitoba to head off the action: Premier Sterling Lyon sent a message to the Senate on Thursday designed to reinforce earlier lobbying by him and the Canadian government against the Garrison project.

(5 to be won)

Pressured-powered Hot 'N' Cold Liquid Dispenser

HOW TO PLAY

Locked inside the "SUMMERFUNTHING" safe are many valuable prizes. Some of those prizes could be yours if you find the correct PASSWORD that opens the combination lock. It's an exciting game that's fun and easy to enter. The instructions on the dial give you the position of the letters in the "SUMMERFUNTHING" PASSWORD. All you have to do is find the first letter to start. For instance, suppose you started at the letter E and the instructions read 2nd LETTER-FOUR COUNTER CLOCKWISE. Count four spaces in a counter-clockwise direction from the letter E and you arrive at the letter A. The next instruction reads 3rd LETTER-EIGHT COUNTER CLOCKWISE, so count off eight spaces in a counter-clockwise direction from the letter A and you arrive at the letter S. Finally the 4th letter. SIX CLOCKWISE means you count in a clockwise direction from the letter S and you arrive at the letter Y. In this example the PASSWORD is the word E-A-S-Y. To give you another clue and to add to the interest, each day's password is scrambled and you will find it at the bottom of the illustration.

GAME RULES

1. Winners will be chosen by random drawing from all valid entries. All winners must answer a skill testing question.
2. Winners from the previous week will be published in the Saturday Times and Sunday Colonist.
3. It is not necessary for contestants to buy the Colonist or Times to enter the SUMMERFUNTHING contest. An exact drawing of the entry form printed in the Colonist or Times may be made on a plain piece of paper. Note: copies produced by any other process will not be accepted.
4. The SUMMERFUNTHING judges will have the final decision on any interpretation of Game rules.
5. As a condition of receiving prizes, recipients agree to allow publication of their names and pictures in the Colonist or Times for no additional consideration. Submission of an entry indicates acceptance of all rules. No prize substitutions.
6. The contest is open to all readers of the Daily Colonist and Victoria Times on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands. Employees of Victoria Press and their immediate families are not eligible to enter.
7. In fairness to all, the Colonist or Times cannot answer questions or respond to phone calls or letters regarding THE SUMMERFUNTHING CONTEST.
8. All winners will be determined by a random draw from all valid entries.

HOW TO ENTER

Complete the puzzle and fill in the "PASSWORD" on the entry form. Clip out the entry form and send it to us in an envelope with the puzzle number printed in the top left hand corner of the envelope. (As illustrated.)

Be sure to include your name, address and phone number on the entry form.

Enter as many times as you wish but make sure each entry is in a separate envelope.

Pope arrives in Brazil

Times News Services

BRASILIA — Brazil is getting a second carnival this year with the arrival today of Pope John Paul II, but anxiety is mixed with the spirit of celebration.

There is concern among government officials that the visit could unleash pent up revolutionary forces at a delicate moment in the slow liberalization of this country, which has been under military dictatorship for 16 years.

There is concern among church leaders, most of them committed progressives, that the pope will not say enough about their struggle for social justice, and too much about their adaptations of the rules of Rome to the culture and circumstances of Brazil. And the Vatican itself has indicated concern that an ostensibly pastoral visit will be exploited for political purposes.

"The church is one of the great powers in Brazil," one European diplomat said, "there is anxiety in the government about the potential for criticism from the pope."

The pope began his 12-day visit in Brasilia after an 11-hour flight from Rome. It is the first papal visit to Brazil in history.

Half of South America's 120 million people live in Brazil, and 90 percent of them are Roman Catholics, the largest Catholic population in the world. One in eight of the world's Catholics are Brazilians, which explains the exhausting commitment the pope has made to this trip. He will cover almost 9,000 miles within Brazil itself, visiting 14 different population centers in a swing through a nation larger than the 48 contiguous American states.

The trip will dramatize the diversity of the nation, from this raw, brazenly modern planned capital, only 20 years old but already with more than a million inhabitants, to the new frontier on the Amazon, at Manaus, in the heart of the world's largest jungle. He will be serenaded by the Cariocas of Rio de Janeiro, where the gaudy modernity of Copacabana fails to mask the poverty of the workers of Sao Paulo, the center of a metropolitan and industrial complex of more than 10 million.

And he will sense the tradition of the Italian and German settlers of the south, gathered at Porto Allegre, just as he will sense the throbbing inheritance of Africa from the decendants of slaves in the black dominated city of Salvador on the northeast coast.

But the intensity of the schedule will leave little time for him to listen and learn. And some of the lessons may suffer from distortion. Newspapers already have published photographs of the repair work under way in the slums of Rio that he will visit Wednesday morning. Dirt streets are being paved, electricity brought in, sewage systems installed, and there have been reports of new promises of title to the land for the residents.

But hospitality will not hide the unease felt about the possible impact of the visit on the abertura, the opening, the cautious political liberalization started two years ago. Diplomats sense an uncertainty on the part of President Joao Baptista Figuerido on whether to proceed, stand still or pull back. The uncertainty is said to come from the risk of a new and more repressive intervention by the more conservative military leaders who think the government has gone too far even though elections have yet to be scheduled.

Since November the church has been directly involved in the most sensitive challenge to the government, an auto workers strike.

N-plant gas 'no threat'

MIDDLETOWN, Pa. (UPI) — Monitors around Three Mile Island detected Krypton-85 in the environment after the radioactive gas was released from the crippled nuclear power plant, the Environmental Protection Agency said today.

EPA analyst Frank Grossman said the levels were so small they would pose no threat to public health.

"It's nothing significant," Grossman said.

Engineers for plant operator Metropolitan Edison Co. eliminated a bug in the radiation monitoring system and went ahead today with more releases, at a rate of 2,000-4,000 curies of Krypton-85 per day.

Hundreds of people fled their homes during the weekend, but Gov. Dick Thornburgh toured the plant's control room nerve centre Sunday and said area residents had no cause for worry.

"I have advised all residents of the area to do what I intend to do — and that's go about my daily business," Thornburgh said.

Four minutes into the venting Saturday, an alarm was mistakenly triggered, and the process was halted abruptly.

Harold Denton, chief of reactor operations for the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, called Three Mile Island — site of the worst nuclear accident in U.S. history on March 28, 1979 — "a star-crossed plant."

The plant's radiation monitors designed to detect abnormal releases of radioactive dust particles, like cesium and cobalt, falsely set off the alarm, officials said.

Beulah May Eggett has Parkinson's Disease, arthritis and a recent hip injury, but she didn't let that get in the way of graduation. The 88-year-old grandmother received her Associate of Arts degree from Laney College in Oakland, Calif., where she holds nearly a straight-A grade average. She returned to school in 1973, after quitting in 1912 to get married. Says she, "It took me seven years because I just don't have the stamina to be a fulltime student."

Fast Eddie Watkins, now 62 years old, can look back on a life that includes fast cars, lonely motels, 60 bank jobs and 39 years in jail. "Everyone has got to have something to be proud of," he says. In a Cleveland jailhouse interview, Watkins called himself "probably the last of the practising big-time bank robbers." Eddie Owen Watkins claims to have netted close to $2 million in more than 60 bank robberies and 125 other escapades since the 1930s, and says some of that loot has been deposited in other banks. There was a bandage on his right arm, where he was wounded by police June 6 when recaptured after escaping April 29. He robbed five banks when he was out.

They call her "Motorcycle Mama," and Gay Raymond glories in the title — says 50 years of riding her big Harley Davidson all over the country have kept her young. The 76-year-old Fruitport, Mich., biker is the oldest active member of a motorcycle gang called the Motor Maids. She says her bike has taken her to California twice, the East Coast once and through nearly every state in between — that, "I'm healthier now than ever before." She even ran into California's infamous Hell's Angels once, but they didn't bother her. Says she, "If you don't sass them or get smart with them you won't have any problems. If you tell it like it is to their face, you'll get in trouble."

Fagan (Pop) Gibson, the oldest active duty policeman in North America has died. He was 105 years old. Gibson, whose parents were slaves, moved to the small northeastern Louisiana town of Lake Providence from his native Arkansas around 1900. He said he became a patrolman about 1910 because he was "ready." "That's the way I do all my business," he once said. "I wait until I'm ready." He waited until he was 83 to marry his wife, Mary.

abby

Dear Abby:

May I comment on the letter from the woman who was upset because the tapes of her wedding were ruined when a baby cried?

I am a clergyman who has officiated at over 500 church weddings, and the lengths to which some people will go to put on a theatrical production in a house of worship for a simple exchange of marriage vows are appalling!

I once tied the knot at a wedding where $20,000 was spent for flowers alone. I later learned the bill for the entire wedding came to $100,000. (Incidentally, the knot didn't hold; the couple divorced.)

I've officiated at weddings where cameras and sound equipment were so intrusive that I felt more like an actor playing a role than a minister. (At one point I was asked to "stop and start over again" because the audio wasn't working properly.)

I can understand wanting to preserve the beauty of an occasion with pictures, and I have no objections to movies taken outside the church, but to perform for the camera is, in my opinion, making a mockery of a sacred ceremony.

Don't use my name. I do not wish to retire early.

Still Preaching

Dear Abby:

I ache for the young woman who wrote to say that a crying baby ruined her wedding. The baby couldn't help it. It should have been carried out as soon as it started to whimper.

What disturbed me was the bride's unforgiving attitude. She wrote: "I find it hard to look at that child today — much less his mother. To make matters worse, they are now a part of our family, and I will be reminded of that episode every time I look at them."

Abby, some time ago you said that the person who cannot forgive but continues to bear a grudge harms only himself, for "hate is like acid eating away at the vessel that contains it."

Reader

Dear Abby:

At our wedding there was no crying baby — it was my mother-in-law! One would have thought her son was being sentenced to the gallows.

Another Wedding Ruined

Dear Abby:

Our wedding wasn't "ruined" because of a crying baby, but it was sure the talk of the town. It was our baby.

Better Late

Dear Abby:

The letter from the bride who said her wedding was ruined because a baby cried brings up two disturbing points.

One: She needs to stop viewing her wedding day as the high point in her life. Weddings are great, but they are only symbols, rites of passage — not the peak of the mountain with everything else going downhill thereafter. If it isn't a perfectly staged production, so what?

Mildred

Finally caught: season's first salmon!

When winter set sullen on the land, I frittered away more than one evening in housecleaning my salmon tackle. I would polish flashers and spoons, preen my bucktails and flashtails, and rig my battle-scarred plugs with new hook-bridles. While I occupied myself with this labor of love, I would be dreaming of blue days and fair, and us afloat in our boat with a lively coho in play.

Perversely, though, when those longed-for days materialized, we dragged our heels. We couldn't go fishing: there was too much of worthy and needful nature that needed doing on shore.

There was a place to clean up and a garden to put in. May brought the tiresome necessity for lawn-mowing, and my indoors load of typewriter-work ran heavy. We had simply no time to go fishing.

Meanwhile, boats began to show on the wide bay that fronts our house. Some fishermen sat and jigged Buzz Bombs and Norwegian Stingsildas. Watching wistfully through binoculars, we could see their arms rising and falling as they raised and lowered their rods. Others, the trollers, plodded on their courses between Shelter Point in the north and Kuhushan Point in the south.

Once in a while, our binocular view revealed a man playing a fish, while his boat-mate waited with the landing net in his fists.

Thus goaded, we finally got around to trundling our yellow 14-footer down the line to the Rod and Reel, where Dick the Boatman transferred it from our trailer to a marina rack. More time went by. Good works continued to interfere with our launching out in quest of salmon.

While June was still young, our son Ron came up for a weekend. We did manage a hurried fishing trip then, but came home with only a couple of ling cod. Good fish . . . welcome additions to the freezer supply . . . but still, not flashing, leaping salmon.

Official summer descended on us. The longest day of the year came and passed.

"You know," I said to Win, "this is a damn disgrace. The year's just about half gone and we haven't caught a salmon yet."

"All right," Win said. "Tomorrow we'll get out for sure."

But we didn't. An engagement in town got in the way. For two days after that, the wind kicked up a hostile chop in the strait.

The next day broke cloudy, and the sea was uneasy, but we put out anyway.

"We'd better just fish with one rod for a spell," I said. "In this slop, it'll keep me busy handling the boat."

So Win rigged up with a Deep Six planer and herring strip in one of Rhys Davis' patent teasers, paid 36 snatches of line (her lucky number) overside, and set the rod in its holder.

On the outside of Shelter Point reef, the water was tide-troubled. Salmon sometimes lie off the kelp there, drawn by a profusion of bait minnows. I eased our boat along the edge of the ruffled strip. Midway through the passage, Win's rod-tip whipped hard over, and her reel began to chatter.

We were into a salmon at last!

This fish was a jumper. It cartwheeled through the surface astern, a brisk young coho of perhaps five pounds, gleaming like new-minted silver. Twice more, it leaped. On the third jump, the hook came away. Win reeled in a slack line, and glumly, we resumed fishing.

The wind dropped. The water flattened off. I got my own rod overside, armed with a big Gibbs flasher and a red-and-white flashtail.

We fished our way back down the course. A shower gave us a quick sprinkle. The sun came out and dried us. Fishwise, nothing happened.

Then, while I was engaged with a mug of coffee in one fist and a handful of salted peanuts in the other, a salmon hit my rig. I spilled my coffee and scattered peanuts in all directions, but this fish was well-hooked, and stayed with me.

We played together merrily. Once he fouled the line on the outboard motor, and I deserved to lose him; but my luck was in. I led him up toward the surface, a green and ghostly shape. Win dipped our landing net and swung him into the boat.

First salmon of the year! We weighed him. He went five and a half pounds on Win's tackle-kit scale. We measured him. Twenty-two inches. Then we just sat and admired him.

Back at the marina, I cleaned and scaled our coho. Then I trimmed off head, tail and fins, leaving a solid chunk of prime fish-flesh for Win's big aluminum pressure cooker.

This next winter, when our boat is home in the carport and our tackle stored away, a jar of that rich red salmon will evoke memories!

Fry value still valid

VANCOUVER (CP) — Elizabeth Fry's work in English prisons 200 years ago still sets an example for modern-day prisoner programs, Tony Sheridan told the annual meeting of the Elizabeth Fry Society.

"We couldn't go wrong if we went back and followed the example of Elizabeth Fry, who went into prisons without resources or political support," said Sheridan, deputy commissioner of B.C. corrections.

Fry used the only resource available to her — prisoners, training prisoners to teach other prisoners and run an employment program, Sheridan said.

"Behind the prison doors we have a lot of potential, a lot of resources and a lot of energy."

Sheridan credited volunteer and prisoner-run programs with reducing the number of prisoners in B.C.

Since 1975, the province's prison population has declined to 1,605 from 1,688, the only province to show such a reduction, he said.

Sheridan said the challenge of the '80s will be to provide an opportunity for prisoners and probationers to accept responsibility for their own lives.

Women prisoners, because there are fewer than 100 in B.C., offer an opportunity to develop meaningful educational and rehabilitation programs.

The corrections branch will focus in the coming years on developing rehabilitation programs inside prisons, he said.

The current emphasis on community facilities has encouraged an anti-institution mentality that must be changed, Sheridan said.

He said prison is the best place for some offenders, whose family situation may be physically and mentally intolerable.

He cited New Haven, a Vancouver institution for juvenile males, as a place that "gives young men an opportunity to develop life skills so they can adjust and make it on the outside."

WELL-PRIMED PUMP was retrieved by diver Bob Sewell of the Owen Sound Underwater Club during a clean-up of underwater garbage sponsored by the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters. Along with this old pump, divers found shopping carts, a moped, bicycles and a meat cleaver. There was, however, no mention was made of a kitchen sink in the haul.

Massage a panacea for the lazy?

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Rumor has it Marilyn Monroe used to spend her leisure time sipping champagne and eating macaroni, two passive pastimes which caused her body to grow to proportions more astronomical than most movie directors would like.

Two weeks before each new movie she'd call the masseuse, who'd spend desperate hours massaging away the fat and redistributing what her fans had come to appreciate.

It was the only thing, she said, that ever kept her in shape. And by all accounts it worked.

Some of Marilyn's lesser fans may be skeptical about the benefits of massage, but those people have never met Carmen Smith who spends her days bumping and thumping bodies into shape.

A graduate masseuse and esthetician, Smith studied technique in Montreal under the legendary Edith Serei before opening her Windsor salon last year.

Business is booming and massage, it seems, has become a panacea for the lazy middle class.

"Definitely the lazy man's way to exercise," Smith said, although she professes no cure for the lazy man's excess poundage.

"The pounds you have to drop yourself," she said. "I can firm up your thighs or tone down your hips, but I can't do anything if you're overweight.

"People have to take care of themselves and help me out."

Graduates of Smith's massage are enthusiastic about results, and tell incredible success stories. The woman who lost five centimetres from her thighs, for instance, in just three weeks.

The other woman who shed 2½ centimetres from the hips doing nothing but snoozing on a table three hours a week while Smith went to work.

Masseuses in Montreal now are working with doctors on health care programs which include regular massage.

The group says massage increases circulation, helps the heart and provides as much toning as any other form of moderate exercise.

Chiropractors and osteopaths admit massage can alleviate — temporarily — many back problems and recommend patients augment regular care with massage.

Dialogue needed for best health care

By DR. BOB YOUNG

Meetings between the Minister of Health and the executive of the British Columbia Medical Association are a relatively recent innovation. When they were initiated they were held every two months or so, but they have become less frequent during the past year.

There are many interests common to the medical profession, which provides most of the health care in the province, and the Ministry of Health which provides the majority of the money to pay for the health care.

It would seem reasonable that a policy of co-operation and communication between the two groups would be beneficial.

The agendas for the earlier meetings were joint efforts, with topics being suggested by both the medical association and the ministry.

The discussions were reasonably productive on occasion, and concerns and actions (or planned actions) of each group could be examined.

The government would explain the reasoning behind legislation or regulations that it wished to implement, and the doctors were able, on more than one occasion, to point out adverse effects that had not been foreseen by the lawmakers.

Even if the government's viewpoint could not be altered, the profession had the satisfaction of having been consulted.

The agendas of recent meetings have originated almost exclusively from the office of the medical association.

Items of interest to both parties are constantly arising.

When these affect the delivery of health care the profession feels that it should have some input. Previously the ministry would occasionally request the opinion of the doctors. Now it appears that any discussion has to await the profession becoming cognizant of a potential problem, and request that it become an item to be discussed at the next meeting.

Of more concern is the impression that the meetings are generally fruitless. The deliberations have rarely, in recent months, resulted in any action. The officers of the association have been left with the impression that they have received a reluctant hearing and that their opinions are going to be ignored. They feel frustrated.

A good relationship between the medical profession and the government is mandatory if our present high-quality medical care system is to survive. Meaningful communication is essential.

Info/Health is produced by the British Columbia Medical Association. Dr. Young welcomes letter sent in care of the Victoria Times, 2621 Douglas St., Victoria, V8W 2N4.

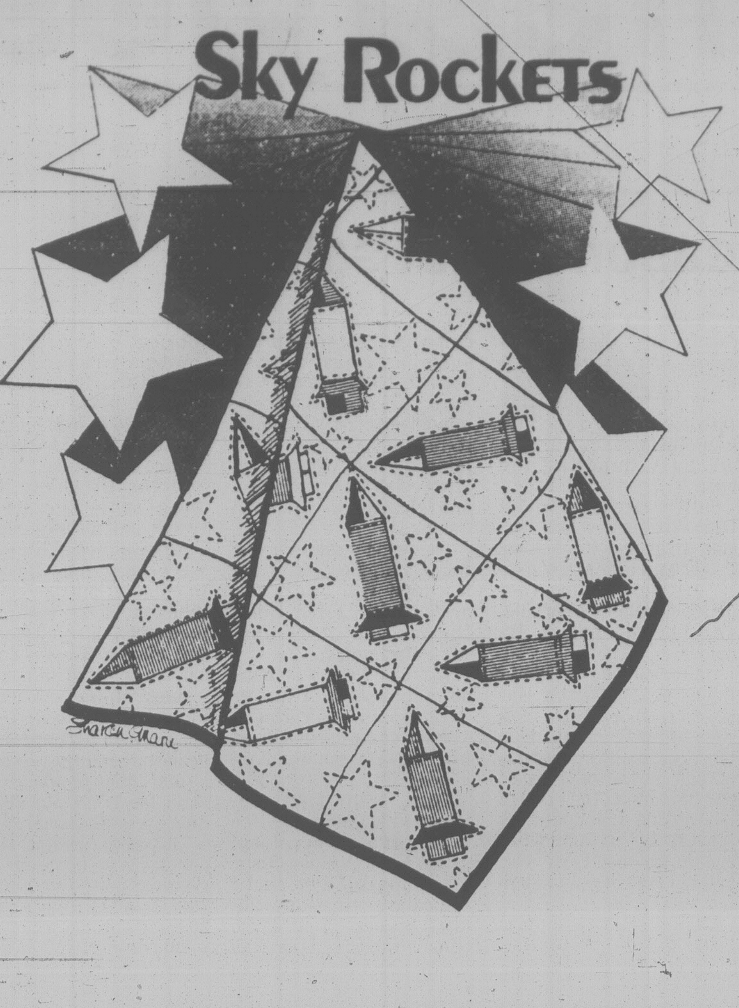
"What do you think? Do I look better in the wider horns?"

quilting

by kathy faryon

Now the fireworks will start



Yippee! Hooray! School's out! We're going on vacation! Remember the thrill you felt? Look at your children's faces. Some things never change. You think sometimes you could burst. The feelings are heightened when we celebrate Canada Day. There will be picnics, weiner roasts, games, swimming, music and sometimes fireworks for all for the kids, big and small.

Last year in Edmonton, hundreds of people lined the river valley to watch the huge display in Hawrelak park. There were oohs and aahs, smoke, and excitement. Everybody loves to watch the lights and see stars — real and man made.

Barb Kelcey created this sky rockets quilt pattern with this feeling. The rocket shapes are pieced, then appliqued to the background blocks. The stars are quilting stitches, placed at random. You could also applique some star shapes. The rockets may be made with scraps from your sewing. This may be a quilt your little people would like to help with. Show them how to trace the template shapes onto the fabric. Next the pieces are cut out. Since they're all straight edges, this would be a good sewing lesson for a youngster.

Often, in the summer, little hands need someting to keep them busy. A patchwork block is small, portable, and takes up little space. It is something which can be worked on in the car, or camper, at the beach or campsite. Summer camps usually include crafts on the list of fun things to do.

When reading quilt tales of our Mothers and Grandmas, mention is always made of the quiet times spent with the children piecing or quilting quilts. It was times like these when things got talked over, and a closeness developed bringing young and old closer together.

Try introducing your children or your grandchildren to the joys of patchwork and quilting. Nothing makes a body feel more cosy — summer or winter than a quilt. The skills learned through piecing and quilting will come in handy in the years to come and the memories will last forever . . .

New Book: The Quilters, Women and Domestic Art, by Patricia Cooper and Norma Bradley Buferd, is a book which I could not put down until I'd read it through. It is about the lives of quilters in Texas and New Mexico in which quilting was a central discipline of their upbringing. It is conversations with these women who grew up in the stark Southwest . . . "Back in the old days we had to make the quilts so thick. You know in those old dugouts the wind would come through so bad you really had to be covered to sleep. Papa would bring the cotton back from the gin." The women who speak through this book shared a vision, a strength, and a spirit that few of us will ever know or understand. It shows photographs not only of the beautiful quilts they made, but of the landscape they saw — you understand the 'straight furrows' and 'log cabin' pattens, the 'windmill blades' and the flower patterns. Working in the cotton fields gave them access to the best for their own quilts. It is a unique history — one that will warm your heart. I'm sure you'll enjoy it.

No. BK-1124: Sky Rockets. Actual size pattern pieces, Block size 20" (51 cm) — this will be a favourite for a trip to the stars. $2.20.

The Quilters, soft cover, 157 pages, lots of photos, an heirloom in itself. $11.25. How to order: Send your name, address and postal code, along with a cheque or m.o. to: Hearthside Patterns, c/o Victoria Times, P.O. Box 9120, Stn. E., Edmonton, Alta. T5P 4K2.

When you take a few snapshots of the kids on their bikes, move in closer for shots of the bikes alone. The bike portraits may be important should a bike be stolen and found by the police. Your photos might help you prove ownership.

Did your parents ever tell you that you'll pale fresh peas if you cook them in a covered pan? Green vegetables need to be cooked uncovered so cooking acids won't destroy the chlorophyl (green color). Cooking acids are destroyed soon after cooking starts, so you can put on the pan lid to finish cooking and cut cooking time. Strong-flavored vegetables should also be cooked quickly and uncovered to prevent undesirable flavor changes.

By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You gain wider recognition. Emphasis on additional allies, support from unexpected quarters, surprises and a valid reason to celebrate. You can strike chord of universal appeal. Love is dominant theme. Libra and another Aries figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A "teacher" appears on scene. You learn how to overcome obstacles. Career aspirations get a boost. Budget problem is resolved. Cancer, Capricorn natives figure prominently. Be ready for new start, fresh contacts and a challenge which leads to greater freedom of thought and action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You "know" what is to occur before the actual event. Your ability at "precognition" surges to forefront. Be aware of capabilities, be confident enough to plan ahead. Individual, at a distance, is working to improve your situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Confer with one close to you, including partner or mate. Money questions can be resolved. Don't permit emotions to dominate logic. News from afar will be valid reason to celebrate. What was a confusing scenario will be transformed into "solid production."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Revise, review, check basic answers and questions. Aquarius, Taurus and Scorpio natives figure prominently. Accent on cooperative efforts, publicity, making accommodation with those whose views may not coincide with your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Take calls, reports in stride. Conditions due to change — circumstances eventually will favor your efforts. Co-worker is sincere, but could be misinformed. Gemini, Sagittarius and another Virgo figure prominently.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Aura of glamor is part of scenario. Personal appeal is heightened — and so is sense of adventure. Changes occur at home. Trading in precious metals is also featured. Family member presents you with gift.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Spotlight on land, property, territory, plans to build, special security measures. Pisces, Virgo natives play significant roles. See places, people in realistic light. Define terms, get promises, assignments in writing.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Look behind scenes — someone is trying to tell you something. Money is involved. You can locate missing material. Streamline methods, get rid of non-essentials. Aries, Libra natives play significant roles. What you took for granted could become a profitable item.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): All signals indicate that you should take an independent course. Lead, pioneer, imprint style, take initiative, do things your own way. Another Aquarian — and a Leo — figure in scenario. You meet someone who could play an important role in your life.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Period of seclusion is not same as loneliness. Sort things through — welcome respite, gain second emotional wind. Scenario features hospital, special group, organization, preparation for possible appearance before the media.,

IF JULY 1 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you are sensual, stubborn, original — members of opposite sex find you attractive and challenging. You are an original thinker, romantic and basically loyal. You seem capable of "Midas Touch." You can transform apparent losses into profits. People often resent and envy you, but they also have confidence in fact that you can extricate them from seemingly hopeless problems. Leo, Aquarius persons play important roles in your life. September could be your most memorable month of 1980, a year in which you rebound from emotional trauma. If single, you could marry. If married, there might be an addition to family. Married or single, you make financial gains and also regain sense of direction.

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, July 2, 1980
By SYDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Be flexible without losing sense of conviction. All facts have yet to be revealed. Know it, don't make commitment which could lead to disillusionment. Highlight independence, showmanship, pioneering spirit. You meet individual due to play important role in your life.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Expand frame of reference. Stop imposing limitations on yourself. Highlight versatility, humor and intellectual curiosity. Sagittarian and another Gemini figure prominently. Member of opposite sex does not care and you'll be aware of it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Be ready to revise, review, to tear down for purpose of rebuilding on more solid base. Get long-range perspective. Persons who are envious should be more pitied than feared. Know it, respond accordingly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Dig beneath surface; give full play to perceptiveness. Accent on mystery, hidden values, financial concerns of those close to you. Pisces, Virgo natives figure prominently. See places, people as they are, not merely as you wish they might exist.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Go slow, lie low, wait to see what others intend — listen and be a shrewd observer. Check agreements, legal nuances, license requirements, tax obligations. Significant domestic adjustment dominates part of your personal scenario.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Define meanings, become familiar with basic requirements, be alert in connection with employment prospects. Relative makes request which could result in special written material or short journey. Pisces, Virgo, Aries persons figure prominently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Pressures relieved as you let go of past and put current ideas, concepts to work. Short trips, new loves, stimulation of creative processes dominate exciting scenario. Maintain independent stance. Member of opposite sex "falls hard" for you!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Accent on consolidating information, cooperation, getting most for money. Cancer, Capricorn natives figure prominently. Count your change! Be a comparison shopper. Investigate values of precious gems.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): You can make valuable contacts by timing moves. Moon cycle favors your efforts — popularity increases and more persons are impressed by your statements, actions. Take initiative, make personal appearances. Gemini, Leo, Sagittarius persons play key roles.

IF JULY 2 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you have intrinsic sense of values and good taste. You are sensitive, emotional, loyal and have tendency to brood. Cancer, Capricorn persons play important roles in your life. August could be your most memorable month of 1980. During this year, you gain more recognition and will be rid of a roadblock to progress. You are reliable, better at helping others than when it comes to aiding yourself. You can fight when cause is right — you perceive trends, cycles and many claim you are clairvoyant. Before this month, July, is finished, you will know that indeed you are more than just a little psychic!

YM-YWCA bursting at seams with 370 projects

elizabeth forbes

It's almost two years now since H. Roy Smith assumed the role of director of advertising and public relations (with a certain amount of responsibility for membership) at the Victoria YM-YWCA.

He came to this city with wife Jo-Ann and teen-age son Aaron from Edmonton, where he had been a constable first class with the police department for six years.

Smith took over here from Rosemary Donald, who held the position when the new YM-YWCA building was opened in 1977 and who is credited with starting program expansion there.

Most of the ideas Mrs. Donald inaugurated are being continued today.

At the same time, Smith says, so many new programs have been added, the building is almost bursting at the seams.

Program staff is continually coming up with suggestions and they are usually so good everyone is eager to find a way to fit them in.

Once they are fitted in the next move is to interest people in accepting them and that is Smith's responsibility.

"The program staff initiates and I promote," he tells you.

In other words he sees his work as an extension of their work.

"I relieve them of the responsibility of selling their ideas and that gives them more time to spend on keeping things moving in a smooth and efficient way."

You can see the necessity for this co-operation when he adds that every eight weeks, in the months from September to May, as many as 370 programs are active in the YM-YWCA.

These are planned for all ages right down to a mini-baby group that includes pre-and-post natal classes as well as those for preschoolers.

At present, of course, the emphasis is on youth camps and outdoor programs.

"It's shaping up as one of the busiest summers in our history with more than 600 young people taking part each week in camp life and other recreational activities," Smith reports.

He shows you a small booklet titled Summer '80 that lists the various camps and outdoor programs and he talks enthusiastically of two new ones that have been added this year.

A Camp Thunderbird Wilderness Experience for 14 to 16 year olds and an Aqua-Trek day camp for the 12 to 14 age group.

Wilderness Experience offers the young adult a four week program (girls at one time, boys at another) that includes a series of outdoor happenings.

The Aqua-Trek day camp is based on a program of water safety and development of aquatic skills.

Full summer program includes Camp Thunderbird in Sooke where boys, girls and coed groups become familiar with the outdoors, one and two weeks at a time.

Three coed day camps too, one for eight to 12 years olds, another for six to nines and still another for ages six to 11.

There's a continuation of a popular wilderness program for coed youth in ages from 14 to 18.

It gives a choice of either a week canoe trip on the Nitinat Triangle or a week back packing trip over the West Coast Trail.

Smith is kept busy devising ways to alert the public to the scope and extent of all these YM-YWCA programs.

He has a background of experience that is invaluable in the work he is doing today.

A little over 10 years ago he gained a radio and TV diploma from the Northern Alberta Institute of Technology (NAIT) while working part-time as a TV audio technician with Canadian Broadcasting Corporation in Edmonton.

Before that he was an audio operator, part-time, with Radio Station CJCA where he produced an evening FM program.

During his years with the Edmonton police department he owned, published and edited the Canadian Peace Officer, a nationally distributed trade magazine designed for law enforcement personnel.

He has worked with young people as a Boy Scout cubmaster; assistant coach in minor hockey and as publicity director with a sports bicycle club.

If you are interested in learning more about the scope and variety of YM-YWCA programs, either summer or winter, get in touch with Roy Smith. He is ready and willing to help you.

Posties alert for seniors

leslie holbrook

In the U.K. it's the milkman who keeps a friendly eye on older people living alone. That would not work very well in Canada where home deliveries of milk are few and far between.

In Canada, the Letter Carriers Union (L.C.U.C.), its Locals working at the municipal level with United Way, senior citizens councils and clubs, etc., now are offering a similar home security plan in a growing number of centres.

I am told that it started in Windsor, Ont. when the United Way and the city's help Centre suggested the postal security alert idea to the Local of L.C.U.C. Members of the Local were quick to accept the idea and implement it.

To date the safety program for seniors has been introduced in St. Catharines (where they hope to expand it across the Niagara Region), Peterborough (where a letter carrier already has helped to save a woman's life), Calgary, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Weston, London, Hamilton, Ottawa and Kitchener-Waterloo area.

The Kitchener-Waterloo Postal Alert system began only in late April; by early June some 2,000 seniors had registered (15,000 registration forms went out to persons receiving OAS cheques). I consider this a response in a community of about 188,000. Mrs. Pat McLachlin, at Rockway Gardens Seniors' Centre which is handling Twin Cities enquires, tells me it reflects the serious concern by seniors and by those serving them about security problems.

Mrs. McLachlin says there have been valuable bonuses. the program has put the Centre in touch with many shut-in seniors, and others, who did not know previously about other services the Centre offers. Rockway now is helping these "new" seniors with other problems too.

Postal Alert is simplicity itself. If a mailman notices anything unusual at a senior's residence — uncollected mail, drapes drawn, lights left on — he contacts the registry which will make immediate ensuiries about the resident. (When seniors register they give the names of three local relatives, friends or neighbours who can be contacted by the registry.)

Many older people value their independence and prefer living alone. The letter carrier may be the only regular contact for some needing to get word out for help.

He or she (more ladies delivering mail now) could be a life saver and some undoubtedly will be as this program is more widely introduced.

Where this Postal Alert service is not yet available senior clubs should work for its introduction.

In columns on shopping discounts for seniors, I seem to have overlooked one area. In various other columns (and in "Making the MOST of Your Senior Years") I have discussed the pleasures and problems of sex after 60- and 70 …

But I never gave consideration to a problem confronting a 71-year-old man, with only $15, in Madison, Wisconsin — a problem involving both senior specials and secuality.

He was charged with soliciting the services of a woman of the streets — asking her for a senior citizen's discount!

More than a miner died

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — When Sally Matthews died in a mining accident, not only a furnace worker died but a single mother of eight, poet, songwriter and fiercely independent woman who made do, regardless and with an unfailing smile.

An exception in every way, the Miss Mathews, 39, outdrew the popular singer in a neighborhood tavern, rescued stray dogs and cats, drove everything from a pick-up truck to a 16-wheeler, cussed with the tough men with whom she worked and, when times were tough, made wholesome meals from a few vegetables.

More than 1,500 men have died in hardrock mining accidents in Ontario since 1935, but she was the first woman.

She was making adjustments to a copper furnace with an air gun on Tuesday when the platform on which she was standing collapsed, crushing her between it and the floor.

She was the sixth Inco employee to die in three months.

"The floodgates have opened and we're all drowning," said David Brown, a member of the inquest committee of the United Steelworkers of America. "It's like a bloody war around here.

"One death after another — I just don't know how long I can stand it."

Miss Matthews' death was a shock from which her eight children are still reeling.

Her eldest child, Paul, 23, said the family identified her body after the accident.

"But at midnight — the time she normally comes home — we were still half-expecting her to open the door," Paul said. "We just couldn't believe it, and we still can't."

Miss Matthews lived through a lifetime of hardships which included two broken marriages, serious illnesses, a nomadic childhood and 1½ years out of work. She overcame the disappointments of more than one Christmas and birthday without presents telling a story, a joke or singing a song, Paul said.

Detector saves boy

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (CP) — Don Crisp became worried when his eight-year-old son Philip, hit in the face by an air gun, had his face stitched without doctors finding the pellet. One night Crisp approached his sleeping son and used a metal detector to trace the pellet. Now the Crisp family is relieved after a successful operation to remove the slug from under Philip's ear.

Libel law clarification praised

WINNIPEG (CP) — Changes to Manitoba's Defamation Act protecting newspapers from libel suits resulting from letters to the editor were praised Tuesday by a spokesman for the Canadian Daily Newspaper Publishers Association.

Lawyer Knox Foster said the legislation will clarify a Supreme Court of Canada decision that a newspaper may use the defence of fair comment only when it agrees with the contents of a letter to the editor. The case involved a Saskatoon alderman and the Star-Phoenix.

If the legislation is passed, a publisher would have to show only that the writer of the letter could honestly hold the opinion in question.

Foster noted that newspapers could still be sued for publishing defamatory letters if facts were not true or if the supposed letter writer were found not to exist.

The legislation would also protect radio and television stations which allow public comment.

Amendment's to the Ontario Libel and Slander Act were passed last week.

Alberta passed a similiar amendment to its libel law earlier this year and New Brunswick and British Columbia are considering similiar moves.

The Ontario Press Council, whose 21 members examine complaints from the public about the news media, had petitioned Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry for changes in the provincial law.

Inuit of 3 nations adopt charter

GODTHAAD, Greenland (AP) — Inuit from Canada, the U.S. and Greenland adopted a charter Sunday to gain greater control over the mineral wealth in their homelands, but postponed formal ratification at the insistence of the Canadian delegation.

A two-year delay was accepted to allow the Inuit (Eskimos) from Canada time to press land claims with the federal government. The Canadian delegation to the Inuit Circumpolar Conference said formal association with the international body might jeopardize their claims.

Conference organizers said the delay essentially was technical and that organized co-operation would begin well before the July 1, 1982, ratification deadline.

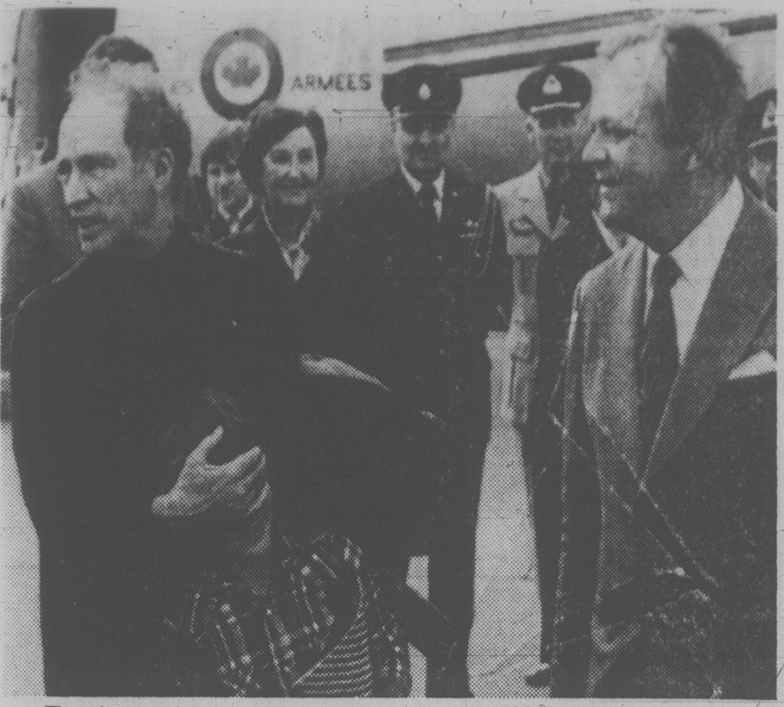
The 54 delegates to the conference broke into prolonged applause after adoption of the charter. It signalled the first formal communion of the 90,000 Inuit in the three countries, whose huge arctic and sub-arctic homelands contain vast oil and mineral deposits vital to the Western world. Inuit from Siberia in the Soviet Union were prohibited from attending by officials in Moscow.

The Inuit conference charter provides for an 18-member general assembly drawn equally from Eskimos in the three countries. It would promote Eskimo unity, culture, "greater self-sufficiency" and ensure "adequate Inuit participation in political, economic and social institutons."

An Alaskan delegate suggested that some of the billions of dollars in oil taxes conrolled by Alaskan Inuit could be diverted to Greenland, enabling the Arctic island to leave the European Economic Community.

Greenland's 41,000 Eskimos became reluctant members in 1972 when Denmark, which governed Greenland directly until last year, joined the nine-member EEC.

Multinational corporatons abandoned oil and gas drilling off Greenland's west coast two years ago when they found nothing. Greenland depends on Denmark for most of its budget and also receives about $12 million annually from the EEC.



Trudeau shields son Justin's face at Norwegian airport

European trip ends, Trudeau flies home

OSLO, Norway (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau's 10-day European trip, which ended today, underlined what many believe are his main interests since returning to office: constitutional reform and foreign affairs.

The four-country official trip, while it produced no concrete results such as trade or other agreements, provided a forum for Trudeau to promote the need for a renewed so-called North-South dialogue between rich and poor states.

As well, he used his first private meeting with British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher as an opportunity to consolidate his strategy on constitutional reform.

Starting with the Venice economic summit, and continuing in his personal talks with Italian Prime Minister Francesco Cossiga, Pope John Paul, Thatcher, Prime Minister Thorbjorn Falldin of Sweden and Prime Minister Odvar Nordli of Norway, Trudeau emphasized the need for new political support among the industrialized countries for improved relations with the developing world.

North-South relations will be the subject of a number of summits or world meetings during the next year — beginning with the United Nations negotiations this fall.

Trudeau flew home to Ottawa today after telling reporters in the Norwegian capital that Canada will have to study the cost of positioning military equipment in Norway before agreeing to such a possible request from the Scandinavian country.

Trudeau said Norway has not decided yet whether to position Canadian equipment here — or what would be sent. Such a decision is not expected until fall at the earliest.

Union overtime ban 'not illegal'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada Labor Relations Board has dismissed an application by B.C. Telephone Co. for a declaration that an overtime ban by company employees is an illegal strike.

A spokesman for the 10,000-member Telecommunications Workers Union said the decision means the ban against working overtime and against relieving supervisors will continue.

The ban was begun by the union at the end of May to protest against management threats of layoffs after the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission rejected a company application for an interim rate increase.

In his 24-page decision, labor relations board vice-chairman James Dorsey said the overtime ban is legal because it is not related to current conciliation proceedings for a new contract.

"The union's purpose is to react to the employer's prophecy of layoffs," wrote Dorsey.

"The union seeks nothing from the employer. It merely seeks to protect employment for the members it represents."

Acquittal won

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Marshall Singleton, 59, was acquitted by a B.C. Supreme Court jury of killing George Jean Knight, 47, the woman he was living with.

Her body was found Oct. 4 but was not identified until January when a charge of second-degree murder was laid again Singleton. Knight died of strangulation.

Is God a person? Appeal court must decide

VANCOUVER (CP) — The B.C. Court of Appeal is trving to determine if God is a person.

"With God's help we'll come to a decision," said Chief Justice Nathan Nemetz said.

The court is being asked to overturn the May 30, 1979, acquittal in Prince George County Court of Morris Davie on charges of counselling two others to set a forest fire near the remote Fort Ware Indian reserve in northern B.C.

A police sergeant saw the accused drop to his knees and pray: "Oh God, please let me get away with it, just this once."

The county court ruled this was a private conversation between two persons and therefore privileged and could not be used as evidence in court.

Crown counsel Peter Ewart argued the prayer should be admissible as evidence because God is not a person but a theological or a spiritual being.

"The question is whether or not, under the circumstances, the words uttered by the accused constituted a private conversation — for communication, there must be two persons."

Ewart said that if God is a person then many of His acts — since certain acts of God end in death — would be violations of the Criminal Code of Canada, and He would be charged.

He said Davie, wanting to know if he would be charged, voluntarily took a polygraph (lie detector) test in Prince George.

The police sergeant who gave the test left the polygraph room and went to an adjoining room where he heard Davie through a hidden microphone and saw him slide off his chair to his knees and make his plea.

Ewart said the Davie's plea was a soliloqy or a monologue even though directed to God, and he found it difficult to "see God as a person" in the context of Davie's remark.

"We're saying God is a theological person, a spiritual being," said Ewart.

Davie's lawyer Keith Aartsen said the accused's conversation was meant to be heard by his God and not the police.

"It's repugnant that a person's prayers should be put in evidence against him," said Aartsen.

He said if a judge granted such an order then presumably a hidden microphone could be placed in the confession booth of a Roman Catholic church.

Mr. Justice Peter Seaton interjected it is generally accepted that if a priest chooses to testify, th3n confession is acceptable evidence in court.

Aartsen quoted the Concise Oxford Dictionary definition of person which includes a theological meaning as "applied to the three modes of the divine being in the Godhead (Father, Son and Holy Spirit) which together constitute the Trinity."

"Presumably, Mr. Davie thought he was communicating," Aartsen said. "In Mr. Davie's mind, he was speaking to his God in a private communication — whether or not God is a person in the mind of Mr. Davie is still up in the air.

"I can only conclude that the accused meant the conversation to be heard by his God and not the police."

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room, etc., for rent, or property for sale; start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably by giving complete, definite information. Always include the price in your advertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember, Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Friday, 8:00 to 5:30 p.m. Saturday. Don't allow the reader to speculate.

"A LOVE STORY"

Once upon a time there was a pretty widow and a divorced gentleman who met and fell in love. When they decided to marry, they realized that they would need a much larger house for both families. The home that their realtor found for them was perfect but they need to sell their two present homes in order to complete the purchase. Please help them to live happily ever after by phoning me to view one of their 3 bedroom, full basement family homes priced at $79,900 and $97,500 — one in Gordon Head and one in the Blenkinsop Valley. They are anxious to sell and open to offers.

309 IN MEMORIAM

SAMOILIS - Nicholas, in loving memory of my dear son who passed away June 30, 1978.

What I would give if I could say
Hi Nick in the same way
To hear your voice to see your smile, to sit and talk with you a while
To have to love you as always, to share a problem in good and bad days.
God chose to have you and so he gave you a rest
A mother is close to you and does the best.
To have to love and they to part is the greatest sorrow in my heart.
But that gold picture in my heart of all those happy days when we were together, nothing ever will wipe away and we'll meet again some day.
Forever loved and sadly missed, Mom.

STADFELD — In loving memory of Johann Hjortur Stadfeld, who passed away June 30, 1978.

As we love you, so we miss you;
In our memory you are near.
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.
Lovingly remembered by your wife Eva, daughters Johanna, Elizabeth, and Constance.

YATES - In loving memory of our dear Mother, Jane Yates, who passed away June 30, 1962.

Years go by but memories stay
As near and dear as yesterday.
Ever remembered by her daughters Edith & Lilian.

Yours was a heart

You know how we love

love you yet

Though God took you

Do those plants bug you?

garden notes

I have never been one to maintain that gardening is all a bed of roses. It doesn't matter whether you have an ordinary sized city lot or an acreage estate or confine your green thumb activities to a few potted houseplants in an apartment, there are numerous tasks which must be performed — some of them boring, some of them back-breaking and some of them downright distasteful.

In this latter category of distasteful tasks, I would include coping with all manner and breeds of undesirable insects and such horrid little beasts as slugs and cutworms, notwithstanding one anonymous reader who, in response to a recent column on earwigs, suggested that we are no doubt just as loathsome to them as they are to us.

Slugs really get to me. I'm darned if I'll use a favorite method for getting rid of them which is espoused by my all-organic gardening friends; that is, to place a saucer of beer on the ground which is supposed to attract them and ultimately result in their demise by drowning. Why should such nasties leave this world so happily? I'll settle for slug bait any day.

Cutworms are something else again, I've yet to find a chemical that provides a satisfactory method of eradicating these scourges of the garden without offending my own standards of environmental protection, and squishing remains the major method of extermination around our garden.

A major problem, however, is that my husband says he'd sooner risk his macho image rather than squish the things between his fingers so that task falls entirely upon my shoulders, or rather fingers, for my loathing of cutworms is even greater than his and I virtually revel in the deed.

These thoughts coursed through my mind the other day as I read a letter from a reader with a tale of woe about infested houseplants as eloquent as I've seen. Allow me to quote from it so those with a similar problem will realize they're not alone.

"In the last couple of years, my mother has not received a gift plant which was not all bugs," my correspondent begins. "Sometimes one kind of bugs, other times (maybe from different nurseries or at different times of the year) a different kind of bugs again. She has quite a few houseplants of her own and by the time we finally get of rid of bugs on everything, there comes another gift potted plant or cut flowers and there we have to start all over again.

"Last fall, I transplanted all the houseplants, using well-baked soil in everything and we were enjoying a no-bug house until, as a get-well gesture, someone sent her bouquet of mixed flowers again.

"This was some time in November and — well, I don't know where to start — but there was a very small black fly and another light-colored one just a little bit bigger. We couldn't find anything on the houseplants but they were flying all over the house, so we know they came from somewhere!"

She and her mother became truly concerned because they have accumulated an impressive collection of housplants which they did not want to become pest-infected.

"It's always the same thing," the lady laments. "People just wire their orders and first thing we know, we have more bugs again."

Well, I've never experienced this problem to such a massive extent but whenever I do spot some winged ones around my houseplants, I take some fairly simple measures.

The black flies breed from the maggots or eggs that come in potting soil that is high in organic matter. These are not a great problem but can be controlled by watering-in a contact insecticide.

The whiteflies should be sprayed in the morning before they get active with a contact insecticide, hitting the undersides of the leaves. Some people dip their plants, held upside down, in the pesticide. Always follow label instructions.

It's a good idea, when you get a new houseplant, to keep it as isolated as possible so you can watch it for a week or two for any sign of pests before moving it in with your established collection.

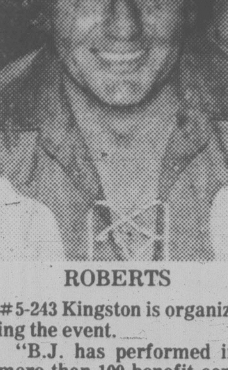
Benefit for singer who lost his voice



ROBERTS

Local country and western singer B.J. Roberts, who has organized more than 100 benefit concerts for needy Victorians, today is undergoing his third throat operation for cancer.

His career was halted last fall because his illness made it difficult to talk, and for the past six weeks he hasn't been able to speak at all.

He had his first operation Nov. 19 after doctors discovered nodes on his vocal cords. A second operation was done on April 28.

Roberts, 42, hopes to be able to sing again some day.

In the meantime he can't work and so a number of local bands have joined forces for a B.J. Roberts Benefit to be held at 7:30 p.m. Sunday, July 6, at Holyrood House.

The bands are Western Union, Shady Creek, The Gamblers, The Clams and Capital City Ramblers.

Texas Ray Witfield of #5-243 Kingston is organizing the event.

"B.J. has performed in more than 100 benefit concerts here since 1965 so it is only fitting that we hold one for him. He's a tremendous guy."

Witfield said Roberts has helped to raise more than $300,000 for Victorians in need, including a little boy who was hit by a car and for three girls who lost their parents.

Born in Ottawa, Roberts came to Victoria in the 1950s and drove taxis between singing jobs.

He has recorded with the Buckaroos, a Nashville band, and has cut four singles: My Arms Never Close, Tiger By the Tail, A Feeling I Can't Explain and My Woman, My Lover, My Wife.

B.J. and his band were on tour in the Yukon when he had difficulty speaking and had to return to Victoria for medical treatment.

Witfield said Roberts will appear at the benefit but won't be able to speak.

Tickets for the benefit can be purchased at Leonard's Music, the Circle E Saddlery Shop, from Leonard at the Elk's Club, from Mel Russell at the King's Hotel, from Edna at the Army and Navy on Wharf Street and from Jan at Halfway House.

They can also be bought at the door July 6.

Tanker pirated

MANILA (UPI) — Pirates armed with knives and a rifle boarded a Singaporean tanker docked for repairs in Manila Bay, overpowered two guards and fled with $10,610 in cash and valuables, police said.

Rayonier denies charge of excessive pollution

VANCOUVER (CP) — Regional vice-president of the Canadian Paperworkers Union has sent a letter to B.C. Environment Minister Stephen Rogers insisting his ministry take action against Rayonier Canada's Port Alice pulp mill for alleged violation of its pollution permit.

Art Gruntman charged in his letter that Rayonier has consistently violated the pollution permit during the last two years with sulphur dioxide emissions into the air and has deliberately stalled on correcting the problem.

But mill manager Bernie Garrood said in an interview from Port Alice that Gruntman is mistaken. He said government officials checked emission levels two weeks ago and found them at about half the permissible standard at the mill.

Garrood said figures used by Gruntman, which were also raised in the legislature earlier this month by MLA Colin Gablemann (NDP — North Island), were taken out of context from an internal memo stolen from the mill. Gablemann told the house that pollution emissions have exceeded federal health standards by as much as 10 times.

Garrood said the figures quoted were peak levels taken during the start-up period for a new recovery boiler installed in 1977. Emission levels have dropped since then, he said.

Gruntman said "malodors and toxic gas are a constant threat to the employees. Company records reveal that during 1978 dozens of cases of medical first aid were reported as a result of excessive gas conditions." He said such cases have increased since then.

Garrood also denied the company was stalling on dealing with the problem. He said Rayonier had hoped to have a modern electrostatic unit installed by this May to cut the pollution, but it proved unworkable, so the company was forced to go back to a basic filter unit for which major alterations to equipment are necessary.

The company recently announced it has assigned $5.8 million for the work.

Duke Point log storage study ends

A federal-provincial task force examining the Nanaimo River estuary recommended Friday that log storage leases be relocated away from a degraded but potentially valuable fish habitat close to Duke Point.

The report came after more than two years of studies of the sensitive tidal flats and shallows in Nanaimo harbor.

The long rocky peninsula of Duke Point is being developed as an industrial park, a project fought by environmentalists.

But the task force report suggests fish and industry can co-exist. It suggested that the log storage areas be moved back into the centre of the estuary and along its west shore, the Nanaimo city side.

Provincial Environment Minister Stephen Rogers said the Duke Point side of the estuary to the east was environmentally of greater significance.

"That's the area where you can look for the greatest amount of rehabilitation," he saidy.

The task force report said its solution would permit a 75-per-cent recovery of highly productive fish-rearing grounds totalling 610 acres, and the cost of relocating the log booming grounds would be no more than the benefits expected from greater fish catches.

97th YEAR, No. 19 * * * VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1980 25 CENTS DAILY, 30 CENTS SATURDAY

Happy Birthday anyway, Canada

WALTER STEWART
FP News Service

OTTAWA — When I was a tad in Montreal, a kid down the street used to throw a big party every year. At this party, there were always the following ingredients:

— one cake with purple icing.

— half a dozen dumb games, with girls, including spin-the-bottle.

— six (or more) kids who ate too much purple cake and threw up.

— four fist-fights, usually, but not always, among the boys at the party.

My mother, when I would describe the fist-fights every year — they included myself on a regrettable number of occasions — would always ask me, "If that's the way it is, why do you go? " I would scuff my toe and say, "But we really like each other!"

Watching all the ranygazoo surrounding Canada's impending 113th birthday bash, I am a child again. I have not seen any purple cakes yet, but I know there are going to be a lot of dumb games, and the fist-fights, it sometimes seems, never stop.

A Canadian, which is to say, a person from a land that doesn't know its past and doesn't trust its future, must, on solemn occasions like this, ask himself the key questions:

In the light of past history, is it worth trying to hold this nation together?

In the light of recent history, do we have the will to do it?

After a certain amount of mulling, scratching and toe-scuffing, I am inclined to answer both with a Yes. I am less certain on the second than the first, but generally, as I told my mother, however it may look to outsiders, we really do like each other.

It is well to keep history in mind when cluck-clucking over the nation's fate. It seems at times — this is one of them — that the view from the bridge of our ship of state is not unlike that from the deck of the late, lamented, Titanic.

Alberta is outraged, Ontario is upset, Quebec stunned, British Columbia alienated, the Maritimes distressed and Newfoundland pressing for a new arrangement, under which it would be towed several hundred miles out onto George's Bank, and set up on its own, with Brian Peckford as Imperator.

Not only that, the economy is on sick leave, inflation is raging, unemployment is up, parliament is a laughing-stock, great Caesar's bust is on the shelf, and I don't feel so well myself.

What's to celebrate?

Well, for one thing, we're still here. Against expectation, common sense and in the teeth of the evidence, this ramshackle, unlikely, lovely land is holding together. That's one thing.

Here's another. Behind and below the bitching and squalling, we seem to be getting better at being a nation. Oh, the process is slow, and noisy, and irritating, but it's there.

A small symbol. When I was young, Canadians were ashamed to be Canadians. The idea of stirring up a fight over the words of O Canada would have seemed hilarious. Who ever sang it, anyway, except under a teacher's glower on state occasions at school?

My kids bellow it out; always have done, in English and French, and with some confusion about how many times to stand on guard, but they do it.

We are a more self-confident country than we were a few years ago. In the past, whenever things went wrong with our great and good neighbor, the United States, we always went, hat in hand, down to Washington to ask Uncle Sam to please, sir, stop thrashing about, because we were getting crushed. We whined for an exemption from the Interest Equalization Tax in 1963, we whimpered when Richard Nixon socked it to us with his Nixonomics in 1971. We were the worst snivellers on the block.

The other day, External Affairs Minister Mark MacGuigan, who looks like the class pantywaist, said a number of rude and truthful things to the Americans about their foreign policy. Now they're snivelling. Surely that's an advance.

Being here, and being stronger, is something. Canadians who haven't been through many of the shouting matches we stage at set intervals — i.e., Canadians less stricken in years than myself — need to be reminded that most of the noise is bluff and bluster.

I don't mean that the differences between Alberta and Ottawa, to pick an instance, are not real, or that the grievances on either side are not deeply felt. I mean that in a far-flung, disparate, disjointed country like our own, these tests of will and outbreaks of anger are bound to occur, have occurred

Times News Services

A weeklong killer heat wave that is still blistering the southwestern United States has been blamed for 42 deaths and has aggravated fires on tens of thousands of acres in the Colorado Rockies and Arizona.

The heat has killed millions of chickens at Arkansas poultry farms, and farmers are predicting losses as high as $5 million.

Peaches dried on the trees in Texas and, as the sun scorched pastureland, some farmers were rushing to cut hay early.

More than 25,000 acres were blazing in Arizona brush fires, and firefighters from Oregon, California and Montana joined forces in Colorado to battle uncontrolled fires.

On the Canadian prairies, a three-province soaking at the weekend will at least temporarily halt deterioration of crops and pastures.

The Winnipeg weather office said rainfall during a 48-hour period from 7 a.m. Friday to 7 a.m. Sunday ranged from a few millimetres in isolated spots to 45 millimetres in some of the driest regions of Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Early-seeded crops have already suffered irreparable drought damage as far as potential yields are concerned. Those yields in the most severe districts will at best be half of normal.

In most cases — outside of Alberta and parts of western Saskatchewan which have received good moisture so far this year — it was the first substantial rain this year.

In Texas, temperatures soared to records across the sun-baked state. Wichita Falls's 44-degree reading shattered a 56-year-old record. The mercury soared to 42 degrees at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport, 41 at El Paso, 40 in Lubbock and Abilene and 39 in Waco.

Heat stroke has claimed six victims, Texas medical examiners say, and the deaths of 28 other people may be related to the heat.

In Arkansas and Oklahoma, at least four people died in each state during the weekend because of the heat.

The temperatures pose the greatest threat to the elderly and poor, health officials say. But in Dallas County, a six-month-old child was among those who fell victim to the heat.

Texans were urged to stay out of the blazing sun and keep their air conditioners or fans going.

In Wichita County, Tex., sizzling temperatures were wilting crops in the field. "Rain and irrigation is the only thing that will save us now," said county agent Don Decker. "Fruit crops are severely damaged and peaches especially are turning into little knots."

In other parts of the United States, tornadoes and severe thunderstorms wreaked havoc from the Midwest to the Atlantic, forcing thousands of people to flee the Baltimore Zoo and causing power outages and numerous injuries in Pennsylvania, Illinois and Ohio.

Some 4,000 people were enjoying an afternoon in the Baltimore Zoo Sunday when a tornado ripped through the grounds, downing hundreds of trees, injuring two people and killing three birds.

Meanwhile, raging thun-

Fatal crash on Malahat

An 87-year-old Oak Bay man died in Royal Jubilee Hospital early today after receiving head injuries in a two-car crash on the Trans-Canada Highway in front of the Malahat Chalet Sunday afternoon.

Edwin Trueman, 2 - 1221 Beach, died at 6:05 a.m.

RCMP said the crash occurred around 4:30 p.m. when a northbound car driven by Roelof Bekker, 40, of Port Alberni, was in collision with the Trueman car as it pulled out of the chalet parking lot.

Bekker and the occupants of his car, and a passenger in the Trueman car, were not injured.

Damage to both vehicles totalled $5,000.

Wettest June a shower away

One more shower before midnight and Victoria will have had the wettest June on record, the weather office said today.

As of midnight Sunday a total of 80.1 millimetres of rain had fallen during June, compared with a normal total of 29.5 mm for the full month.

The June record, in 1956, is 82.4 mm.

The weather office said scattered showers are expected this evening and there is a strong chance an all-time record will be set.

The additional 2.3 mm needed for the new mark is about the thickness of a dime.

There have been only 184 hours of bright sunshine during the first 29 days of June, compared with a normal total of 254.4 hours.

Temperatures have ranged from one to two degrees cooler than usual during the day but have been normal at night, due to the moderating effect of the cloud cover.

The rainfall since Jan. 1 has been up 25 per cent from normal levels, but most of this increase has come during the past six weeks.

Meanwhile, the immediate weather forecast on the coast is for an increasing amount of sunshine, but it's a relative term. The weather will continue to be mainly cloudy, with some scattered showers.

The outlook for the first half of July is for more cloud than normal.

77-1 'Yes' at Woodward's

Spokesmen for Woodward's and the Retail Clerks Union have expressed satisfaction with a first agreement for the Victoria food floor which ended a four-week strike.

Under the agreement, most workers will join the RCU as a condition of employment but the company retains the right to do the hiring.

"It was a compromise agreement," RCU president Rudy Krickan said today.

"We gave up a good deal but so did they. The important thing is we have signed a first agreement."

Employees approved the tentative agreement by a 77 to 1 vote.

Woodward's spokesman Bill Brown said the agreement reflects the company's position before the walkout.

The union got the same agreement it signed with the food chains, Brown said.

Union employees will not be taking part in the company's profit-sharing program and will not get employee discounts or the 20-minute coffee break enjoyed by non-union employees.

(However, they will get a 15-minute break as provided for in union agreements. The union said it gave up its request to join the profit-sharing plan very early in the negotiations).

Brown said the union made one significant gain, the right to sign up almost all the employees on the food floor at the Victoria store as a condition of employment.

"It is unfortunate the union took its members out on strike with a loss of four weeks pay to get what the company offered before the strike began," he said.

Wages had not been a serious point of contention.

Unionized shelf stockers, who were getting $445 a week for a 37½-hour week, now will get $425 a week for a 40-hour week, but also will receive an additional paid day off every second week. Clerks will receive $416 a week. Non-union shelf stockers will continue to receive $445 a week for a 37½-hour week.

Korea in coal deal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Kaiser Resources Ltd. will develop its $200 million Greenhills surface mine and coal preparation plant in southeastern B.C. as a joint venture with Pohang Iron and Steel Co. Ltd. of Korea, company chairman Edgar Kaiser Jr. said today.

An agreement in principle for the project has been signed, subject to approval of the directors of both companies, the Korean government and the Canadian Foreign Investment Review Agency, Kaiser said in a statement.

Kaiser, which will own 80 per cent of the project, is to build and operate the mine with capital, operating costs and profits pro-rated between the two companies, he said.

The agreement also provides for delivery to Korea of 500,000 metric tons of coal a year for 20 years.

Volcano lava dome set to crack?

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — Scientists getting their first good look into the crater of Mount St. Helens in more than a week said a red glow in the volcano was caused by superheated rocks, not fresh lava.

After a clear day Saturday, the volcano was closed in by clouds again Sunday, said Carl Burgeson, a spokesman for the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Burgeson said geologists saw a 22-metre-long east-west crack glowing in a dome of crusted lava that has bulged up within the crater. They first believed the glow was new lava, but late Saturday determined it was rock glowing with heat from the magma, or molten rock, below.

The scientists saw only one dome forming in the crater, not two as some speculated earlier. The dome is still estimated to be 200 metres in diameter and about 70 metres thick, Burgeson said.

A steam plume, absent early Sunday, shot up to about 3,000 metres shortly after 8 a.m. "The plume has come and gone before, so scientists aren't too concerned," Burgeson said.

Harmonic tremors — which scientists say indicate the movement of magma withing the volcano — returned to the mountain Saturday afternoon for about an hour, but at extremely low levels, said Liz Bjorkman of the University of Washington geophysics department.

The tremors were much smaller than those Friday, which had been the largest since the last volcanic eruption June 12, she said. Harmonic tremors were also noted before the eruptions May 18 and 25, and June 12.

An earthquake measuring less than 2.0 on the Richter scale shook the Elk Lake and Mount Margaret area northeast of Mount St. Helens late Saturday, but was not associated with the mountain, Ms. Bjorkman said.

Another quake, also measuring about 2.0, shook the Strait of Georgia area near Vancouver, B.C., late Saturday, causing residents to wonder whether Mount St. Helens had erupted, Ms. Bjorkman said. "Fortunately, there wasn't anything going on."

Meanwhile, the Boeing Co. says it has moved its flight training operation from Moses Lake, Wash., to Glasgow, Mont., rather than risk ash damage to new airplanes.

Pete Bush, company spokesman, said the move is temporary until the county airport at Moses Lake can clean up the ash that littered the field after the eruption of Mount St. Helens.

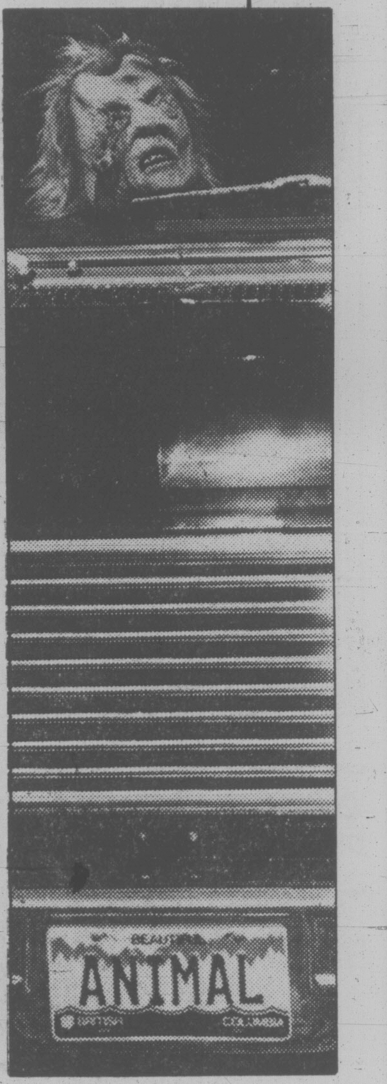
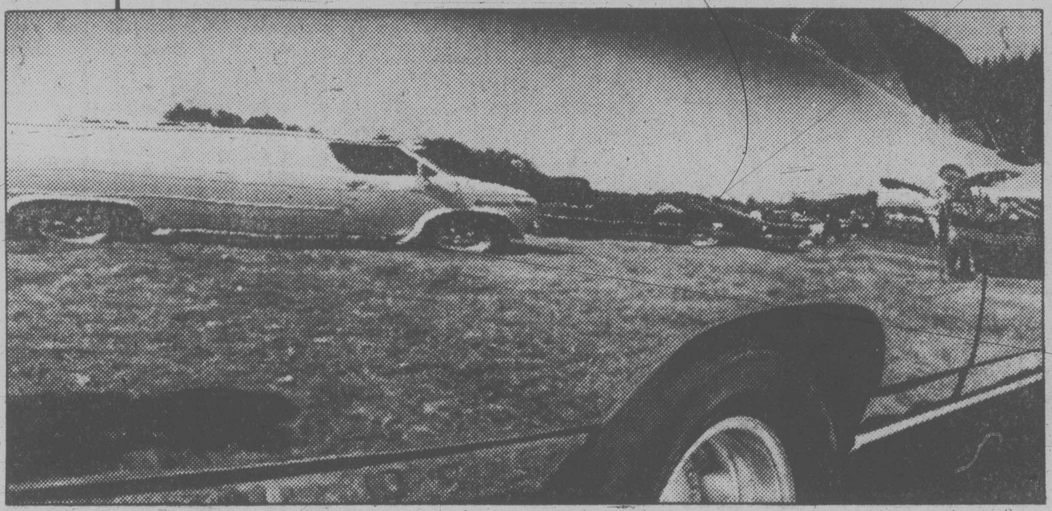
Galaxy of super-vehicles

The second annual Sooke Street Irons Rod Run at Sooke Flats Saturday and Sunday was a resounding success. The outdoor car show attracted nearly 200 entries, including pre-1948 street rods such as coupes, roadsters, sedans, pickups and sedan deliveries, post-1948 street machines, including late-model muscle cars, antique and custom vehicles and motorcycles. Among the antiques was the 1926 crank-starting model T (right) owned by Ken Ballard. Ultra-shiny black road runner owned by Flash Gordon (below) reflects other entries. Sometimes the licence plates said it all, as is the case in the photo at far right. Trophies went to Ray Wittrock of Swift Current, Sask., in the long distance category; Gordon Clive of Duncan in the pre-1948 class with a 1932 Ford three-window coupe; Dave Smith in the post-1948 competition with a 1957 Ford Skyliner with retractable hardtop, and Cline in the people's choice category.





In case you're wondering

My family and I do a lot of driving on the Saanich Peninsula and our curiosity has been piqued by the operation of the traffic lights on the Pat Bay Highway. We have been told that there are pressure points under the white stop line at crossing roads, such as Island View, Mount Newton and McTavish, which, if one stops with the front wheels on the line, effect a light change. Is this true? Does it only work during low traffic hours?

A provincial highways spokesman explains there are loops — wires buried in the pavement — at every road that has traffic lights and intersects the Pay Bay Highway.

When the wheels of a vehicle pass over the loop a message is triggered to the traffic light and, after a slight delay, the light is turned in favor of the intersecting road traffic.

This induction system is in operation at all times.

The spokesman says there is a minimum time that the lights must remain green on the highway. Because of the system, the most heavily used intersecting roads have a shorter green time period for cars being driven on the Pat Bay Highway.

Ads by lawyers? It's old hat here

Ads for lawyers in Vancouver's new Yellow Pages are causing a stir in the profession but the same change took place in Victoria six months ago without much controversy.

Mostly smaller firms are advertising in the Vancouver phone book, including a couple of celebrated storefront offices which have been trying to advertise their fees schedule as well, but the listings also include prestigious Davis and Co.

That's the firm which former justice minister Ron Basford works for.

Law Society treasurer Victor McCallum said he was amazed to see this old established firm advertising in the Yellow Pages.

Some well-known Victoria firms advertised in the local telephone directory when it came out earlier this year, but their ads went in before a Law Society ruling that all copy must first be submitted to them for review.

C.G. Randall of Randall, Meyer, Pollard and Fuller said today the society had authorized the use of Yellow Pages ads at the 11th hour late last year and Victoria firms had only a few days' notice to meet the telephone company's deadline.

Harold Turnham of Owen-Flood, Cox, Turnham, Green and Higginbotham said there have beeen suggestions the Law Society didn't like some of the wording in the Victoria ads but they haven't made any specific complaints.

Randall said his firm's small one-column notice has attracted some new business.

"We've had some people who said they saw our ad.

"I'd have to say it has helped."

Advertising by the legal profession is still tightly controlled, however. No radio or television commercials are allowed — only print advertising.

"They're allowing ads in the newspapers which I think is helpful to some of the smaller firms out in the neighborhoods," said Randall. "We never considered it (a newspaper ad) necessary."

Turnham said his firm placed an ad in the local Yellow Pages basically because the partners believed everyone else was going to.

The firm was surprised more Victoria lawyers didn't advertise. Only five firms placed separate small display ads, while another six highlighted their alphabetical listings with larger type in a box.

Besides the Law Society restriction on wording — lawyers can't claim they "specialize" in any type of law, but must say "preferred area of practice" instead — there's a limit on the size of the ad too.

Taxation offices buzzing

It was a quiet pre-holiday sort of day today for a lot of workers but the municipal staff collecting property taxes was kept hopping as Victorians rushed to pay up on the last day allowed — almost.

June 30 is the deadline in most Victoria-area municipalities for payment of taxes, although some — like the city — won't impose the customary five-per-cent penalty if payment is in their offices by Wednesday. Other municipalities doing so are Esquimalt and Saanich. North Saanich tax department said if payment is postmarked June 30 or before and it arrives late, no penalty will be charged.

Oak Bay, Sidney and Central Saanich all want your money today, no ifs ands or buts.

The lucky taxpayers are those in unorganized territory such as View Royal, the Highlands and the western community. Their deadline is also the same as their municipal neighbors but they can pay up to a month late without penalty.

They pay directly to the provincial government, at Room 20, 617 Government, or by mail to P.O. Box 2900, Victoria, V8W 3G4.

All municipalities reported brisk business this morning.

20% increase in house prices in city since October - survey

Victoria's house prices have increased about 20 per cent since October and the city now ranks behind only Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary and Toronto as the most expensive place for house buyers in Canada.

The June survey by Royal Trust shows a typical four-bedroom resale home in an area like Broadmead would cost $135,000, up 22.7 per cent from $120,000 in October.

A three-bedroom resale home in Gordon head would go for about $88,000, up 19 per cent from $74,000 in October.

The $135,000 four-bedroom house would cost $250,000 in Kerrisdale, $235,000 in parts of Calgary, $169,000 in Edmonton and and $157,000 in Toronto.

But the same home is only $117,000 in the Toronto suburb of North York, $103,000 in Regina, $89,500 in Ottawa and $58,000 in Three Rivers, Quebec.

The $88,000 three-bedroom home would cost $160,000 in Kerrisdale, $144,000 in Calgary, $119,000 in Edmonton and $98,000 in parts of Toronto.

But the price would be only $78,000 in the Toronto suburb of Mississauga, $65,000 in Regina, $62,800 in Ottawa and $35,000 in Three Rivers.

Wally Vogelsang, local mortgage manager for Royal Trust, said the survey reflects two trends: sharp price increases in Western Canada and a real estate slump in Ontario.

"They are in a pretty bad situation in the east.

"The car layoffs are starting to have their effect. There is a real estate slump developing in Kitchener, in St. Catherines — all through the region. Toronto is the only place not yet affected.

"Ottawa also has a decline in the real estate market because of the continuing shift of government offices out of the city."

Vogelsang said there is nothing to keep Victoria prices from moving higher, as the demand is strong.

Mortgage funds are becoming a little tight in some companies because investors are favoring only short-term deposits, up to one year.

Price limit boosted for grants

The price limits on houses eligible under the provincial government's home acquisition grants and second mortgage programs have been boosted by 25 to 35 per cent.

Lands, Parks and Housing Minister Jim Chabot announced that effective on Tuesday the limit on houses under the first home and family first home grants will be $70,000.

For the second mortgage program, the limit will be $84,000. Previously, there were differing levels in the various regions of B.C.

That bang won't be the volcano

Victorians at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday will hear the loudest sound since Mount St. Helens erupted when planes from CFB Comox fly low over the city to mark Canada's 113th birthday.

The flypast will include 101 Voodoos, a T33, Trackers and an Argus.

The planes will herald the arrival of a giant birthday cake in Centennial Square, the climax of the 10-day Folkfest.

Representatives from many parts of Canada will help blow out the candles.

Dominion Day Eve events at Centennial Square tonight include official ceremonies involving the Human Rights Commission and the Women's Canadian Club at 6:45 p.m.

This will be followed by dances marking multicultural women's day.

On Tuesday, Folkfest resumes at 11 a.m. when the kiosks open and official Dominion Day ceremonies will be held at 1 p.m.

There will be entertainment between 1 and 2:20 before the flypast and the birthday cake cutting.

Folkfest events continue until 9 p.m.

Tuesday is also Armed Forces Day for Victoria.

CFB Esquimalt will be open to the public from noon until 4 p.m.

The program includes harbor tours and rides.

There will be an air show at the base, starting at 1:55 p.m. and the planes will form the city's fly past at 2:30 p.m.

A free double decker bus will carry people from the Causeway to the base between noon and 4 p.m.

The other major event in the area on the holiday is Sidney Days, starting with a parade from Sanscha Hall at 11 a.m.

A pancake breakfast will be held before the event.

There will be craft shows and entertainment at the Sanscha grounds.

A 25-mile bicycle race will start from Beacon Avenue at 1:30 p.m.

A huge Canadian flag, donated by the Victoria Village Squares harmony chorus, will be presented to the city at the Beacon Hill Park flagpole at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

The group felt the present flag is too small for the pole. Their Maple Leaf flag measures 4.6 metres by 2.3 metres.

Rise predicted in trade deficit

OTTAWA (CP) — The Royal Bank of Canada used the Canadian premiere of a film on exports to forecast larger balance of payments deficits this year and next.

E. P. Neufeld, the bank's senior vice-president and chief economist, predicted Canada's current account deficit would rise to $6.5 billion this year and remain near that level in 1981. The deficit in 1979 was $5.02 billion.

Seasonally-adjusted figures for the first quarter of 1980 showed the balance of payments deficit down to its lowest level since the end of 1977.

But Neufeld said he expects exports to fall later this year because of the recession in the United States.

Balance of payments deficits have been the rule rather than the exception for Canada.

Neufeld, a former assistant deputy minister in the federal finance department, said the trade figures he foresees should not be cause for alarm so long as the Bank of Canada keeps the money supply under control, governments work to reduce their deficits and wage settlements are not excessive.

However, he said a more aggressive export strategy is needed to provide continuing economic growth for Canada in the years ahead.

That is the theme of the film Export for Profit and Survival produced by the bank and shown to government officials and business leaders for the first time Monday.

The 25-minute film produced by Lauron Productions Ltd. of Toronto features interviews with more than a dozen Canadian businessmen who have successfully sold everything from drywall screws to yachts abroad.

R. A. Utting, Royal Bank vice-chairman, said the film underlines the potentia profits awaiting Canadian businesses in other countries and warns that Canada's share of world markets is shinking.

"There are too few Canadian businesses actively seeking trade opportunities outside our borders," he said.

Neufeld cited the need for more research and development in Canada, better transportation and more substitution of Canadian products can be improved.

He also said the bank's new world trade and merchant banking group would help improve export credit facilities and promote a stronger "export mentality."
